DEATH STALKS COLD WAVE

MAN MAROONED IN SNOW DIES OF HEART FAILURE; TWO PERSONS FROZEN

East Liverpool Shivers as Heavy Snowfall and Bitterly Cold Weather Send Mercury Down to Sub-zero Points During Night—Gas and Coal Supply Reported Meeting Demands.

29 DEGREES BELOW ZERO REPORTED BY CANNELVILLE, COLDEST OHIO TOWN

Telephone Service is Affected Here as 16 Toll Lines are Put Out of Commission, But Traction Cars and Railroad Trains Maintain Schedules—Weather Man Promises Relief Thursday.

As East Liverpool shivered last night and early today in the coldest weather of the winter, at least three deaths were reported in other cities.

Two are dead in Washington, D. C., and one in New York City. Two of the victims were frozen to death, while the other died of heart failure after being marooned in the snow.

Temperatures, ranging from seven degrees below zero in the city to 18 and 21 degrees below in the rural districts prevailed at 7 o'clock this morning. The mercury at 10 o'clock had risen to the zero point.

Telephonic services was crippled during the forenoon. Sixteen toll lines were out of commission, officials of the Ohio Bell company here reported. Twenty per cent of these lines were back into service at 9 o'clock, 50 per cent in operation at 10:30 and belief was expressed that all broken lines would be repaired by noon or shortly after. Telephone linemen were handicapped in their work by the cold weather.

Officials of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad company reported that street car and train schedules were being maintained in spite of the snowfall and sub-zero weather.

Break Expected Tonight.

The fuel supply for domestic use was O. K. today. The local office of the Manufacturers' Light and Heat company, yesterday, banned the use of gas to industrial consumers to conserve the supply for domestic purposes. Coal dealers reported orders plentiful, but there is no shortage of stock.

While today is believed to have been the coldest of the winter in East Liverpool, December 27 witnessed the most severe weather in Columbiana county, according to Lawrence Copeland, United States government observer at Millport, 15 miles west of here. Copeland's theremometer this morning read 10 degrees below zero. On December 27, it was 14 degrees below and 12 below on December 28.

Readings of 10 and 12 degrees below zero were reported from the Northside at 7 o'clock this morning. At Keil's greenhouse, near Stop 55 on the Y. & O., the mercury registered 18 below. West Point reported 21 below.

The cold spell is expected to break by Wednesday evening. Warmer weather, reported in the west, is moving eastward. "Snow with continued moderating temperature" is promised for Thursday.

Bitterly Cold in Capital.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The third anniversary of the collapse of the Knickerbocker theatre, which killed nearly a hundred persons, brought another heavy snowfall and bitterly cold weather to the capital.

Two deaths because of the drop in temperature were reported.

Good Samaritan Gets it in Neck as He Gives Drink

Adams proffered the package. It contained liquor.

Gasoline Prices Go Up Here as Mercury Takes Big Tumble

An increase of one cent per gallon in gasoline prices became effective in East Liverpool today.

The advance is said to be due to boosts in the price of crude oil which has jumped 25 cents per barrel during the last week. The Standard Oil company was the first gasoline producer to announce an advance, followed by independent producers and distributors.

Gasoline today is selling at 16 cents per gallon, wholesale or tank wagon rates, while the retail prices at filling stations is 18 cents. The increase is general throughout the state.

Three are Burned To Death When They Are Trapped in Rooms

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Three persons were burned to death today when trapped by fire in their rooms on the second floor of a two-story frame dwelling in Brooklyn. The victims were Monserole Dejusto, his wife and their son, Pietro, aged 2.

FALLS ON STOVE, FATALLY BURNED

CINCINNATI, Jan. 28.—J. H. Lyons, 65, built a big fire late Tuesday in the stove of his home in Cincinnati. He was standing near the fire trying to get warm when he suffered an attack of epilepsy. Falling on the stove he was burned to death.

HERO OF PORT ARTHUR IS DEAD

TOKIO, Jan. 28. — Gen. Nakamura, hero of Port Arthur, during Russo-Japanese war, died here today. He was 72 years old.

TURNKEY CLINE IS FREED ON BOND

ACHIEVEMENTS OF C. OF C. IN 1924 OUTLINED BY H. B. BARTH

175 WILL ATTEND

George Creel, Wartime News Censor, Will be Speaker.

Activities of the East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce during 1924 are reviewed in the ninth annual report compiled by Secretary H. B. Barth, which will be distributed at the meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. tonight.

George Creel, of New York, wartime news censor, will be speaker at the dinner which will be served at 6 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

Mr. Creel arrived here late this morning, coming from St. Louis, where he spoke last evening. He will spend the night in this city, leaving in the morning for his home.

His subject will be, "Current Events and Public Men."

President Betz's Foreword.

In the annual report foreword, Joseph Betz, president of the chamber, says:

"Many people of the community, during the past year, brought difficult problems of public concern to this organization for solution. A majority of the citizens have, whenever the occasion presented itself, expressed confidence in the attitude of the Chamber of Commerce on questions pertaining to public welfare. The members of this organization have good reason to feel proud of the confidence reposed in it.

"At the close of the ninth year the organization finds itself in a substantial condition. The chamber amply justifies its existence and constantly demonstrates its worthiness of the unstinted moral and financial support of the community."

Among the accomplishments, briefly reviewed in the report, are:

Opposed proposed Howell-Barkley bill, abolishing railway labor board.

Many Accomplishments.

Made application to Congressman Murphy for captured German artillery piece as war memorial.

Report of eighth annual meeting at Y. M. C. A., January 30, 1924, addressed by Warren S. Stone.

Board of Health Will Reorganize At Meet Tonight

Re-organization meeting of the board of health will be held in the Health clinic rooms in the Diamond at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Attorney G. L. Brokaw, who was appointed to succeed J. T. Croxall, who resigned December 1, will qualify. The board will name a president to succeed Mr. Croxall.

Monthly reports of Health Commissioner John Frazer, Sanitary Officer D. J. McKeever and Registrar of Vital Statistics Mrs. Alice M. Davidson will be submitted.

Modern Dance Termed "Immodest, Immoral And Wicked" By Church Of Christ Evangelist

Six-inch Separation Rule Has Been Discarded, Says Dr. Lockhart, Who Turns Guns on Terpsichore.

The modern dance was termed "immodest, immoral and wicked" by Evangelist W. J. Lockhart, of Des Moines, Ia., in his sermon, "Taking the Lid Off the Modern Dance," at the First Church of Christ last night.

"The modern dance breaks down all modesty, cultivates familiarity that leads to brazenness, and destroys that modesty and innocence that are the charms of young womanhood and the glory of manhood," the evangelist declared.

"It makes common the thing that ought ever to be sacred, unsoiled and untarnished until that day when a young man and a young woman stand in holy love at the marriage altar, there to give themselves to one another for all time.

"The modern youth is spoiling that great joy that ought to come to every man of loving one, just one grand woman, because he is frittering away that possibility by loving too many women in the modern dance.

Cites Evil in Dancing.

"This thing that is wrong about the dance is not the life not the music, not the mingling of men and women. The worst evil is not even the scandalous method of dancing the modern dance—for I tell you that when it comes to that place that a girl before she goes into the dance hall must check part of her wearing apparel so that there may be no obstructions to the perfect blending of the bodies in the embrace of the dance, there is something rotten in Denmark.

"The thing that is wrong about the dance, the big thing, is the intimacy that is permitted between sexes that no where else in decent or respectable society is tolerated.

"Mother, you will find the rule of the dancing master that your daughter tells you about, that the bodies must be kept six inches apart when dancing, has long since been discarded.

"Today we have the 'tango', the 'bunny hug, the 'grizzly bear', the 'turkey trot' the 'hose-shoe whilgig',

CHILD LABOR FIGHT NOT TO BE ABANDONED

One-fourth of States Have Rejected Amendment.

OHIO VOTES "NO"

State Senate Fails to Act on Duffy's Appointment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Sponsors of the constitutional amendment prohibiting child labor asserted today that the apparent failure of the amendment, through its rejection by one fourth of the states, would not result in their abandonment of the fight for its adoption.

The fight can and will, they said, be carried on by campaigns in the rejecting states, much after the manner of the eighteenth and nineteenth amendments were put through state legislatures.

The legislatures that have rejected the amendment can reconsider their action at any time in the future. Constitutional amendments remain pending for years, and time and circumstances may change the complexion of a legislature.

The campaign for ratification of the amendment is being directed by the American Federation of Labor and it was stated at labor headquarters today that there would be no change in the federation's plans in furtherance of the amendment, despite the unfavorable outlook.

Ohio Rejects Amendment.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—Ohio rejected the proposed child labor amendment late Tuesday when the house, by a vote of 91 noes and 35 ayes, defeated the ratification resolution after a long debate.

Although it is constitutionally possible for the ratification proposal to originate again in the senate, this move is not expected and the project is considered dead, so far as this session is concerned. Proponents hope to revive it two years hence, and to make it an issue at the next general election. The resolution of congress, submitting the proposed amendment to the states, fixed a seven years' time limit for ratification. Inasmuch as the amendment has been rejected by 13 states, the minimum number

Clyde C. Davidson Heads Masonic Temple Company Directors

C. C. Davidson was elected president of the board of directors of the Masonic Temple company at a reorganization meeting of the board and stockholders, held at the lodge temple in Broadway, last evening.

James Hodgkinson was chosen vice-president of the board and Joseph M. Blazer, secretary-treasurer.

Seven new directors were named. D. F. Nellis and Joseph Blazer were elected directors-at-large for terms of five years each, while the following representing each of the five Masonic bodies, were named for one-year terms:

R. H. Perry, Pilgrim Commandery No. 55, Knights Templar; George J. Phillips, Riddle Lodge No. 315; James Hodgkinson, East Liverpool Lodge No. 681; Joseph T. Croxall, Keramos Council No. 95, R. & S. M., and John Stamm, East Liverpool Chapter No. 100, R. A. M.

AMERICAN TENOR TO SING HERE

Charles Marshall, Great American Tenor.

CIVIC-MUSIC CONCERT FEB. 11

Charles Marshall, Chicago Opera Star, is Engaged.

Charles Marshall, leading dramatic tenor with the Chicago Civic Opera Company and noted concert artist in a Civic Music Association, who will be heard in concert here, February 11, is an American singer who has scored in opera both here and abroad.

He studied abroad with Lombard Sr., Vannucini and other great masters. Later there followed an impressive number of opera appearances in Italy, France, Turkey, Greece, Russia and Germany. It was this training and these appearances which formed the foundation for his great triumph in American opera. His concert successes have been no less the result of this early training.

Charles Marshall speaks of his European career as "a post-graduate course that was to prepare him to return home and do something worth while." He says of himself, "I am a Yankee, a plain down-easterner from Maine, although I have sung extensively in Europe under a Latinized version of my own name, Carlos Marziali. I permitted that name to stay with me until my great opportunity came with the Chicago Opera Company."

KLANSMEN GO TO HERRIN FOR YOUNG FUNERAL

TO PLACE BLAME

New Version of Responsibility for Four Killings.

BY JACK CEJNAR.

HERRIN, Ill., Jan. 28.—With the representatives of outside klaverns of the Ku Klux Klan arriving for the funeral tomorrow of S. Glenn Young, Williams county two-gun raider. The coroner's jury today resumed its probe of the gun fight Saturday night when four men were killed.

The principal witness today was Lige Green, former union official, with whom Young was quarreling when Deputy Sheriff Ora Thomas appeared on the scene. Witnesses yesterday asserted that Thomas entered the place with half drawn gun and fired the first shot in the battle fatal to four men. Green's story was to be, in effect, that Young held him with drawn pistols while he pleaded with Thomas not to draw his weapon and that Young fired first when he finally was pushed aside.

James S. Ratcher and John C. Glenn also were on hand to verify Green's story and to deny intimations made yesterday that they were responsible for shots which came from their direction.

Much may be learned from the testimony of Mrs. Angelo Biotti, who was in charge of her husband's store on the night of the tragedy and who was present when Young and his followers first came in the place.

Charter Special Car to Carry High Students to Salem

A special car over the Y. & O. railroad will be operated to Salem on Friday evening for high school students and others who expect to see Coach O. V. Boone's five in action against the Quakers.

The car is scheduled to leave the terminal at 5:30. After the game it will leave Salem at 10:15. Tickets, which will be sold at $1.25 for the round trip, can be obtained at Helme's, Weaver's and Russell's cigar stores.

RAIDER SPENDS NIGHT IN JAIL AFTER ARREST ON GUN CHARGE

Raymond Chambers and W. A. Calhoun go to Lisbon.

MAYOR EXPLAINS

Accused Officer Will Retain Place Pending Investigation.

W. A. Cline, city jail turnkey who surrendered to Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimerman, of Lisbon, at noon yesterday to a charge of stealing a revolver, valued at $40, preferred by Daum Appell, of the Campground road, was released from the county jail at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon on $1,000 bond.

W. A. Calhoun, of East Liverpool, was the surety.

Councilman J. Raymond Chambers accompanied Calhoun to Lisbon to arrange for Cline's release.

Cline, who pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday, spent the afternoon and last night in a cell at the county jail. His hearing has been set for Friday afternoon.

The accused officer will return to his home this afternoon.

Appell, who is a prisoner in the county jail, filed the charge as an aftermath of a liquor raid made upon his farm.

Substitute Turnkey.

Cline will be retained as turnkey at the city jail pending disposition of the case or, at least, until Mayor Brown has completed an investigation of the charge.

"I gave the gun to Cline a couple of weeks ago, when he told me that the revolver which had been issued to him was too heavy," the mayor said today. "The weapon was found on a barrel of mash when the police raided Appell's home and was regarded as part of the contraband supplies found in the house.

"The officers brought the still, gun and other supplies to the city jail and Cline, after Appell had pleaded guilty, asked me for the gun, stating that his own revolver was too heavy. I told him to take it.

"I have been told that he tried the gun out and found that it kicked and decided that he would keep his other revolver. He made his mistake in selling the revolver instead of turning it back to this office.

"Cline will be retained in the city's employment until he is convicted of the charge or until I have satisfied myself that he is guilty of the charge which has been brought against him."

For the last two nights Walter Torrence, of Church alley, has been on Cline's job at the city building.

STEAM SCALDS KLONDIKE MAN

Fred Ankron, 19, of Klondike, was scalded by steam while at work at the Treadwell Construction company's plant in Midland at 11 o'clock this morning.

The burns cover his right leg, side and arm. He was brought to the City hospital in the Shepler ambulance where he was attended by Dr. M. D. McCutcheon.

R. C. Sant Purchases Brother's Interest In John Sant Co.

Richard C. Sant today purchased the interest of his brother, Thomas Sant, in the John Sant & Sons company, clay brokers. He will become general manager of the company.

Thomas Sant plans to operate as an independent clay broker.

JEWELRY STORE BANDIT KILLED

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—One of five armed bandits who overpowered and robbed Israel Chornick in his jewelry store today and fled with gems valued at $8,000, was shot and instantly killed by a policeman. Another bandit was captured after a running pistol fight.

700 OHIO PASTORS ARE ASSURED SUPPORT IN LAW ENFORCEMENT FIGHT

Rev. F. A. Dean Hears Pledge Given at Columbus Banquet Tuesday Evening by Donahey and Crabbe.

Assured of the support of Governor Donahey and Attorney-General Crabbe in the fight for law enforcement, Rev. F. A. Dean, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church and president of the East Liverpool Ministerial association, returned home today after attending the sessions marking the two-day annual conference held in Columbus under the auspices of the Ohio Council of Churches.

More than 700 Ohio Protestant pastors were present at a banquet last night, when Gov. Donahey promised to co-operate with the clergymen. He assured the pastors that, "If lax mayors failed to do their duty after being repeatedly informed by the ministers of the existence of unlawful conditions such mayors will be looking at me across my desk in 24 hours".

Attorney General Speaks.

Attorney-General Crabbe, talking at the banquet, advised that if additional legislation is needed, the legislators confer upon the governor the power to say: "I'll remove you from office" for failure to enforce other laws besides liquor laws.

"What's wrong with Ohio is the element that insists on enforcing the law

EIGHT INJURED IN HOTEL FIRE

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 28—Eight persons were injured, two seriously, in a fire which wrecked the Baltimore hotel here during the zero weather this morning.

Firemen scaled ladders covered with ice from the play of the hose in rescuing 17 guests from the blaze that destroyed the building at loss of $20,000.

150 TO ATTEND KIWANIS DINNER

Jules Brazil Will Headline Thursday Night Program.

About 150 Kiwanians, their wives and friends are expected to attend the dinner-dance party to be given at the Country club, Thursday evening of this week. The dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. G. E. Lewis, club president, will preside. The program will be featured by Jules Brazil, a professional entertainer of Toronto, Canada. Dancing, music for which will be furnished by a Wheeling orchestra, will follow.

Attendance prizes have been furnished for the women guests. Reservations for the affair must be in the hands of Ralph Sayre, chairman of the attendance committee, not later than 5 p. m. today.

Two more applications for membership have been approved by the board of directors. The applicants are Harry B. Keyes, of the Keyes Motor Supply company, whose classification is "motor supplies," and John E. Newell, of near Chester, who is being enrolled as an "agriculturist."

Police Ban Coasting On Two Streets as Boy is Injured

Following yesterday's accident in which five-year-old Clyde Davis of Fawcett street, suffered a fractured skull, police today banned the use of Blakely and Vine streets for coasting purposes.

The two streets are declared to be unusually dangerous because of the intersections at Ravine street, one of the main thoroughfares between East End and down town.

"It is impossible for the automobile driver to see coasters coming down these streets, and no matter how careful one may drive there is always danger of a collision," said Chief McDermott.

Water Pipe Breaks, Firemen are Called From Warm Beds

With the thermometer registering below zero, members of the Central fire department were called from their beds at 6:30 o'clock this morning by an alarm sent in by an East Third street resident.

When the firemen arrived on the scene they found no fire but a broken water pipe in a dwelling at the corner of Third street and Farmer alley.

The department was also called to the home of George Bickle, Thompson avenue, yesterday afternoon, by a chimney fire, which caused no damage.

Coaster's Condition Unchanged; Truck Driver Exonerated

There was practically no change today in the condition of Clyde Davis, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis, 164 Fawcett street, who suffered a fractured skull in a collision with an automobile truck in a coasting accident at the corner of Blakely and Ravine street, yesterday morning. Hospital attendants reported the child as "holding his own."

Everett Bishop, driver of the truck, owned by R. J. Shepherd, St. Clair avenue butcher, was exonorated of all blame in the accident after being questioned by Mayor Brown, last evening. Bishop said that he was coming down the street slowly when the lad shot out in front of him off Blakely street. He swerved the truck into a fire plug in a futile effort to avert the crash. The lad was between the front wheels of the truck when he was picked up.

Fisher, Wilhelm And Thorn Retain City Board Places

Fisher is one of the two Democratic members of the board. Other members are C. V. Beatty, Democrat; W. S. Fowler and John T. Wood, Republicans.

The mayor also announced the reappointment of George Wilhelm and Hugh Thorn as members of the Carnegie library commission for three-year terms. Other members of this board are: Dr. Donald MacLeod, W. S. Foulks, Charles Pomeroy and C. C. Ashbaugh.

Bed Clothing Burns In Restaurant Fire In Wellsville Today

Bed clothing and other similar articles were burned in a fire which broke out this morning at 1:30 o'clock in Murphy's restaurant, Main street, Wellsville.

The flames, which started in a back room, were extinguished by firemen with little damage resulting. The cause is unknown.

Death Stalks

Dr. G. P. Lumsden, 70, a former commandant of the naval medical corps, died from heart failure after being marooned in the snow storm, and Archie Burrell, a negro, was found frozen to death in an unfrequented street.

At 7:30 a. m. the temperature was 2.9 degrees above zero.

Gotham Muffles Up.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—New York muffled up today as the mercury held onto about five degrees above zero. A coastal northeast gale followed yesterday's snow and sleet storm which left four inches of snow to impede foot and vehicular traffic.

More snow was predicted for Thursday with slightly warmer temperature.

The 30-degree drop in the thermometer caused one death, injuries to several persons and an attempt by a woman to commit suicide.

The zero weather is expected to last at least 48 hours.

OLEAN, N. Y., Jan 28.—This city and southwestern New York experienced the coldest weather of the season and a drop in temperature of 70 degrees within 36 hours. The coldest weather reported in the city this morning was 30 degrees below zero. The thermometer registered 40 above zero, Monday.

Chicago Still Shivers.

Ohio Weather Records Smashed.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28—All Ohio suffered from below zero weather early today. Temperature ranged from slightly below zero in the extreme northern part of the state to 10 or 12 below in the open spaces in southeastern Ohio, according to official readings received at the United States weather bureau here.

Official thermometer readings included: Cleveland, zero; Toledo, 2 below; Fort Wayne, 4 below; Columbus, 4 below; Cincinnati and Parkersburg, each 6 below zero.

Although rising temperature is predicted, weather bureau officials expressed belief that the mercury will not rise above the freezing point before Friday. A minimum of 8 or 12 deegrees above zero was forecasted for tonight. Increasing cloudiness, with probable snow Thursday is expected.

Ohio weather records of the past 50 years were smashed today, on the basis of unofficial reports of mercurial readings. Some points in Muskingum county reported 29 degrees below zero. In Hocking county, 22 below was reported at Logan and other points in that county. Perry county points, including New Lexington, reported 24 below.

Requests for food, clothing and fuel, from destitute families, were materially increased at offices of charitable organizations throughout the state.

Pennsylvania Suffers.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 28.—The coldest weather of the season struck Pittsburgh early today with a low temperature of 3 below zero officially reported at the local weather bureau. A temperature of 3 above was registered at 10 A. M., the lowest temperature in this section was 12 below at Etna according to the bureau's unofficial reports.

ZANESVILLE, Jan. 28.—Thermometers in this city recorded lower temperatures this morning, ranging from 15 to 20 degrees below. The coldest spot in the county, and possibly in the state, was Cannelville, a mining town, 10 miles south of here, where 29 below zero was reported. At the Ralph Rehl home, five miles west of the city on the National road, it was 26 degrees below.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 28.—The coldest day in several years was recorded here this morning when the mercury dropped to from 10 to 12 degrees below zero. Creeks froze overnight, while frost filled the air to a density of fog.

Modern Dance

the 'angel worm wiggle', the 'Salome glide', the 'shaking shimmy' and other up-to-date, cheek-to-cheek steps. You can't get a sheet of tissue paper between their bodies. Then tell me, there's no harm in the modern dance."

Opposes Dancing in Schools.

"The modern dance is different from the old Virginia reel and the square dances and the dance plays some of you folks used to know as a Methodist prayer meeting, is different from the wildest night of the wildest revel of a western cowboy carnival.

"If in colleges alone and among matured people, this devilish influence was at work, I would not fight it with such vigor, but they have inveigled it into our high schools under the guise of athletics at the social hour.

"It is a crime against youth to take our children at the adolescent age and throw them together in such intimate contact as the modern dance not only permits but requires. Girls every year are dropping out of high school with unfinished courses. And for every girl that fails there is a boy that falls as low."

The church auditorium was filled. Twenty persons were baptized at the close of the service.

Tonight Dr. Lockhart will preach on "Christian Bantism". Prof Harbinson will conduct a Bible drill in connection with this service. "Pottery Night' will be observed Thursday.

Members of the Sunday school are making a drive for an attendance of 1,200 at next Sunday's Bible school service.

as long as it does not hit them", said the attorney-general. He said that if laws were enforced half as well as they are enacted 90 per cent of the crime would be eliminated.

About 100 members of the state legislature attended the banquet. A number of the men walked out when Rev. L. C. Wright, Cleveland, making the final address, indicated that a political "big stick" would be used on house members who voted against ratifying the proposed child labor amendment.

Two Persons Killed, Three Injured When Train Hits Auto

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., Jan. 28.—Two persons were killed, a third probably injured fatally, and two others seriously hurt today when a fast Pennsylvania train hit an automobile at a crossing where it was said the crossing watchman failed to lower the gates.

The dead:

Mrs. Mary Urbanka and Joseph Kuchere, New Buffalo, Michigan, owner and driver of the car.

The injured:

Mrs. Joseph Spachman, New Buffalo, minor injuries.

The party were enroute to Chicago to attend the funeral of a son of Mrs. Spachman when the accident occurred.

the first Olympic world champion fencer. He is a nephew of the French ambassador to Switzerland, James Hennessy, the brandy king. The Marquis is one of the best swordsmen in France.

Has Daughter.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Gloria Swanson, who was married today in Paris to the Marquise Henri Delaflaise, is one of the world's most prominent as well as the world's highest paid film stars.

This is the third marriage of Miss Swanson. Her first husband was Wallace Beery, himself a motion picture player. Her second husband was Herbert Somborn of New York. By the second marriage she had a daughter, now living with Miss Swanson's mother in Hollywood.

Miss Swanson went abroad some months ago to make a motion picture. She was to have returned to the United States shortly to take the leading role in another film production.

Miss Swanson began her screen career in comedy roles at one of the Los Angeles studios.

Child Labor

necessary to insure its defeat, it is expected, Ohio legislators will take no further action on it.

Relief Bill Recommended.

After voting to insert numerous technical amendments aimed to correct flaws in the bill, the senate taxation committee today will recommend passage of the emergency financial relief bill, as amended. The committee will urge that the bill be printed as amended. This action will prevent its passage this week. Leaders at first had hoped that the measure could go to Governor Donahey before the close of the week.

The senate rules committee will report today, recommending confirmation of five short term appointments by the governor. No action was taken on the appointment of T. J. Duffy, East Liverpool, for a second term as a member of the state industrial commission. Governor Donahey, as a result, is understood to intend not to send any more appointments to the senate until Duffy's name is acted upon. The appointments to be recommended by the rules committee for confirmation are: Herbert B. Briggs, Cleveland; William C. Groeninger, Columbus; Peter E. Dempsey, Columbus; Edward J. Cavan, Cleveland, and John H. Clemmer, Akron, as members of the state bureau of standards.

FIGHTS CASE AND IS WINNER

Refusing Settlement, J. B. Tyson is Tried Before Jury.

James B. Tyson, colored, a resident of Wellsville, charged with assault and battery, retained the same fighting spirit he had when he was a member of the A. E. F. in France when his case was called to trial before Judge James G. Moore.

Tyson had been in jail about 70 days, having been bound over to the grand jury from the court of Justice Wallace L. Fogo of Wellsville. He was indicted by the January grand jury.

He retained Attorney Charles Boyd of Wellsville to defend him. Mr. Boyd and Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes talked the case over and the state was satisfied to have Tyson plead guilty and be fined $10 and costs. Then Mr. Boyd put the matter up to Tyson.

"Nothing doing," exclaimed Tyson. "We'll go before the jury and we'll die fightin'."

And before the jury Tyson went. A few witnesses were called. Then there was an argument by counsel before the jury. The court read its charge and out the jury went.

The jury was out but a little while. A foreman was quickly selected, and the balloting began.

The first ballot stood 11 to 1 for acquittal, and the second ballot was 12 for acquittal.

LECTURER WILL ANSWER QUERIES

"The man who has answered a billion questions." This is the familiar cognomen applied to Peter W. Collins, lecturer, industrial expert, and war figure, who will deliver an address tonight at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium here under auspices of Wellsville council, Knights of Columbus.

As a lecturer, Collins has campaigned against red radicalism, socialism, bolshevism, I. W. W. ism and other enemies of Americanism under the direction of the K. of C. supreme board of directors for the past decade. He has established a world's record for answering questions in the open forum held always at the close of his lectures.

Grand Knight P. W. Broderick announces that the lecture will be entirely free to the public and that Mr. Collins' hearers will be entitled to ask whatever question she or he may believe pertient to the subject of the lecture.

In his lecture Mr. Collins will deal with the potentiality for social disorders in the world and especially in America today and will define the forces that can successfully counteract the organized efforts to disrupt the present social status. His experiences with labor and capital have equipped him with an intimate knowledge of industrial disputes and his contacts with employers and employes enable him to understand thoroughly their viewpoints.

The program will be augmented by Pearch's Night Hawks, who will render several musical selections.

PRESENT BOOKS TO HIGH SCHOOL

An appropriate program has been arranged jointly by school authorities and representatives of the Junior Order of American Mechanics and the Daughters of America for the encyclopedia presentation Friday night in the high school auditorium. The exercises will be public.

The Junior Order and the Daughters of America recently purchased a complete set of the new International Encyclopedia and will present the set to high school students for reference work.

The Friday night program follows:

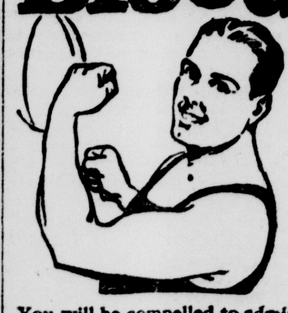
Power in the Blood!



You will be compelled to admit that the results of S. S. S. are really amazing!

MAN'S GLORY is his strength—yet how few there are who are really as strong as they should be. The blood thins, gets weaker, blood cells wear out—general weakness and a gradual break-down of the system results.

We know there is one thing that puts power in the blood, and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! We know that as blood cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! But have you ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought of it. So-called skin eruptions—pimples, boils, blackheads, eczema all pack up and go when the tide of blood cells begins to roll in. Blood cells are the fighting giants of Nature. S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood cell builders, blood cleansers and body builders known to us mortals. Here is your opportunity! S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs rheumatism, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Public Debt

Since budgeting has become the fashion, most people know more about how much they owe than they used to. But what citizen thinks to add his share of the public debt, which is saddled upon him less directly but no less surely than any personal or business debt?

Census bureau figures show that the public debt of the American people two years ago was about $31,000,000,000. It is probably more than that now. The total given means over $280 apiece for every man, woman and child in the United States. Call it an even $300 today.

This may not mean much to the single man, earning a good income and having nobody but himself to take care of. It means a great deal to the average head of a family, carrying a public debt burden of about $1,500 in addition to all his other obligations. That $1,500 draws interest, and he provides the interest money, whether he realizes it or not. As the principal is retired, he advances the money to retire it. He pays in taxes of many kinds, direct and indirect. He pays in the price of everything he buys, whether commodities or human service; for debt spreads itself through the whole economic life of a nation, taking toll in practically every payment that one person makes to another.

If there were a clearer realization of this, there would be a stronger demand than there is for public economy and a scaling down of public debt from its present eminence of six times as much as it was before the war.

A Wasteful Industry

Secretary of the Interior Work considers oil the greatest problem now facing this country.

"Unless new fields are discovered," he says, "and large new wells are drilled, the petroleum supply of the United States will be gone in 12 years."

He points out the lavish production of the present, more than a million barrels a day, and the irresponsible, unregulated competition that causes this drain. "Whenever a new field is brought in, the owners rush to drill it up. Oil is fugitive. Each well takes oil from across the line, and a lease, if not too large, can be drained by wells all around it. This is one of the reasons for the wild and costly drilling which uses up the oil so fast." The government itself can bear sad testimony to that fact.

The problem, suggests the secretary, is to find a way to stop the wasteful drilling and keep the oil in the ground until it is needed. That would be safer and cheaper than storage above ground. Statesmanship at Washington might well concern itself more seriously with that practical problem than with others more spectacular and political.

The world will not come to an end when the petroleum pools play out. There will remain vast stores of oil locked up in the oil shale deposits of the country. But it will cost more to utilize that supply. Economy and common sense demand that the easily available pools be made to last as long as possible.

The Crook Specialist

Specialization seems to prevail in the criminal world as in the world of honest trades and professions. A police official says that ordinarily a safe-blower would not think of a hold-up, nor a burglar of picking a pocket, nor a forger of breaking into a house, nor an automobile thief of any other form of thievery.

This may be because crime is becoming so highly developed that a man can seldom master two branches of it. Or it may be due mainly to human inertia. The official referred to suggests the latter explanation, observing that "the first big job" usually seems to determine what unlawful trade a criminal will follow.

This knowledge is being applied in detecting malefactors. Photographs of known criminals are sorted according to the specialties of each group, and are then sorted again according to height—the most obvious physical characteristic—for the convenience of identification by witnesses. This information might often be useful to honest citizens in general.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

FAITHFUL PUBLIC SERVANTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—A new conception of public officials is being built up in the minds of American citizens as the result of the services performed in recent years by men appointed to high places.

An outstanding example is found in Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon. Another in Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover. Others might be mentioned by the score.

Perhaps the greatest opportunity for personal profit ever opened to an individual was presented to Byron R. Newton. Mr. Newton was assistant secretary of the treasury during the war. He has special charge of an enormous number of contracts for government construction. It was a period when the public was accustomed to great expenditures and when little attention was paid to the circumstances of awarding contracts. For several years—in fact, all through the war period—Mr. Newton held this position. He worked early and late, signing contracts for millions upon millions of dollars worth of buildings. Finally he quit the job—flat broke. He had to get something else to do because the meagre salary he received was insufficient to support his family.

The case of Mr. Mellon is perhaps a sharp contrast, but no less interesting from the standpoint of public service. As Mr. Newton was a poor man, so Mr. Mellon is admittedly a very rich man. He has reached the traditional life span of three score years and ten. He has had a busy life in which he has mingled private business with public affairs. He established the Mellon institute, a scientific organization which makes investigations invaluable to industry.

CABINET CALL A SURPRISE

In his later years he was called into the cabinet by President Harding. The summons, it is said, was a distinct surprise to him. He had done his work in a quiet and unassuming manner. He had not sought publicity of any sort. It was upon recommendation of the late Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, that Mr. Harding invited Mr. Mellon to take up the tasks of secretary of the treasury.

The first public reaction to the appointment was that "one of those Pittsburgh millionaires" had been named, but it was not long before there was a change in sentiment. It was discovered that this "Pittsburgh millionaire" was not of the type which periodically goes to Broadway strewing dollars right and left. Washington and the rest of the country found that the treasury was headed by a quiet, rather diffident, elderly man who was extremely unassuming in social and official life, but who, when it came to making a deal for the government, proved to be a financial genius of the first rank.

Everyone who knew anything about the state of the nation was aware that the job of handling the post-war finances was a more difficult one than the raising of money during the hostilities. When the war enthusiasm was rife, when speeches were being made, when a highly organized publicity bureau was functioning, it was not so difficult to borrow money with which to pay for the war. But after it was over, there was a different story. It was the morning after. The war enthusiasm was past. The public was sick of the war, sick of taxes, sick of Liberty bonds. Yet the nation had to be financed.

This was the task undertaken by the diffident man from Pittsburgh. So, having reached an age at which most men retire, being in possession of wealth which would enable him to command any indulgence he might desire, having an unassailable social position, Mr. Mellon came to Washington at a salary no more than what hundreds of thousands of business men receive for services which are never heard of outside their own circles, and went to work.

NO EIGHT-HOUR DAY FOR HIM

He reports at his office daily at about 9:30 o'clock in the morning. He leaves around 7 o'clock in the evening—sometimes a little later—sometimes midnight. He receives about twenty callers a day on official business. He signs about a hundred documents a day. He reads scores of papers. In addition to receiving callers he consults daily with the assistant secretaries of the treasury and instructs them in the details of the work to be done. He has been doing this for four years. The salary he receives means nothing to him. He gives more than his year's salary to charities every month.

The other day a rumor was spread that Mr. Mellon was to resign. The stock market sagged as a result because of the general idea that if the diffident man from Pittsburgh left the government service, the country would be less secure. In answer to newspapermen's questions about his intentions, he replied: "I intend to remain here so long that you will tire of asking me if I mean to resign. That is—if the president wants me too."

Mr. Hoover belongs in the same general category. When he was called into the cabinet, it was known that he was a man of great wealth. As a matter of fact his wealth had been diminished by his previous public service. During the war he was food administrator. When President Wilson appointed him, he took up the work at once. Congress had appropriated no funds for the food administration, so Mr. Hoover, instead of waiting for slow congressional action, opened his bureau at once. Out of his private funds he rented a large building in Washington and from his own pocket he paid hundreds of clerks. This went on for some months. In the end congress appropriated the money to reimburse him for what he had spent, but, of course, did not indemnify him for the amount he had lost by withdrawing his money from his private business.

Others might be mentioned in long array to show the type of public servants the United States enjoys. During the oil leasing scandals, President Coolidge was asked what he thought was becoming of the government when such things could happen. His reply was that if as much attention was paid to the 99 per cent who are good and faithful servants of the government as had been paid to the 1 per cent of unfaithful ones, the public would understand that it had the most honest government in the world.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—The most important play of the season is undoubtedly "La Galerie des Glaces," the Gallery of Mirrors, by Henry Bernstein.

Only the title is at fault, declare the critics, for it is obscure. During the first days of its run many Parisians thought it must refer to the great ballroom of the Versailles palace, and concluded that the famous treaty might enter into the subject. As a matter of fact, it symbolizes the multiplicity and diversity of the aspects that a man placed in the center of his imagination, as in the center of a series of mirrors, receives from others as well as himself. Never the same reflection meets his glance. "Doubt" would have been a better title.

The play is in reality a serious study of a sick soul. A man, the hero, is trying to find the sincerity of the feelings one has for him, but forges countless pretexts not to believe them. He is a painter, and has proof of great talent, but discovers unnumbered reasons to destroy it. No matter how great love his wife proves for him, he falls into doubt and fears that she is only being moved by vengeance and that she will always long for the man who was his first husband and first lover.

These successive struggles in the mind of the painter form the whole drama. The action is almost unduely regulated by the movements of his inner feelings. The hero is a sick man, his case is pathological, in spite of the fact that the author persuades us the contrary.

Agnes is certain she will prove her love for the painter when she divorces her husband and marries the hero. They go off for a long journey, after which Charles seems almost healed, but it is not long before the old trouble returns.

Was not Agnes jealous upon learning that her husband, Lionel, had consoled himself with Gertrude?

Doubt is beginning to come back when Lionel is killed in an accident. Charles awaits the impression upon his wife and, finding that she is scarcely moved, begins to believe she must love him after all. But then—love is a little thing to pass so quickly. He is in doubt again. The curtain falls, leaving the audience to its conjectures as well.

If nobody loves a fat man, how about the slender woman? Do the men love the thin woman of today? This is the subject of an interesting questionnaire recently carried on in L'Avenir.

Writers, artists, intellectuals and business men have sent in their answers, which seem to show them favorable to the tube-like form of 1924. Most of them agree that it is the dressmaker's trick to keep woman eternally young. Thanks to present-day hygiene and sports, the woman of today does not "thicken" with age and thus conserves until extreme maturity the slender waist, hips and ankles of a young girl. All affirm that she is much unlike the Greeks of the golden age and the artists of the renaissance who favored great amplitude of form, to witness—the Venus de Milo, Michelangelo, Titian, Rubens and Rembrandt.

"Really beautiful women are only so when nude or draped," says the painter Louis Picard. "Try putting a hat and dress on the Venus de Milo. She would be ridiculous. The question of fat women and thin ones is not one of fashion, but of taste."

"The body is only a pretext," he declares. "Fashion is an art which is essentially decorative and, like all the arts, it adds a great deal of imagination to nature.

"I confess my liking for the charming extravagances of the slinky line of today. All the ladies are vertical and we approve and even admire, but if tomorrow curved lines should return and with them crinolines and hoops, everyone would be just as happy."

The celebrated painter, Federico Beltram Masses, thinks lovely woman's form should be that of a guitar, which was considered the perfect type by the ancient Hindoos. This is what is called the "mock thin" of today, slim waist and hips with thighs well developed.

When the Prince of Wales becomes king, it is claimed, he will be the world's most-traveled monarch. Having visited India, Canada, the United States and Australia, his next three big trips will take him to South Africa, Argentina and Ireland.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

I wonder who scouts around for deserted barns upon which to paint chewing tobacco signs. Pathetic old age—the lonely fellows who hold up "Stop" signs at obscure railroad crossings. The levee and sidewheel steamers at St. Louis. And the hubbub of life at the Union station.

Perhaps they call it the "effete east" because they have manicure maids on trains east of the Mississippi. An Indiana farm house in the clearing "Candle lights gleaming through the sycamores"—just like the song. Why do they call it "Terry Hut?"

You know Dayton, O., by the clang of the grade crossing bells. Has any one ever opened a train window with a single effort? There is an intangible dignity about Columbus, O. *!bj ! zznuy! All of which means the typewriter slid off into my lap.

Pittsburgh at night resembles a python with eyes of burnished yellow. With a lacy background of dancing flames—as bright as peacocks. Pittsburgh oozes industrial strength more than any city in the world. It reeks of grime and sweat, yet is beautiful.

The capital at Harrisburg—austere and aloof. A thin slice of moon. And an overturned sled on a country road. Rabbit tracks down to a tiny stream. Birch trees laden with frozen crystals. Puffs of train smoke cascading over fields of corn stubbles.

The kid-glove purileus of Philadelphia. Country estates given over to a scherzo of high flown names, fancy butlers, porte cocheres and brick walled gardens. Trenton, Newark—and New York.

I have in the past three weeks traversed the following states—New Jersey, New York, District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Georgia and Pennsylvania. Each gives you a different impression. Outwardly Pennsylvania is the showiest. The composite impression is of the immensity of America as compared to European countries. Somehow I feel the deepest and most sincere pride in our country takes root in the middle west.

About the most exciting event on this trip happened on a train. Upon returning from the diner the stateroom door was found locked. The conductor and porter were firm in their statement it could only be locked from within. Some one was inside. The door was pounded and the buzzer sounded. No answer. After a wait of 15 minutes it was decided to jimmy the door. The porter whispered a blood curdling suggestion. Some passenger had gone in there and committed suicide. He even thought he heard the report of a pistol shot shortly before. The door refused jimmying. The lock was unscrewed and a breathless crowd that had gathered from other cars awaited the verdict. The conductor went in and found everything normal. The only explanation is that a lurch of the train threw the inside catch. Great mystery novels have been fashioned of thinner material.

It is because the mightiest city New York belongs to the world that we should all be interested in it. It has been made by people from your town and mine. I always approach it with the same curious feeling of wonder. Just now we are thundering under the river and experiencing that strange stoppage in the ears. The razzle dazzle of a life left off three weeks ago is renewed. I wonder if my little dog will be down to the station to greet me. Copyrighted, 1925, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

DINNER STORIES

One of the witnesses before a grand jury appointed to inquire into a case of alleged bribery in a local election stated that he had received $25 to vote Republican, and in cross-examination it was elicited that he had also received $25 to vote Democrat.

The jury foreman, in amazement, repeated:

"You say you received $25 to vote Republican?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you also received $25 to vote Democrat?"

"Yes, sir."

"And for whom did you vote at the finish?"

"I voted according to my conscience!"

In Texas they still tell the story of the Englishman who imported a famous wolfhound from Europe in order to gain wealth by catching wolves, for which the state paid a bounty of $10 a head.

When the dog came he invited some dyed-in-the-wool Texans to see the first chase. Before long a wolf was sighted, the dog was freed from his leash, and the chase was on, but though the party wandered mile after mile they found no trace of either the dog or the wolf. Finally they reached a clearing where a native was chopping wood, and the Britisher cried: "I say, old chap, did you see a wolf and a hound pass by here?"

"Sure did. They just passed."

"And how was the race?"

"Pretty hot, stranger; but the dog was a little bit ahead."

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

SHOOTING IT OUT

For a picture of civilization in 1925, study events in Herrin, Ill., when Glenn Young, engaged in "cleaning up bootleggers" for the Ku Klux Klan," and Ora Thomas, sheriff, once jailed for bootlegging, decided "to shoot it out."

They sot it out in a cigar store, both were killed and two others in the store were killed.

The widow of Young, who had locked up more than 125 bootleggers and now lies in an undertaker's shop, dressed in the purple robe of a "kleagle," says, "My husband played the game straight."

He certainly played it to the end and "shot it out" to a bitter finish.

Mrs. Young, the widow, represents in her way our peculiar civization of klan, anti-klan, bootleg and prohibition. She is totally blind; somebody trying to kill her husband shot out her eyes. This interesting incident of our civilization will seem queer to people that read about it ten thousand years hence.

THE BOOTLEG BOSS

One venerable citizen yesterday uttered the new complaint.

"Once in a while, in my business, I have to ask a favor from a political boss. In the old days the boss was somebody that had grown up with the community, somebody that understood the people, often an Irishman.

"Now, when I want to see the boss, it's a young bootlegger, often scracely able to speak English. Bootlegging brings in so much ready money that the bootleggers have crowded out the old time bosses."

FEAR AND BRUTALITY

In Washington an aged Negro barber, E. C. Washington, seeing the sun going out during the eclipse, decided that it meant the end of the world, ran amuck, razor in hand, and slashed one man before he was overpowered. He acted quite naturally.

Fear takes men back to the animal condition and makes animals of them.

You see it in war, when horrible brutalities, often disgrace both sides.

Fear has more to do with fighting than courage. You see what fear does in shipwreck, causing men to trample down women and children fighting for the lifeboats.

It is perfectly natural that the ancient Negro, frightened by the world coming to an end, should instinctively feel that he wanted to cut somebody with his razor. That's what fear does.

The strange thing is that anybody should be worried about the world end. The same thing would happen to everybody, and nobody, except, perhaps, the real estate owner, would have cause for special protest.

French flyers, on their way to Lake Tchad in the Sudan, landed at Oolomb Bechar in the Sahara desert, promptly on time, reaching their first stopping place at 3:30 Sunday afternoon.

While this country, where flying machines were invented, wishes it had flying machines, and does nothing, European countries manufacture and use them. British companies make three round trips a day between Paris and London, carrying passengers. The round trip costs $60 and the journey takes three hours. It used to mean a train from London to the English channel, then the steamboat across the channel, then a train from the channel to Paris. Now it means one short straight flight.

The French and British governments subsidize commercial flying, as they should do, and as this country should do. Tbhey encourage aircraft manufacturers, that they may have plants ready and able to turn out machines in case of emergency.

WEEK-END FLYERS

This country will fly eventually, after having watched and waited for Europe and Japan to teach us.

The day is coming when winter resorts, summer resorts and mountain resorts will look up into the sky every Friday afternoon to see the week-enders come flying from the big cities. The father in New York, Boston, Detroit, Chicago, will send his family to a warm place in winter, a cool place in summer, and distance won't matter. To fly a thousand miles to spend a week-end and fly back again for business on Monday will be no more than going now from New York to Atlantic City, or from Milwaukee to Oconomowoc.

A great change is coming in transportation. Henry Ford starts it with his steamships that leave the heart of this continent, starting from the River Rouge, in the Great Lake region, stopping to unload at seaports, all along the coast and around on the Gulf of Mexico.

Coming back those ships will soon organize return freight of local products, which will be the beginning of economical distribution.

The watchword of the future will be freight by water, passenger travel through the air.

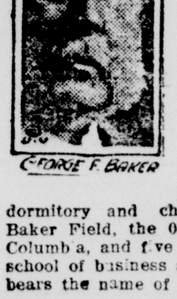
WHO'S WHO

GEORGE F. BAKER.

Dean of New York bankers and one of the leading financiers of America is George F. Baker, in whose honor a testimonial dinner was given recently by the New York State Bankers' association.

George F. Baker was born on March 27, 1840, in Troy, N. Y. When he was eight years old the family moved to Brooklyn, and his father engaged in the shoe business in Maiden Lane, N. Y.



GEORGE F. BAKER

In 1863 when Secretary of the Treasury Salmon P. Chase conceived the idea of selling bonds through the banks, and the national banking system was evolved, Baker was offered a position as teller in one of these nationay banks in New York—a bank which was formed with a captal of $200,000.

In latter years he has been a great giver. To the Red Cross he gave $2,000,000 during the war. He has given a student dormitory and chemical laboratory to Cornell; Baker Field, the 0 acres for athletic purposes, to Columbia, and five million dollars for the graduate school of business administration of Harvard, which bears the name of the George F. Baker foundation.

The printed record of last year's proceedings in both houses of congress contains 19,575 pages and is equal to a 10-page newspaper of solid reading matter for 300 days. And somehow, the easier talking and printing become, the harder it is to get direct action.

SOCIETY

Miss Ethel Mercer Hostess at Pretty Announcement Party

A pretty party took place last evening in the East Liverpool Country club, when Miss Ethel Mercer entertained a group of friends at a 6 o'clock dinner. As the guests entered the club house, they were greeted by little Miss Arlene Sturgis of Chester, dressed as a bride, who presented each with a sweetheart rose, which bore a heart, announcing the engagement of Miss Grace Gamble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Gamble of West Fourth street, to Edwin W. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard of Covington, Va.

The table decorations were carried out in a color scheme of red and white. Centering the table was a mound of rosebuds and sweet peas, while at each place were smaller mounds, arranged with asparagus fern. Miniature brides and bridegrooms, bearing the names of each guest, served as place cards. Covers were arranged for 12 persons.

Miss Gamble, who is employed at the Potters' National Bank, was the recipient of an engagement gift. Mr. Howard is a Pennsylvania railroad engineer.

The wedding will be an event of the near future.

Ladies of Elks Entertain.

The Ladies of the Elks entertained yesterday afternoon with an informal card party ,which was followed by a dinner at 5:30 o'clock, at which covers were arranged for 40 persons. The husbands and families were special guests.

The table was centered with a large bouquet of rosebuds and asparagus fern. The dinner was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Clarence Boring, Mrs. Thomas Anthony and Mrs. Samuel Burgess.

The next party will be held Tuesday evening, February 3, the husbands being special guests. Mrs. Joseph Webber will be the hostess.

Preparations are being made for the annual dinner-dance to be given by the Elks' ladies on February 24.

M. E. Church Class Dinner

The Queen Esther and Standard Bearer socieites of the First Methodist Episcopal church were entertained Monday evening in the social rooms of the church with a 6 o'clock dinner, which was served by a committee of girls, with Miss Jane Dorrance as chairman. Following the dinner, Miss Mayme Davidson was in charge of the Home Mission lesson from "Adventures in Brotherhood." A talk on Chinese customs and foreign work was given by Miss Rachel Nease. Miss Susan Smith gave a vocal selection.

It was decided to hold a valentine party for the young men and women of thec hurch, in the gymnasium, Friday evening, February 13.

Mrs. R. R. Bode Hostess.

Mrs. R. R. Bode was hostess last evening at her home in Bradshaw avenue to the members of the Mizpah club. Four tables of five hundred were in play during the social hours. Souvenirs were awarded Mrs. James Scully and Mrs. John C. McNicol. Guest prizes were given Mrs. A. W. Strauss and Mrs. John T. McNicol.

At the close of the playing a five-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Alice Capwell, Mrs. Joseph Gape, Mrs. M. J. Lynch and Mrs. John Naughton. Valentine decorations were carried out with a color scheme of red and white in the appointments. Miniature bonbon baskets were given each guest as favors.

Special guests included Mrs. A. W. Strauss, Mrs. J. T. McNicol, Mrs. E. D. Ryan and Mrs. Alfred Sullivan.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Charles McNicol of Lincoln avenue in two weeks.

Miss Helen Lewis Hostess

An enjoyable program was given by the members of the Helen Gould Literary club, last evening, when the club was entertained at the home of Miss Helen Lewis of Virginia avenue, Chester. The response to roll call was the name of a Galsworthy play, after which the life of Bernard Shaw was discussed by Mrs. Charles Douglass. The Galsworthy play, "Justice," was the topic of Mrs. Walter Smith.

Informal social hours followed the program, during which a luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Helen Allison.

The next meeting will be held February 10, at the home of Mrs. Walter Smith of Peake street.

Bridge Party at Beaumont Home.

Mrs. Dudley Beaumont delightfully entertained a group of friends at her home in Main street, Wellsville, Monday evening. Three tables of bridge were in progress during the social hours. The home was attractively decorated with jonquils. Trophies were awarded Mrs. William Ward and Miss Gladys Arnold.

Amoma Class is Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ibbs entertained the members of the Amoma class of the First Baptist church, last evening in their home in Jefferson street. Mrs. Ibbs is president of the class. A 6 o'clock chicken dinner was featured, at which covers were arranged for 40 guests. The home was attractively decorated for the occasion. Mrs. Ibbs was assisted in serving by Mrs. Kenneth Shenkle, Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mrs. Charles Papo and Mrs. W. H. Cook.

The social hours were spent with games which had been arranged by Mrs. W. F. Lones.

Special guests were Rev. and Mrs. A. H O'Brien, Mr and Mrs. W. F. Lones and Miss Carrie Southwick of Wellsville; Mrs. Elmer Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Shenkle.

Entertains World-wide Guild.

Last evening, in her home on Thompson avenue, Mrs. A. G. Ellis entertained the members of the World-Wide Guild of the First Baptist church with a six o'clock coverdish party. The guests were seated at two tables placed in the dining room of the home. Valentine novelties were used in decoration. Places were arranged for 26 persons.

Piano, victrola and radio music was enjoyed. Mrs. Ellis gave a vocal selection.

Special guests were Miss Frances Soule and Miss Pauline Pickens.

How to Solve It

Every number indicates the beginning of a word—if horizontal, crosswise, until the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, downwards until the first shaded stop below. Compare the synonyms in the appended lists to the spaces in the diagrams and fill in the words you know. These will give you clues to the more difficult words. When completed the words should interlock perfectly.

Symphony Club Meeting.

One of the most delightful meetings of the year was held last evening by members of the Symphony club at the home of Mrs. C. J. Zange of Moore street, when Mrs. Zange and Miss Genevieve Hannan were associate hostesses.

The chapter in the study book on "Acoustics in Music" was given by Miss Helen Welsh. The evening was spent with music by women composers. Miss Lydian Bennett sang "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond; Mrs. Thomas H. Newcomb, "A Little Pink Rose" and "A Perfect Day" by Bond; Miss Helen Walker, "His Lullaby" and "Longing" by Bond; "The Flatterer" by Chaminade, was a piano duet played by Miss Grace Smith and Miss Adda McLane. Miss Smith gave a piano solo from Chaminade, "Serenade," after which Miss McLane played "Callirhoe." The works of Liza Lehmann were discussed, after which Miss Alice Stevenson sang "Daddy's Sweetheart." Miss Thelma Ankrim gave two miscellaneous songs, "Out of the Dusk" by Lee and "Just Been Wonderin'" by Church.—adv.

When your back aches

Enjoy the warming comfort of this quick-acting liniment

When your back is lame after a hard day, comfort those tired, overworked muscles with Sloan's.

No tiresome rubbing! Just pat it on gently. The marvellous effectiveness of the liniment itself does the work. Its highly stimulating ingredients send freshly purified blood to the painful spot, and this increased supply of fresh, new blood builds up broken-down tissue and washes away fatigue poisons.

Swiftly tense muscles begin to relax, aching and soreness pass away! You find yourself free of tormenting pain. All druggists—35 cents.

Sloan's Liniment kills pain!

REV. H. KAYE GIVES SERMON

New Castle Evangelist Speaks to Big Crowd Last Night.

A large crowd attended the services in the Pennsylvania avenue Church of Christ, last evening, when Rev. Harry Kaye, of New Castle, Pa., delivered a forceful sermon. Members of the Teachers training class attended.

Rev. Kaye's subject was the "gospel of the Road Signs" and was found in the book of Proverbs, 16:17.

This evening his subject will be "In the Potters House." A special invitation is given to all potters and their friends to hear this discourse.

In his sermon last evening, he spoke in part as follows: "We find that this old life is nothing but highways. When a man tries to occupy the whole road, then there is bound to be trouble, but if he keeps on the right side, all is well.

Our prisons today are filled, because the occupants have not kept to the right, keep to the right in your public life, and keep to the right all of the time. There are a lot that think they are the only ones that travel on the highway, that is true in our every day life as well as our religious experience.

How much safer this old world would be if every one put into practice the Golden Rule. True christianity is the absence of selfishness. This old world is sadly in need of the lubricating power of christian courtesy.

We find that there is a welcome and a warning in the promise of Jesus Christ. If you and I will only listen to that welcome, what will we see?

"We will see that new Jerusalem that Jesus said he went to prepare for us. Those that arre turning down the shed blood of Jesus Christ are the ones that should take the warning. If you do not, God's jail awaits you. The highway that God has prepared never wears out. Jesus Christ is the way and there is no other. This highway has never been closed for repairs. Saul found that the road was good enough for him and many have gone over that highway since and found no devastation.

"The highway is still open. Don't let any of us try to detour, there is no other road, they are all closed for repairs, but this one grand and glorious highway is open for all traffic, the traffic that belongs to Christ, they alone are the ones that traverse this road.

"If you have taken a detour and have left the main highway of Jesus Christ, for your sake and for the sake of the one that loves you so, won't you drive over on the right highway that is open for you tonight, the one that always is in repair, ready for you to enter and find that there is peace and contentment?"

Mid-Week Services.

Prayer meeting services will be held this evening in the churches where no revivals are in progress. Pastors will be in charge of the meetings.

KIDNEYS NEED LOTS OF WATER AT TIMES

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatism twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

LODGE OFFICERS TO BE INSTALLED

Tri-State Encampment will install officers this evening in the Hill building, Mulberry street. Delegations of Odd Fellows are expected to attend from the various lodges throughout the district. Lunch will be served at the close of the meeting.

Many Attend Services.

Large crowds continue to attend evangelistic services which are being conducted by Rev. R. G. Wilkin of Freeport, Ill., in the Oakland Free Methodist church. Rev. J. O. Archer is assisting in the meetings which will close Sunday evening.

Over Night That Sore Inflamed Throat Gets Better

Why bother with slow acting remedies that may and may not help your raw sore throat, when two or three gargles with Kojene before you go to bed at night will reduce the inflammation, destroy any and every germ and cause the soreness to go before morning.

If by any mishap Kojene doesn't do this Carnahan's Drug Store, Jesse D. Holloway, Mathews Cut Rate store or any progressive druggist anywhere will gladly return the 60 cents you pay for a six ounce bottle.

Read the directions for sore throat as Kojene, the world's most powerful antiseptic, should be diluted to obtain quick results. Kojene is nonpoisonous—you can drink it if you want to.

Noted Racing Driver In "Speed Spook" At Ceramic Theatre

No other automobile racing driver in the world has been put to the acid test of courage and stamina as has Harry Hartz, whose racing car is shown to advantage in "The Speed Spook," which is now playing at the Ceramic with Johnny Hines in the feature role. In the speedway qualifying trials, which call for a rate of 105 miles per hour before a driver is allowed to enter any of the great automobile classics, Harry Hartz had his motor tuned so perfectly that instead of being satisfied when his car made the necessary qualifying speed at the Altoona Speedway recently, he kept giving his machine all the gas it could stand, with the result that he eventually hurtled his car around the fast board track at the unprecendented speed of 128 miles per hour, which constitutes a new world's record. In "The Speed Spook," at the Ceramic, Hartz is seen making his record-breaking performance. This driver is known as the hard-luck racer of the automobile track, for despite his uncanny ability to drive a car, Lady Luck seems never to be with him.

Last year at Altoona he was forced out of the race by trouble, and smiled. Only a few weeks later at Kansas City the same thing happened, but still he smiled. At the coast, when his luck was worst, he never faltered. Harry isn't married, but he should get credit for that, as enough of "them" have liked him. He was born at Pomona, California, and when a young ster he became the cycle car champion of the neighborhood. Neighbors declare that he raised a howl because his nurse wasn't fast enough in pushing his go-cart.

Harry's first big race was at Los Angeles in 1921, where he graduated from Eddie Hearn's "college," being elevated from the degree of mechanician. He finished well up in the money there, and later won the 150-mile event at Fresno. In 1922 and again in 1923 he was second at Indianapolis, a feat never before equaled. He was also second to Tommy Milton last September in the 100-mile dirt championship at Syracuse.

Hartz can easily be recognized in "The Speed Spook" by his number 4 car, which took fourth place in the Altoona championship 250-mile race where these racing scenes were taken for Johnny Hines' latest feature comedy.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

LAUGHS, THRILLS AND TEARS IN NEW FILM

"ARE YOU A FAILURE?" CONTAINS EVERY ELEMENT TO ENTERTAIN

If you want to laugh, thrill and grow tender all in one too brief evening, take the reviewer's advice and see "Are You a Failure?" which opens tomorrow at the American theatre. For good, clean, fast action he has seen nothing so far to equal it this season.

The hero, portrayed by Lloyd Hughes, is a failure; humiliated before everyone, he is made to feel his lack of pep and go the more because of the reputation of his father as an intrepid river boss.

The love of the girl, played by Madge Bellamy, and an advertisement seen by chance and headed by the pertinent query, "Are You a Failure?" decided his fate. He sends for the course of instructions and immediately things begin to happen. He is caught in a log jam, he quells a riot, whips his worst and most bullying enemy, and is almost carried over a falls on a log before his course is complete. Without spoiling your pleasure it may be said that the conclusion leaves nothing to be desired.

Permanent roads are a good investment —not an expense

An Extra Gasoline Tax of from 6 to 20 Cents Per Gallon

Your gasoline bills run into real money.

But have you ever stopped to figure how much of this is in the form of an incredibly high gasoline tax?

Let's see what happens when you leave the Concrete Highway and take to a gravel or a dirt road.

Conclusive tests have proved that a gallon of gasoline will carry you only two thirds as far on a gravel road as on a Concrete Road. On a dirt road a gallon of gasoline will carry you only half as far as on Concrete.

With gasoline at twenty cents a gallon, you would thus pay a gasoline tax of more than 6 cents per gallon on the gravel road and 20 cents a gallon on the dirt road.

And remember that every time you travel on either a dirt or a gravel road you also increase wear and tear on tires and run up your general repair bills.

Why continue to pay these high taxes and get nothing in return but the discomfort and inconvenience of unpaved roads and streets?

Let your local officials know you want an adequate system of Concrete Roads and Streets. They are just as willing to build them as you are anxious to get them.

But they must have your support.

HOMECOMING IS PLANNED HERE

The committee, which is composed of R. L. Parker, O. O. Allison, G. A. Arner, Mayor Frank Riley, W. C. Lynch, M. E Eppley, George C. Holliday and F. S. Huff, Jr., organized by electing the following officers: Chairman, R. L. Parker; vice chairman, F. S. Huff; secretary, George H. Holliday; treasurer, O. O. Allison.

Tentative plans were discussed for the celebration, which is expected to prove one of the biggest events ever held in the city. While no dates were fixed, it was agreed that it would take place either the latter part of August or the first week in September. Suggestions that the affair embrace three days was approved by the committee.

Chairman Parker was authorized to name seven committees to handle details of the preliminary work.

STATE MUNICIPAL LEAGUE TO MEET

Arrangements were being completed today for the second annual conference on state beautification to be held in Charleston February 17 and 18 in connection with the annual meeting of the West Virginia Municipal League.

Advertising West Virginia will be the theme of the conference, according to the tentative program which includes an address on this subject, by John C. Bond, state auditor, a report from the committee on location of a national park in West Virginia and statements from delegations on beautification program sponsored by each.

On the second day of the conference the legislative committee of the West Virginia Municipal League, members of which include Julia W. Ruhl of Clarksburg, George I. Neal of Huntington, C. M. Seibert of Martinsburg, and James A. Sigafoose of Moundsville, will hold an executive session.

Mill Resumes Operations.

Hot mills and other departments of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company resumed operations today following a loaf of several days.

To Reorganize Society.

Meeting will be held tomorrow evening in the First Presbyterian church when the Christian Endeavor society will be re-organized.

RED PEPPERS WILL HEAT AWAY PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It cannot hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any good druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

HEAL SKIN DISEASES

Apply Zemo, Clean, Penetrating, Antiseptic Liquid

It is unnecessary for you to suffer with Eczema, Blotches, Ringworm, Rashes and similar skin troubles. Zemo will usually give instant relief from itching torture. It cleanses and soothes the skin and heals quickly and effectively most skin diseases.

Zemo is a wonderful, penetrating, disappearing liquid and is soothing to the most delicate skin. It is recommended for daytime use because it doesn't show. Get it today from any druggist and save all further distress. Trial bottle 35c, large size $1.00. Zemo Soap, 25c.

CHILD LABOR BILL ACTION DEFERRED

Action by the West Virginia legislature on the proposed child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution was deferred yesterday when the state senate adopted a motion from the majority leader, Senator Wright Hugus, referring to the judiciary committee a resolution that would have rejected the amendment. The resolution was introduced yesterday by Senator H. P. Henshaw, Democrat, and its reference to committee followed a conference of Republican senators just before the session.

The House of Delegates began its session by giving unanimous consent to throw open again for debate a reslution on road construction, which it had tabled yesterday.

Delegate Belknap of Braxton county spoke in behalf of his resolution which would urge the road committee to complete grading all roads connecting county seats before undertaking paving work.

With only two days left before the constitutional limitation brings an end to the initial session of the legislature members of both branches were expected to add to the avalanche of bills. However, with the total of bills in the House standing last night at 364 and the figure in the Senate at 229 it was a question whether high records of previous years would be reached.

FOLLANSBEE FIVE SCHEDULED HERE

Chester high basketball team will meet the fast Follansbee five on the Rock Springs park floor Friday evening. The preliminary game will bring together the Freshmen and Sophomores of the local school.

Follansbee holds a victory over the locals, having captured a hard fought game on their own floor last Saturday evening. Supporters of high are confident the tables will be turned in the return clash.

High team will journey to Weirton Saturday night where they will meet the team of that place.

Bake Sale Arranged.

Members of the Philathean class of the First United Presbyterian church will conduct a bake sale Saturday afternoon in the Kimball grocery store, Fifth street and Carolina avenue. Proceeds will be used in procuring some special equipment for the church.

Evans Funeral.

Funeral services for Harry D. Evans, 43 years old, who died as a result of injuries received in an auto accident, which were held this afternoon at the home of his brother, R. C. Evans, Hollidays Cove.

Burial was made in Nesley chapel cemetery.

Gets English Station.

William C. Allison, Louisiana avenue, has received official confirmation of hearing New Castle, England, over his radio during the test week held last November.

County Court To Meet.

Monthly meeting of the county court will be held next Monday at New Cumberland. Number of important matters will be taken up at this session by the board members.

Fancywork Club Meeting.

Eastern Star Fancywork club will meet tomorrow evening at 7:30 in the Masonic temple, First street. Hostesses will be: Mrs. Frank Gregg, Mrs. Bernard Shaw and Mrs. John Rice.

A Delightful Row

"My wife had suffered from stomach and liver trouble for many years and had taken medicine enough to sink a ship; so when I brought home a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, on the advice of my employer, she refused to take it. Her liver trouble hadn't helped her disposition any. We had a big row, but she took it the next week. Her ailments have all disappeared." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. ROAD PROGRAMS BEING FRAMED

Township Trustees Plan Improvements During Summer.

With the winter season being at the tag end, many boards of township trustees have begun to consider their road improvement program for the spring and summer season. Just how much road improvement will be put through this year is hard to forecast at this time, although the road projects of the county commissioners is pretty well in hand.

The trustees of Middleton township are interested in getting an improved highway through from East Liverpool north to East Palestine, and it is said by some of these trustees that the trustees of St. Clair township look with favor upon the extension of the improvement of the graded road in Middleton into St. Clair township.

The improvement of this road, Middleton trustees believe, will be completed and surfaced before the close of 1926, but the grading on this section of the road in Middleton will be completed soon.

Middleton trustees expect that the county commissioners and trustees of St. Clair township will come to some agreement about the grading of this part of the road in St. Clair and on the same basis as the grading was done in Middleton township.

Hanover township trustees are also anxious to get an improved road from the Lincoln Highway at Hanoverton through north to tap the Cox Highway at Salem. The route for this road has been selected and approved by the State Highway department, and Hanover township has money available to put into the project, it has been pointed out.

State aid is also being sought for the resurfacing of Inter county highway No. 7, west of Wellsville and along Clark avenue. Jefferson county it is said, proposes to improve the brick section of this highway up to the Jefferson-Columbiana county line, and may put this project through this year.

On account of the condition of the paved section of the Lincoln Highway in Madison township, it may follow that this top will be improved by the county this year.

Widening of the Lisbon-Salem road in Centre township is also being considered by the State Highway department, and north from the township-Lisbon corporate line.

As soon as the weather opens, contractors will resume work on those projects which were started last year.

Light Installed.

Electric lights have been installed in the West Point Grange Hall, Madison township, and now both floors are brilliantly lighted at night. The first public entertainment the Grange will have since this improvement as completed will be the presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," next Friday night.

JURORS EXCUSED UNTIL TUESDAY

There will be no more jury cases in Lisbon this week, the jury having been excused by the court Tuesday evening.

Those who did not desire to return for jury duty next Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock so advised the court and others who desire to continue service also made the fact known.

All of the criminal cases assigned for trial this week have been disposed of. Nine divorce cases will be heard by the court Friday morning, according to the assignment for the current week.

FRANK HATCHER FREED BY JURY

U. Frank Hatcher of East Liverpool, indicted by the January grand jury on a charge of abandoning legitimate children, was acquitted of the charge by a mixed jury in criminal court. Hatcher was defended by Attorney Samuel W. Crawford of East Liverpool, and the state was represented by Robert M. Brookes and his asssitant J. H. Baugnecht.

The case held on throughout Monday and until about noon Tuesday.

REPORT COLDEST WEATHER OF YEAR

With the mercury registering from 8 to 10 below zero, Lisbon experienced the coldest morning of the year today.

Reports received in Lisbon during the early morning from the county districts disclosed that it was as low as 14 below in places, but this low degree was not registered in a general way.

Being informed in advance of what to expect, farmers protected their stock during the night and no cattle is reported to have suffered from the cold wave.

Main highways are reported to be in good condition by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, some parts of the improved roads being clear of snow, while slight drifts here and there have been worn down.

Basketball fans are rejoicing here over the victory of the Columbiana high school boys over Wellsville high on the Wellsville floor Friday night. As Wellsville is one of the three class A teams of the county a victory on their home floor is an honor for a visiting B team. The final score was 31 to 23, but Columbiana lead at the end of the first half, 21 to 4, and Coach McKain put in several substitutes and Wellsville was able to run up their score. The home boys displayed their best team work of the season and there was no individual starring. About 35 local fans drove down for the game. The teams went to East Liverpool Saturday night and lost both games.

When the two teams left Columbiana Friday noon the entire high school in a body went to the car to see them off, sang songs and did a lot of cheering to encourage the players.

The Columbiana high school girls were defeated by the Wellsville girls 42 to 21, which was expected as Columbiana was greatly weakened by the absence of Xenia and Winifred Mitchell. Capt. Gleckler and Elizabeth Orr played best for Columbiana high school.

Columbiana people were surprised to learn of the marriage of two former local young people, Culver Stewart of Salem and Miss Emily Quigley, Leetonia school teacher, which took place last October 18th at New Cumberland, W. Va. Mrs. Stewart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Quigley, living just west of town, and is a graduate of Columbiana high school and the county normal school. Mr. Stewart is a graduate of Leetonia high school and served his country in the World war. For the past three years he has been in the employ of the Prudential Life Insurance company and was until recently stationed at Columbiana. The couple will make their home in Salem.

Another surprise was the announcement of the marriage of Sharon Quigley and Miss Margaret Ryan of Leetonia, which took place January 3 at Beaver, Pa. Mr. Quigley is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Quigley and is a graduate of Columbiana high school and also studied at Mt. Union college. He was a member of the naval reserve during the World war, being stationed at Cleveland. MAGICIAN'S WAND IS DISCOVERED; VANISHES PAIN

HARRY SKAPENAKES

An interesting case has just been disclosed in Warren, Ohio, of a resident of that city who, for months, suffered intensely from headaches, caused by impoverished blood and a general run-down condition, and who, today, declares he is feeling as fine as he ever felt in his life. And Ka-di-ok, the wonderful system toner, is credited with having brought about this metamorphosis.

Mr. Harry Skapenakes, residing at 8 Spring street, had suffered for several months with continual headaches, bad blood, poor appetite, was nervous and irritable to a slight degree, had dizzy spells, and was losing weight. After a talk with the Ka-di-ok representative, he purchased a bottle, and the beneficient effects of Ka-di-ok were felt from the outset. At the time of telling his experience, he had taken just two bottles of Ka-di-ok, and now he has no more headaches; the pains have departed, he is no longer nervous and irritable, appetite is good, he sleeps well, has no more dizzy spells, and is gaining in weight.

"I used Ka-di-ok and Ka-di-ok Tablets with excellent results; headaches have left me, have gained in weight and am feeling just fine, and say 'thanks to Ka-di-ok for what it has done.'"

This is but one of the many instances where Ka-di-ok has resulted in removing such disagreeable and painful conditions and not alone has it proven beneficial in such cases as above cited, but in many of those conditions arising from disordered kidneys and liver, rheumatism, auto-intoxication, etc.

Ka-di-ok is sold and recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews' Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 W. 6th street.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Buttered Carrots and Onions—Take one bunch of carrots that have been scraped, cut into cubes and cook with one pound of cubed onions, salt and pepper to taste. Add one tablespoon butter and serve.

Scalloped Sweet Potatoes — Butter a glass baking dish. Place in this a layer of cooked sweet potatoes, then a layer of tart sliced apples and sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter. Add sweet potatoes, apples, sugar and butter until dish is full. Bake in a slow oven until almost transparent.

Creamed Celery and Peas—Take a bunch of celery, wash it and cut into very small pieces. Boil it in salted water until tender, drain and add one-half can of peas. Have ready a thin white sauce. Combine sauce, celery and peas. Season to taste.

Pumpkin Pie With Whipped Cream—Have ready a pie shell and fill with a pumpkin custard. Set away to cool and set. Just before serving spread with whipped cream and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

If you do not take ice in the winter but use your refrigerator to store food, you should take particular care to maintain rigid cleanliness throughout the box. The ice and food chambers should be washed and scalded and the drains disinfected regularly.

All foodstuffs put into the ice box should be covered. There are various kinds of glass containers for this purpose. Those that fit on top of one another utilize little space in the refrigerator.

Many ice boxes contain a large proportion of wood. Some have wooden racks in the ice chamber. Wood absorbs food flavors and odors readily and gives this absorption off with equal readiness. Therefore food flavors do not remain true when stored in such a box. This is but one reason why every bit of food put away should be covered in some manner.

Jars should be used for liquid food such as sauces, soups and salad dressing. Meats and vegetables should always be wrapped in oil paper. Free circulation should be maintained when there is no ice in the refrigerator by leaving an upper and lower door unlatched.

When ice boxes do not drain properly be sure the floor on which they aer placed is perfectly level.

Orange Marmalade—Six naval oranges, one lemon, eleven cups cold water, seven cups sugar. Peel and slice thin. Slice lemon with rind on; cover oranges and lemon with cold water; let stand twenty-four hours. Then boil three hours, add sugar and let boil one hour. Pour into glasses, cool and cover. This recipe makes nine glasses of marmalade.

Scalloped Oysters—One pint oysters, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter, two cups bread crumbs, oyster juice, pepper. Use the crumbs from the day-old loaf of bread. Add the pepper and salt to the crumbs, then the melted butter. With scissors cut the oysters in pieces. Place a layer of crumbs in the bottom of the baking dish, add part of the oysters, then more crumbs, then the remainder of the oysters. Put crumbs on top. Add the oyster juice and enough milk to cove even with the content of the dish if the juices does not do this. Bake from 15 minutes to half an hour. Serve with lemon juice.

Orange Fairy Fluff—Four egg yolks, four tablespoons sugar, three-fourths cup orange juice, grated rind one orange, grated rind of one lemon, juice one lemon, two tablespoons hot water, four egg whites. Beat egg yolks with four tablespoons sugar, add orange juice and granted rind, lemon juice and grated rind and hot water, cook in double boiler until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Beat egg whites until stiff, add two tablespoons sugar, and fold into first mixture, chill, line sherbert glasses with lady fingers, fill with orange mixture and serve.

French Salad—Two pound head cabbage, ground, one and one-half dozen sweet pickles, ground, three onions ground. Mix all together, then put in a dish. Dressing—one or two tablespoons of prepared mustard, one-half cup catsup, a little celery seed and sugar to suit taste.

SUGGESTIONS.

If your children are always wearing holes in the knees of their stockings playing around over the floor, take the legs of some worn out stockings and cut about six or eight inches of leg, stitch around each end on the sewing machine to keep it from raveling, and slip it over their knees. You can keep several pairs of these slipovers laid by to put on to shield their new stockings, and it is a good way to use up old stockings.

A Restful Room

If you have a living room to remodel, why not lay a soft gray linoleum for the floor. Have it well waxed and polished to give it that beautiful rich effect so much desired. Use two-toned blue rugs upon this and have your furniture of blue and gray mohair and mahogany.

Your walls should be a very light gray with darked gray woodwork to tone in with the floor and on the windows use blue sunfast to match your upholstery. This room, with occasional cushions of old rose or deep orange and two or three soft toned lamps, would be restful and beautiful in the extreme.

A woman was given a great many photographs from her aunt's estate. Many of them were beautiful but there was no data to tell her who the people pictured were or when and where the photos were taken. She resolved then and there to label and date all the pictures so that in case of distribution they might reach the people most interested and also for her own enjoyment in looking them over.

To save a great deal of time and current when sewing on an electric sewing machine, have two spool holders, one for sewing and the other to hold cotton for the bobbin—then you can be winding a bobbin and sewing at the same time.

White lead will nicely stick a chair rung that has become loose but must be set aside for a few days.

White woolen baby stockings that have shrunk too much to be worn or are outgrown make excellent polishing cloths for flat silver.

A high stool in the kitchen is a backsaver; and so is a low chair with a comfortable back.

YOUR HEALTH

Human Body Won't Tolerate Any Pus Absorption

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.

DR. COPELAND

TIME and again, I have warned you against neglecting any form of pus infection. The human body just will not tolerate pus absorption. You are breeding trouble if you take a chance on it.

It makes no difference where the pus centre is located. It may be a "running ear," cystic tonsils, abscessed teeth or gums, or a pus infection of the intestines or other part or organ of the body.

The particular reason I am telling you these things to-day is because one of my friends has just discovered she has a badly inflamed and painful knee joint. The experts who have examined her agree that the primary cause of this trouble is a pus infection of one of the nasal sinuses which she had several years ago.

It is an interesting scientific fact that the germs of disease first attack any part of the body which is damaged. If the germs of tuberculosis are injected into a rabbit, they i cate for serious work in any part of the animal's body which has been damaged by an injury. A crushed leg or a bruised eye will become the seat of the acute tubercular infection.

If the germs of disease, for instance, pus germs, are floating about in the body, they will attack any bruised or damaged part. The friend I just mentioned hurt her knee last Spring. It pained her greatly for two or three days and then seemed to recover.

After a few weeks, she noticed occasional shooting pains and more or less persistent aching in the knee. These symptoms continued to grow so much worse, she visited an x-ray expert who discovered serious involvement of the joint and even of the bone. The history of the case and, in the absence of other local pus infection, the record of the nasal trouble of several years ago, determined the opinion that the original cause was to be found in this ancient trouble.

It must be admitted there is much of conjecture in this conclusion, but I recited the case so that you might see what may happen if you neglect seemingly unimportant ailments. Things which appear to be purely localized difficulties may become terribly serious to your welfare and may even threaten your life.

I want this information to have just one effect—to cause you to give heed to any local trouble you may have. I don't want it to worry you, except just enough to stir you into action. Take care of that local trouble now.

Answers to Health Questions

READER. Q.—How can I reduce?

A.—By exercise, and by eliminating sugars and starches from your diet.

ANXIOUS MOTHER. Q.—My son has symptoms of tuberculosis. What treatment should he have?
2.—Is it curable?

A.—See that he has plenty of fresh air and sunlight, and good nourishing food. He requires about 10 hours sleep at night, and complete rest the balance of the 24 hours.
2.—Tuberculosis is very often curable, if taken in time.

R. T. Q.—What would you advise for a person with bow legs?

A.—I would advise that you consult an orthopedist for this condition.

C. H. B. Q.—Is it dangerous for a person who has pleurisy or a slight pulmonary affection to play a wind instrument?

A.—It would probably not be wise, since playing such an instrument requires quite some exertion on the part of the lungs and respiratory organs.

H. F. Q.—Would a hernia which has been helped for three years by wearing a truss, have any bearing on swollen, painful veins in the leg and foot?

A.—Yes, it might cause a strain on the leg muscles causing pressure through the veins. Try bathing the parts with warm witch hazel and bandaging them during the day. This should relieve you to some extent. It would be wise to see your doctor about the hernia and see whether it requires further treatment.

H. G. Q.—A child four years of age complains of pain in the knee cap and lower part of her leg, only during the night. She has had arch-supporters prescribed, also has tried massage under doctor's orders, but she still complains. Do you think this could be due to rheumatism?

A.—It is not likely that this is rheumatism. It is probably a muscular condition and massage should benefit it. The arch trouble would have a great bearing on this condition, due to strain on the leg muscles.

MRS. M. E. B. Q.—I have had diabetes for a long time and am at present on a diet, not using insulin. Which bread would be most suitable for me, rye or graham? I cannot get gluten bread here.

A.—All breads are high in carbohydrates. Why not ask your doctor which one would be advisable in your particular case. It would be rather difficult to advise you without first knowing your exact condition.

Bread—a Great Food for Children

LAST year, school health authorities say, one child out of every five was a victim of malnutrition—a most dangerous physical ailment, yet easily remedied.

Those children—more than five million of them—could have been better nourished had they been supplied with an ample quantity of good bread—bread such as BETSY ROSS.

Why, BETSY ROSS bread, eaten with a simple regular diet supplies a well balanced feeding program, for BETSY ROSS is rich in carbohydrates, proteins, iron, calcium, phosphorus and other mineral salts—all food elements necessary to health.

When you prepare children's luncheons, either at home or for school, see that they contain plenty of BETSY ROSS. But, don't make the mistake of asking for "just bread" when ordering. Specify BETSY ROSS, for "There's a difference in bread."

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

"Suda, please drive up three blocks, then I shall tell you where to go." At the storehouse she sent him away. "Go home and I shall come back later on, myself."

A man at the storehouse dragged out the box for her and opened it. It was full of newspapers packed closely and yellowed by time. When she was alone, she lifted a paper and "The Dascome Case" stared her in the face. They were New York dailies and were piled in order, dating from April the ninth, 1915, to May, 1916, papers of seven years ago.

The record was a complete one, from the first accounts of Elaine Dascome's disappearance, then hints of suspicion of Dascome, down to the scattered notices of his departure from New York. Someone had compiled the record with care, date following date, not a paper out of place. The indictment, the trials, transcrips of testimony, yards and yards of description, comments, suspicions, and facts; photographs of Crisomby Lakes, of Proctor House, of court scenes, of lawyers, witnesses; of Clarice, finger pointed at the prosecuting attorney, of Meta Thail, bent and shrinking, creeping out of the court room; of Herbert Colt, of Mrs. Ormsby, and Dascome; John Dascome, sitting, standing, walking; John Dascome as a boy, as a young lawyer; John Dascome arguing the Devereux case; John Dascome in prison, on the witness stand, seated beside his attorneys; John Dascome pleading his own case. Everywhere that immobile, steady-eyed presence; a mystery, a power.

Karesia was vividly imaginative; she had the gift of visualization to an extraordinary degree; she was not seated at that chilly high-ceilinged warehouse with piles of papers beside her. She went down with the divers into the Dragon's Pool; she was at Proctor House, she was in the crowded court room, watching the faces of witnesses, weighing absorbedly what they said; she was listening to arguments, hearing comments. She saw Dascome and heard him as distinctly as if he were standing erect and profoundly angry there before her. She saw his face and heard his voice, deep and even, giving his statement to a hushed court; she looked over the shoulder of the author who wrote:

"It has been said truly: 'Behind every tragedy is a woman.' Who is the 'woman' in this strange case? Is she one of the many who have haunted this trial? Or does she keep herself secluded, waiting? To all others this man is inscrutable; he wears a steel mask, his eyes are blue steel. But somewhere there is a woman to whom he is no mystery; to whom he is simply a MAN."

How long her body sat in that warehouse room while her spirit roamed the scenes of seven years ago Karesia did not know; her spirit returned to her body only when her eyes could no longer see print. She was sitting in a chilly gloom. There were patches of light up near the ceiling, high windows from which the sun had long since gone. The light without was fading; in the room it was almost dark, like the gloom of a dungeon. Yet she had not finished reading; there were some papers in the box still. She realized that it was evening.

Karesia tried to rise and could not; her body was numb and cold, paralyzed, only her brain alive. . . . After a time she rubbed sensation into her legs and managed to move, then stand. She felt as if she had returned from a long journey. A man opened the door into the room. "We are going to close," he said.

She decided then. She took out the few papers that remained. In the bottom of the box were a number of articles, some photographs, pens, ink bottles, as if desk drawers had been emptied into it. Some of the papers were badly ink-stained, evidently an ink bottle had broken and saturated them. Karesia gathered up the loose papers and wrapped them up, papers and photographs, made a rough bundle of them. The papers she had read she put back in the box.

She was beginning to think more collectedly; in some past time, she had sent Suda back to her double house. Dascome was there, not in prison—this was the present. . . . She took her bundle with her and the man locked the door. From the office, they called a taxicab for her.

With her bundle beside her, Karesia was driven homeward, looking into the afterglow of sunset with eyes that did not see. Her throat ached as if pressed by hard fingers; it was difficult for her to swallow.

Suda met her at her door and carried her bundle upstairs for her and she followed mechanically. He brought her a box of roses. "Mr. Rossiter bring these. He say for you please to come early tonight."

Karesia had forgotten the dinner.

XXX

Rossiter had never seen Karesia look so regal. She wore a jet and sequin gown that followed losely the long slim lines of her body, a narrow chain of cut jet crossing one shoulder, the other shoulder bare, a French importation that could be worn only by a woman whose body was as perfect as Karesia's; she had the rare gift, a beautiful back and shoulders. In her massed hair she wore the one magnificent ornament she possessed, a relic of the days when her mother was the idol of St. Petersburg, a diadem fashioned of two dragons, their eyes rubies, in their spread claws diamonds. She wore no other ornament, not even rings. Usually she had color; tonight she was so camellia-white that her eyes looked very dark.

She arrived only a few minutes before Rossiter's guests. She was bitterly annoyed until he saw her face; then his complaint died. Once before he had seen her like this. "You are very beautiful, my queen," he said and kissed her hand.

"I feel anything but a queen," Karesia answered evenly. "These jewels are the only ones I have left—they and the headdress mother wore when she danced for the czar and czarina. Everything else was stolen from me when I was in Russia—and mother—and the czar and czarine are gone."

"But we are here, Kara. We have only a few minutes—there is something I want you to see—upstairs."

KNOCKS 'EM OUT QUICK

Toughest of Old Hang On Coughs Go

Why send a boy to do a man's work? Sweet, sugary cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traveling along towards the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that lingers on and on with the most persistent devilishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the realest destroyer of tough old coughs is Bronchuline Emulsion.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking torture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Bronchuline likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon half a bottle to make a two months' old cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much sweeter when you get rid of that old time cough.

Ask Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., or any wide awake druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion. There's no dope in it—or chloroform, and a couple of teaspoonfuls will usually end any ordinary cough.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Say Not the Struggle Nought Availeth.

Say not the struggle nought availeth,
The labor and the wounds are vain,
The enemy faints not, nor faileth,
And as things have been they remain.
If hopes were dupes, fears may be liars;
It may be, in you smoke conceal'd,
Your comrades chase e'en now the fliers,
And, but for you, possess the field.
For while the tired waves, vainly breaking,
Seem here no painful inch to gain,
Far back, through creeks and inlets making
Comes silent, flooding in, the main.
And not by eastern windows only,
When daylight comes, comes in the light,
In front the sun climbs slow, how slowly,
But westward, look, the land is bright.

Beauty.

Oh, what a pure and sacred thing
Is Beauty, curtained from the sight
Of the gross world, illum'ning
One only mansion with her light!
Unsee by man's disturbing eye
The flower that blooms beneath the sea,
Too deep for sunbeams, does not lie
Hid in more chaste obscurity.
A soul, too, more than half divine,
Where, through some shades of earthly feeling
Religion's softened glories shine,
Like light through summer foliage stealing,
Shedding a glow of such mild hue,
So warm, and yet so shadowy, too,
As makes the very darkness there
More beautiful than light elsewhere.
—Thomas Moore.

On the Grasshopper and Cricket.

The poetry of earth is never dead;
When all the birds are faint with the hot sun
From hedge to hedge about the new-mown mead.
That is the grasshopper's—he takes the lead
In summer luxury—he has never done
He rests at ease beneath some pleasant weed,
The poetry to earth is ceasing never
On a lone winter evening, when the frost
Has wrought a silence, from the stove there shrills
The cricket's song, in warmth increasing ever,
—John Keats.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.- (Adv.)

Second Prize	500.00	10 Prizes	100.00
Third Prize	300.00	40 Prizes	50.00

Selections to be broadcast by artists of the New Hall of Fame, chosen from a list including the followings

Mario Chamlee, Giuseppe Danise, Florence Easton
Edith Mason, Michael Bohnen, Karin Branzell
Maria Ivogun, John Charles Thomas, Willem Willeke

Starting Tuesday Evening, February 3rd, 1925

FROM a standpoint of local pride, we should like to see "home folks" win all of the $5,000 in awards in the Brunswick "music memory" contest.

It opens in a few days . . . via radio, over the stations listed, on Tuesday, February 3rd, at 9 P. M., Eastern Standard Time—8 P. M., Central Standard Time.

$5,000 cash will be awarded each month until further notice

If you have no radio, come in to our shop and we will receive the whole program through our new Brunswick Radiola, the most remarkable of all radios.

Contest is open to all. You buy nothing, render no service in order to enter—or to win.

You simply identify the artist or orchestra, and the name of the piece each renders.

The most nearly correct answers win the prizes. A contest blank, which we will gladly give you, is all you need. It gives all particulars.

It lists all the artists, orchestras and singers by name. And gives a list of the selections from which the contest program will be taken.

Blanks ready—call for one

This is the most important educational contest ever consummated. The awards run into large sums. Anyone can win. Anyone can enter without obligation.

Be sure to enter. Arrange to receive the program in your home over your Brunswick Radiola, and invite your friends in to do so with you. We'll give you all the blanks you need for the occasion.

Runyon Says

Times Have Changed.
All the Reds Get $9,500.
The Return of H. Pollok.
He Is Back in the Game.
Tex Rickard and Boxing.

By DAMON RUNYON.

"Dazzy" Vance, voted the most valuable player of 1924 to his team, is said to have asked $10,000 for his services in 1925.

Also Vance is said to have threatened a "hold-out," which is baseballese for refusing to play, if he didn't get it.

You who are accustomed to reading of Babe Ruth's salary of $52,000 per year, of John J. McGraw's $65,000, of Ty Cobb's $30,000, will say that $10,000 is not a large salary for a player of Vance's ability.

Fifty-four years ago Vance's demand would have utterly horrified the baseball magnates and fans of the period. They would have said the man had gone crazy.

It was more money than the ten members of the greatest team of the period received. Their salaries totaled $9,500.

That was in 1870.

The Cincinnati ball club was organized on a professional basis.

Up to that period the game had been played as an amateur sport, the players were supposed to work at some profession as well as play ball.

But club owners were making offers to the best players, guaranteeing them more lucrative jobs than those they had, and otherwise violating the ethics of amateurism, just as is done today in some sports. So the Cincinnati club came out boldly and announced it was going to Hire players.

It first secured George Wright, authorizing him to engage the rest of the club.

Harry Wright, center field, $1,200.
Asa Brainard, pitcher, $1,100.
Fred Waterman, third base, $1,000.
Charles Sweasy, second base, $800.
Charles Gould, first base, $900.
Douglas Allison, catcher, $800.
Calvin McVey, right field, $800.
Richard Hurley, substitute, $800.

No one thought the professional venture would be successful.

It was difficult to get the players to sign. They didn't believe any organization could pay for the playing of baseball.

Times have changed.

It is strange what a hold the boxing game has on its old followers, especially those who have been actively associated with it.

It is not an easy game. It is a game of disappointments, of broken promises, a gambling venture at all times. A man devoting the same energy necessary to boxing promotion to something else ought to get rich.

But there is some strange lure, some fascination to the boxing game that keeps bringing them back again and again.

Harry M. Pollock is the latest to return.

Pollock was for years associated with Pat Powers in the promotion of the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden. Also he promoted boxing shows.

He was a gay, debonair figure along the Broadway of other years. Everybody knew Harry Pollok. He was as well known in boxing as Tex Rickard is to-day.

He managed young Corbett after Corbett beat Terry McGovern. He later handled Freddy Welsh, taking him to England and winning the lightweight title. He was still managing Welsh the night at the old Manhattan Casino, hard by the Polo Grounds in Harlem, when Benny Leonard won the title from the Englishman.

Then Pollock dropped out of boxing he said for good.

He was engaged in divers business pursuits for some years. He wouldn't even go to a boxing show, wouldn't talk boxing. Now he writes on a neatly engraved letterhead which says he is vise-president of the Olympic Auditorium, Inc.

He says his concern will have the biggest indoor club that has ever been built, seating 15,000. Of course, this will not be as big as Rickard's new Garden, seating 23,000.

Pollock describes the press stand seats at length. Perhaps he wishes to make the writer, veteran of many strange press stands, feel envious.

He says his auditorium will not be a pugilistic arena alone, however, that the seats can be cleared away in short order, leaving as much floor space as Madison Square Garden.

He plans trade shows, fairs, balls, athletic meets, and the like, also conventions, band concerts, and "extravaganzas." Mr. Pollock grows ambitious in his scheme of things.

California's return to long route boxing bouts was perhaps the chief consideration of Mr. Pollock's "comeback." But he is wise in planning his auditorium beyond boxing. The writer is inclined to the belief that after the first rush of prosperity due to the novelty, the boxing game in California will be exactly what it is in the East.

The California boxing fans are accustomed to the intensive ACTION of the four-round bouts. They will soon weary of the slower long bout, especially if they are some of the pugilistic gentlemen from the East now lookin for work on the Pacific Coast.

Tex Rickard, building his new Garden, is taking little account of boxing. Of course, he will continue putting on boxing shows. But he is not spending $4,000,000 on the theory that he is going to get any considerable part of it back through boxing.

The boxing game at best leads a precaurious existence. It might be kicked out of New York State at any time. Rickard's new Garden will be designed for a ll manner of shows. Boxing will be largely incidental.

One six-day bicycle race is probably worth more to Rickard than three big boxing shows. The expense is less, the profit therefore greater. The MENTAL strain of conducting a six-day race is very light, compared to a boxing show.

Dolan Is Reported to Have Arrived In New York

District Attorney, However, Has Not Quizzed Ex-Coach

Last Night's Fights

Nurmi's Foes Are Set For Final Stand

Oppose Finn Tonight in Last of Millrose Events.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—American middle distance runners, beaten at every turn by Finland's two aces, Nurmi and Ritola, will make one last desperate effort to force either or both to accept defeat when the finale of the annual Millrose A. A. carnival is held at Madison Square Garden. Virtually the same field that trailed Nurmi to the wire in the world's record time of 3.03 4-5 in the three quarter mile special last night will face the man from Abo again tonight.

This time it will be the Wanamaker mile and a half and Nurmi with 13 records to his credit in as many attempts since coming here is a universal favorite to win. Even more sensational has been the running of Ritola during recent weeks. On Saturday night he lowered three of the world's records established by Nurmi and last night, in winning the three mile event, bettered two of these marks again. In addition he finished the full distance in 14:04, beating Rold 11 4-5 seconds.

An international walking race, bringing together Frigerio, of Italy, Olympic champion, Goulding of Canada, former holder of that title, and Plant, perenniel American champion, will be another feature of a program, top heavy with class.

Indoor Baseball Leaders to Meet At "Y" Tonight

Officials of the "Y" industrial indoor baseball league today announced arrangements have been completed for the league meeting tonight at 7:45 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A.

Every one interested in the organization of the baseball circuit is tendered an invitation to attend the conference.

Mamaux in No Hurry.

Baseball Scandal's Star Witness Manages to Conceal Whereabouts; Acts Under Legal Guidance.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—According to reports from several sectors of the Broadway front, Mr. Albert Cozy Dolan, one of the star witnesses in the official probe of the baseball scandal, has slipped into town without so much as giving the district attorney a formal nod.

The latter, through one of his assistants, George Brothers, is conducting an inquiry into Jimmy O'Connell's ill-fated attempt to bribe Heinie Sand and is very anxious to find out whether Dolan still forgets to remember, as he did when questioned by Judge Landis.

The prosecutor is waiting patiently for Mr. Dolan to respond to his invitation to oppear before him. Mr. Dolan has neglected to do so. But several habitutes of Broadway's theatrical district claim to have seen Dolan within the last 24 hours, encosued in his old haunts without apparent attempt at concealment.

It is also said that he has had a conference with his attorney, William J. Fallon, but this could not be varified.

There is an air of mystery to the entire business. One story had it that Dolan left his home in Oshkosh, Wis., several days ago.

His wife is said to have confessed ignorance of his present whereabouts but intimated, according to the story, that he might be found in Chicago, there the trail apparently ends, unless the Broadway Scouts have actually picked up the lost heel prints.

At the District Attorney's office, doubt was expressed that either O'Connoll or Dolan, the only men barred from baseball by the expose, would consent to appear for questioning. If the Landis decision were made to stand up in a court of law both would face prison terms under the New York statutes, and therefore, might be pardoned a slight degree of reticence about appearing before the District Attorney.

But not being under indictment, Dolan can come and go as he pleases around these parts and undoubtedly will be guided in his actions by his attorney.

The latter has said that Dolan would welcome an official investigation and perhaps the ex-player's alleged appearance here is the first step in his acceptance of the situation.

It may mean anything or nothing. It may mean that Dolan wishes to visit the scene of happier past. It may mean a gesture of bravado or even that the gentleman is giving a four card flush a good stiff play before the draw. Under the present arrangements he doesn't have to go to nearer the District Attorney's office than the upper end of Times Square.

Yet his open appearance in New York during the investigation would give the impression that he had nothing to fear or conceal.

Dolan threatened to bring suit against Landis some time ago and after retaining Fallon, dropped out of sight. The general ignorance of his whereabouts seems to be only another of Dolan's mysterious moves.

Famous Women Golf Stars Plan Tourney Events in Florida

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, national women's golf champion; Glenna Collett, former national champion, a dozen other noted women golfers and a host of newcomers will clash in a series of three tourneys in Florida in February—tourneys that may produce a new figure to be reckoned with in the 1925 tournaments.

The first of the three meets will be staged at Palm Beach, Feb. 16 to 20. The net will be on the Ormond Beach links, Feb. 25 to 28. The third will be held at St. Augustine, March 3 to 7. The Palm Beach event is the Florida women's championship, the Ormond Beach affair the annual Beach championship and the St. Augustine rounds the Florida East Coast tourney.

Knockout by Zivic May Sound Knell of Le wTendler's Hope

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 — Does the knockout he received at the hands of Jack Zivic sound the knell of Lew Tendler's ring hopes? The chances are that it does. Tendler hoped to start a comeback with a victory over Zivic. The famous southpaw had reason to believe that he could hit the high road again. His past record numbered nary a knockout. This despite the fact that he had met all the good boys that would fight him, including Benny Leonard.

He had suffered but two point defeats last year. Nate Goldman and then Mickey Walker outpointed him in his 1924 battles.

The knockout at the hands of the Pittsburgh lightweight probably will kill his chances of climbing back. For one thing those battlers are few who can take a knockout like that late in their careers and come back.

Tendler will go down in ring history, though, as one of the greatest if not the greatest lefthanded fighter in his class.

Tentative Lineup Of Detroit Tigers Reveals Strength

DETROIT, Jan. 28—The dope now is that the Detroit Tigers will line up for the coming season with an infield consisting of Lu Blue on first, Lu Fonseca or Jimmy Caveney at second, Topper Rigney at short and Bobby Jones at third. Fonseca and Caveney were obtained just a while ago from Cincinnati.

The outfield will be Manush, Cobb and Heilmann, the catching staff Johnny Bassler and Larry Woodall and the regular pitchers, Whitehill, Wells, Dauss, Rip Collins and Phillette.

This leaves Johnny Neun, newly acquired first sacker, to prove his worth before he gets a regular berth. Leslie Burke and Fred Haney will fight it out for the first infield utility job with Fonseca or Caveney.

Red Wingo, Fothergill and Carlisle will be the reserve outfielders and Johnson, Olsen, Hollawey and one or two other pitchers will fight it out for attention with the afore-mentioned flingers.

BIG MOMENTS in SPORT.

No. 3—When Ritchie Mitchell Dropped Leonard.

White shirt fronts gleamed in the night, decollete shoulders moved restlessly, and the atmosphere of the drawing room pervaded all. Blue-blooded aristocracy was there in detached, superior groups, but it was not, strictly speaking, a social function. It was one of those sordid exhibitions of prize fighting, and gentlemen with pink sleeve garters and the price of admission insisted upon being present. A distasteful state of affairs, but tolerable in view of the fact that it was all for sweet charity.

Miss Anne Morgan was giving the "party." The entertainers were Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Ritchie Mitchell, challenger. The beneficiary was "Devastated France." The place, Madison Square Garden. The time, mid-Winter, 1921.

Saw Champion Down.

To this most cosmopolitan of gatherings was given the spectacle of a great champion leaning dazedly upon his shoulder blades with the seconds ticking on toward the telltale tenth and his undoing. Many, ring ignorant, hardly grasped the significance of the moment, but nevertheless succumbed to the fascination of man-to-man combat, heritage of the ancestral dark ages. Blue blood and red got right down on the gravel together and screamed for the champion's head.

It all happened in the first round. Leonard was an odds-on favorite and a justifiable one. On his way to the title, four years before, he had knocked out Mitchell in seven rounds in the latter's own town, Milwaukee. He was an almost universal selection to repeat and proceeded to make good on the advance calculations by dropping Mitchell with a shower of blows in the first minute of fighting. The fallen man arose with commendable alarcity.

He went down again a few moments later, but was not altogether a hasty riser. Then a left to the jaw dropped him once more and this time there was no mistaking the fact that Mitchell was groggy.

He came to his feet at the count of nine and Leonard, debonnair and confident, walked in to finish the business. He forgot that the most dangerous fighter is a man on the verge of a knockout. Reeling though he was Mitchell let go a terrific left hook and it caught Leonard on the jaw.

The next instant the champion was lying on the flat of his back and trying to remember who threw the brick. At the count of five he had a glimmer of intelligence and assumed a crouching position on one knee as he shook his head in a wondering manner. He was clear-headed enough to rise to his feet at the count of nine and, somehow, managed to stall out the round.

When they came out for the second round Leonard was groggier than Mitchell, but the latter had no way of knowing this and the master-tactician further befuddled the Milwaukee entry by beckoning him on to close quarters Noticing this, Mitchell decided to play smart and stay away. The decision allowed Leonard to retain his title.

Outpointed for the next two rounds, he finally jockeyed himself back into shape and in the fourth round was carrying the fight to Mitchell in a way that indicated an early end. It came in the sixth round, when the fight was stopped to save Mitchell from further punishment.

Calls Nick Cullop, Who'll Join Yanks, Ruth's Next Rival

Art Griggs, former big league first sacker and manager of the championship Omaha club of the Western League last season, says that "Nick" Cullop, young first sacker of that team who will join the Yanks, is one of the greatest hitters he ever saw in baseball.

Griggs admits frankly that it will be a long time before the man bobs up who can hit them as far, consistently, as does Babe Ruth, but he does rise to remark that Cullop is a truly great hitter and will be Ruth's closest rival some day, not far distant.

Church Fives To Clash For Title Berth

Lutherans and M. P. Squads Battle Tonight on High Gym Court.

The Lutherans and the First Methodist Protestants will battle tonight on the high school court, the game starting at 8:15.

The contest will be hard fought from start to finish for the team that wins tonight's contest will practically cinch the Sunday school league basketball championship for the first half of the season.

The First Methodist Protestants are leading the league by half a game, having broken the tie with the Lutherans for first plcae by their victory over the Chester Presbyterians Monday night.

A victory for the M. P.'s will give them the league honors for the first half while if the Lutherans win they will go into first place and only a defeat at the hands of the United Presbyterians in Saturday's game will keep them from getting away with the basketball laurels of the league.

Both teams are more than anxious to win and both teams will enter their strongest lineups for the game. The S. R. O. sign will probably be hung up before the game starts for both teams have large crowds of supporters who see nothing but victory for their favorites.

The First Presbyterians and the Park Boulevards will clash in the first game, the contest starting at 7:15. Both teams are tied for fifth place in the league and the winner of the game will be tied with the First Methodist Episcopal team for fourth place and although the Park Boulevards are considered to be one of the league's strongest fives the First Presbyterians are confident of giving the Boulevard boys a setback.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Charles Crowley, an assistant coach under the Haughton regime, has been signed as head coach of football at Columbia University, according to reports in circulation today. Crowley is said to have signed a three-year contract last Monday at a reported salary of $15,000.

Yde Shades Dodger Star in Percentage Of Games Won, Lost

No one questions the greatness of Dazzy Vance's achievements in the National league last year, but there is one youngster who can boast of shading the strikeout artist in one column of the pitching averages Emil Yde, rookie hurler with the Pirates, hung up a higher percentage of games won. He grabbed off 16 victories and lost but three games for a percentage of .842.

The New Chevrolet

is here. The best value on the market today at the price. All authorities agree that there will be a shortage of cars in the early spring. We recall the time two years ago when there was such a demand for the Chevrolet, that we sold more than the factory could let us have. This condition existed when the car in no way compared with the present New Chevrolet. We anticipate a greater shortage than ever before. Work is good everywhere except in this immediate vicinity, and will soon be god here. We have observed that Chester and East Liverpool are always the last to suffer from a depression, and usually the last to recover from it, but always good cities to live in and buy automobiles.

We advise you to place your order with us as soon as possible, regardless of where you live, and we will do our utmost to get your car for you at the appointed time.

DEATH STALKS COLD WAVE

MAN MAROONED IN SNOW DIES OF HEART FAILURE; TWO PERSONS FROZEN

East Liverpool Shivers as Heavy Snowfall and Bitterly Cold Weather Send Mercury Down to Sub-zero Points During Night—Gas and Coal Supply Reported Meeting Demands.

29 DEGREES BELOW ZERO REPORTED BY CANNELVILLE, COLDEST OHIO TOWN

Telephone Service is Affected Here as 16 Toll Lines are Put Out of Commission, But Traction Cars and Railroad Trains Maintain Schedules—Weather Man Promises Relief Thursday.

As East Liverpool shivered last night and early today in the coldest weather of the winter, at least three deaths were reported in other cities.

Two are dead in Washington, D. C., and one in New York City. Two of the victims were frozen to death, while the other died of heart failure after being marooned in the snow.

Temperatures, ranging from seven degrees below zero in the city to 18 and 21 degrees below in the rural districts prevailed at 7 o'clock this morning. The mercury at 10 o'clock had risen to the zero point.

Telephonic services was crippled during the forenoon. Sixteen toll lines were out of commission, officials of the Ohio Bell company here reported. Twenty per cent of these lines were back into service at 9 o'clock, 50 per cent in operation at 10:30 and belief was expressed that all broken lines would be repaired by noon or shortly after. Telephone linemen were handicapped in their work by the cold weather.

Officials of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad company reported that street car and train schedules were being maintained in spite of the snowfall and sub-zero weather.

"Br-r-r-r-r-r-r-r-r, its cold," allowed the stranger. He eyed the package. "A drink sure would go good on a cold day."

Adams proffered the package. It contained liquor.

"Thanks," said the stranger, wiping his lips. "You're under arrest." It was Detective Sergeant Michael Dowd.

Gasoline Prices Go Up Here as Mercury Takes Big Tumble

An increase of one cent per gallon in gasoline prices became effective in East Liverpool today.

The advance is said to be due to boosts in the price of crude oil which has jumped 25 cents per barrel during the last week. The Standard Oil company was the first gasoline producer to announce an advance, followed by independent producers and distributors.

Gasoline today is selling at 16 cents per gallon, wholesale or tank wagon rates, while the retail prices at filling stations is 18 cents. The increase is general throughout the state.

Three are Burned To Death When They Are Trapped in Rooms

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Three persons were burned to death today when trapped by fire in their rooms on the second floor of a two-story frame dwelling in Brooklyn. The victims were Monserole Dejusto, his wife and their son, Pietro, aged 2.

FALLS ON STOVE, FATALLY BURNED

CINCINNATI, Jan. 28.—J. H. Lyons, 65, built a big fire late Tuesday in the stove of his home in Cincinnati. He was standing near the fire trying to get warm when he suffered an attack of epilepsy. Falling on the stove he was burned to death.

HERO OF PORT ARTHUR IS DEAD

Break Expected Tonight.

The fuel supply for domestic use was O. K. today. The local office of the Manufacturers' Light and Heat company, yesterday, banned the use of gas to industrial consumers to conserve the supply for domestic purposes. Coal dealers reported orders plentiful, but there is no shortage of stock.

While today is believed to have been the coldest of the winter in East Liverpool, December 27 witnessed the most severe weather in Columbiana county, according to Lawrence Copeland, United States government observer at Millport, 15 miles west of here. Copeland's theremometer this morning read 10 degrees below zero. On December 27, it was 14 degrees below and 12 below on December 28.

Readings of 10 and 12 degrees below zero were reported from the Northside at 7 o'clock this morning. At Keil's greenhouse, near Stop 55 on the Y. & O., the mercury registered 18 below. West Point reported 21 below.

The cold spell is expected to break by Wednesday evening. Warmer weather, reported in the west, is moving eastward. "Snow with continued moderating temperature" is promised for Thursday.

Bitterly Cold in Capital.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The third anniversary of the collapse of the Knickerbocker theatre, which killed nearly a hundred persons, brought another heavy snowfall and bitterly cold weather to the capital.

Two deaths because of the drop in temperature were reported.

ACHIEVEMENTS OF C. OF C. IN 1924 OUTLINED BY H. B. BARTH

175 WILL ATTEND

George Creel, Wartime News Censor, Will be Speaker.

Activities of the East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce during 1924 are reviewed in the ninth annual report compiled by Secretary H. B. Barth, which will be distributed at the meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. tonight.

George Creel, of New York, wartime news censor, will be speaker at the dinner which will be served at 6 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

Mr. Creel arrived here late this morning, coming from St. Louis, where he spoke last evening. He will spend the night in this city, leaving in the morning for his home.

His subject will be, "Current Events and Public Men."

One-hundred and seventy-five guests will attend the dinner.

President Betz's Foreword.

In the annual report foreword, Joseph Betz, president of the chamber, says:

"Many people of the community, during the past year, brought difficult problems of public concern to this organization for solution. A majority of the citizens have, whenever the occasion presented itself, expressed confidence in the attitude of the Chamber of Commerce on questions pertaining to public welfare. The members of this organization have good reason to feel proud of the confidence reposed in it.

"At the close of the ninth year the organization finds itself in a substantial condition. The chamber amply justifies its existence and constantly demonstrates its worthiness of the unstinted moral and financial support of the community."

Among the accomplishments, briefly reviewed in the report, are:

Opposed proposed Howell-Barkley bill, abolishing railway labor board.

Many Accomplishments.

Made application to Congressman Murphy for captured German artillery piece as war memorial.

Report of eighth annual meeting at Y. M. C. A., January 30, 1924, addressed by Warren S. Stone.

Monthly reports of Health Commissioner John Frazer, Sanitary Officer D. J. McKeever and Registrar of Vital Statistics Mrs. Alice M. Davidson will be submitted.

Modern Dance Termed "Immodest, Immoral And Wicked" By Church Of Christ Evangelist

Six-inch Separation Rule Has Been Discarded, Says Dr. Lockhart, Who Turns Guns on Terpsichore.

The modern dance was termed "immodest, immoral and wicked" by Evangelist W. J. Lockhart, of Des Moines, Ia., in his sermon, "Taking the Lid Off the Modern Dance," at the First Church of Christ last night.

"The modern dance breaks down all modesty, cultivates familiarity that leads to brazenness, and destroys that modesty and innocence that are the charms of young womanhood and the glory of manhood," the evangelist declared.

"It makes common the thing that ought ever to be sacred, unsoiled and untarnished until that day when a young man and a young woman stand in holy love at the marriage altar, there to give themselves to one another for all time.

"The modern youth is spoiling that great joy that ought to come to every man of loving one, just one grand woman, because he is frittering away that possibility by loving too many women in the modern dance.

Cites Evil in Dancing.

"This thing that is wrong about the dance is not the life not the music, not the mingling of men and women. The worst evil is not even the scandalous method of dancing the modern dance—for I tell you that when it comes to that place that a girl before she goes into the dance hall must check part of her wearing apparel so that there may be no obstructions to the perfect blending of the bodies in the embrace of the dance, there is something rotten in Denmark.

"The thing that is wrong about the dance, the big thing, is the intimacy that is permitted between sexes that no where else in decent or respectable society is tolerated.

"Mother, you will find the rule of the dancing master that your daughter tells you about, that the bodies must be kept six inches apart when dancing, has long since been discarded.

"Today we have the 'tango', the 'bunny hug, the 'grizzly bear', the 'turkey trot' the 'hose-shoe whiligig'.

CHILD LABOR FIGHT NOT TO BE ABANDONED

One-fourth of States Have Rejected Amendment.

State Senate Fails to Act on Duffy's Appointment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Sponsors of the constitutional amendment prohibiting child labor asserted today that the apparent failure of the amendment, through its rejection by one fourth of the states, would not result in their abandonment of the fight for its adoption.

The fight can and will, they said, be carried on by campaigns in the rejecting states, much after the manner of the eighteenth and nineteenth amendments were put through state legislatures.

The legislatures that have rejected the amendment can reconsider their action at any time in the future. Constitutional amendments remain pending for years, and time and circumstances may change the complexion of a legislature.

The campaign for ratification of the amendment is being directed by the American Federation of Labor and it was stated at labor headquarters today that there would be no change in the federation's plans in furtherance of the amendment, despite the unfavorable outlook.

Ohio Rejects Amendment.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—Ohio rejected the proposed child labor amendment late Tuesday when the house, by a vote of 91 noes and 35 ayes, defeated the ratification resolution after a long debate.

Although it is constitutionally possible for the ratification proposal to originate again in the senate, this move is not expected and the project is considered dead, so far as this session is concerned. Proponents hope to revive it two years hence, and to make it an issue at the next general election. The resolution of congress, submitting the proposed amendment to the states, fixed a seven years' time limit for ratification. Inasmuch as the amendment has been rejected by 13 states, the minimum number

C. C. Davidson was elected president of the board of directors of the Masonic Temple company at a reorganization meeting of the board and stockholders, held at the lodge temple in Broadway, last evening.

James Hodgkinson was chosen vice-president of the board and Joseph M. Blazer, secretary-treasurer.

Seven new directors were named. D. F. Nellis and Joseph Blazer were elected directors-at-large for terms of five years each, while the following representing each of the five Masonic bodies, were named for one-year terms:

R. H. Perry, Pilgrim Commandery No. 55, Knights Templar; George J. Phillips, Riddle Lodge No. 315; James Hodgkinson, East Liverpool Lodge No. 681; Joseph T. Croxall, Keramos Council No. 95, R. & S. M., and John Stamm, East Liverpool Chapter No. 100, R. A. M.

AMERICAN TENOR TO SING HERE

Charles Marshall, Great American Tenor.

CIVIC-MUSIC CONCERT FEB. 11

Charles Marshall, Chicago Opera Star, is Engaged.

Charles Marshall, leading dramatic tenor with the Chicago Civic Opera Company and noted concert artist in a Civic Music Association, who will be heard in concert here, February 11, is an American singer who has scored in opera both here and abroad.

He studied abroad with Lombard Sr., Vannucini and other great masters. Later there followed an impressive number of opera appearances in Italy, France, Turkey, Greece, Russia and Germany. It was this training and these appearances which formed the foundation for his great triumph in American opera. His concert successes have been no less the result of this early training.

Charles Marshall speaks of his European career as "a post-graduate course that was to prepare him to return home and do something worth while." He says of himself, "I am a Yankee, a plain down-easterner from Maine, although I have sung extensively in Europe under a Latinized version of my own name, Carlos Marzili. I permitted that name to stay with me until my great opportunity came with the Chicago Opera Company."

KLANSMEN GO TO HERRIN FOR YOUNG FUNERAL

TO PLACE BLAME

New Version of Responsibility for Four Killings.

BY JACK CEJNAR.

HERRIN, Ill., Jan. 28.—With the representatives of outside klaverns of the Ku Klux Klan arriving for the funeral tomorrow of S. Glenn Young, Williams county two-gun raider. The coroner's jury today resumed its probe of the gun fight Saturday night when four men were killed.

The principal witness today was Lige Green, former union official, with whom Young was quarreling when Deputy Sheriff Ora Thomas appeared on the scene. Witnesses yesterday asserted that Thomas entered the place with half drawn gun and fired the first shot in the battle fatal to four men. Green's story was to be, in effect, that Young held him with drawn pistols while he pleaded with Thomas not to draw his weapon and that Young fired first when he finally was pushed aside.

James S. Ratcher and John C. Glenn also were on hand to verify Green's story and to deny intimations made yesterday that they were responsible for shots which came from their direction.

Much may be learned from the testimony of Mrs. Angelo Biotti, who was in charge of her husband's store on the night of the tragedy and who was present when Young and his followers first came in the place.

Charter Special Car to Carry High Students to Salem

A special car over the Y. & O. railroad will be operated to Salem on Friday evening for high school students and others who expect to see Coach O. V. Boone's five in action against the Quakers.

The car is scheduled to leave the terminal at 5:30. After the game it will leave Salem at 10:15. Tickets, which will be sold at $1.25 for the round trip, can be obtained at Heime's, Weaver's and Russell's cigar stores.

RAIDER SPENDS NIGHT IN JAIL AFTER ARREST ON GUN CHARGE

Raymond Chambers and W. A. Calhoun go to Lisbon.

MAYOR EXPLAINS

Accused Officer Will Retain Place Pending Investigation.

W. A. Cline, city jail turnkey who surrendered to Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimerman, of Lisbon, at noon yesterday to a charge of stealing a revolver, valued at $40, preferred by Daum Appell, of the Campground road, was released from the county jail at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon on $1,000 bond.

W. A. Calhoun, of East Liverpool, was the surety.

Councilman J. Raymond Chambers accompanied Calhoun to Lisbon to arrange for Cline's release.

Cline, who pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday, spent the afternoon and last night in a cell at the county jail. His hearing has been set for Friday afternoon.

The accused officer will return to his home this afternoon.

Appell, who is a prisoner in the county jail, filed the charge as an aftermath of a liquor raid made upon his farm.

Substitute Turnkey.

Cline will be retained as turnkey at the city jail pending disposition of the case or, at least, until Mayor Brown has completed an investigation of the charge.

"I gave the gun to Cline a couple of weeks ago, when he told me that the revolver which had been issued to him was too heavy," the mayor said today. "The weapon was found on a barrel of mash when the police raided Appell's home and was regarded as part of the contraband supplies found in the house.

"The officers brought the still, gun and other supplies to the city jail and Cline, after Appell had pleaded guilty, asked me for the gun, stating that his own revolver was too heavy. I told him to take it.

"I have been told that he tried the gun out and found that it kicked and decided that he would keep his other revolver. He made his mistake in selling the revolver instead of turning it back to this office.

"Cline will be retained in the city's employment until he is convicted of the charge or until I have satisfied myself that he is guilty of the charge which has been brought against him."

For the last two nights Walter Torrence, of Church alley, has been on Cline's job at the city building.

STEAM SCALDS KLONDIKE MAN

Fred Ankron, 19, of Klondike, was scalded by steam while at work at the Treadwell Construction company's plant in Midland at 11 o'clock this morning.

The burns cover his right leg, side and arm. He was brought to the City hospital in the Shepler ambulance where he was attended by Dr. M. D. McCutcheon.

R. C. Sant Purchases Brother's Interest In John Sant Co.

Richard C. Sant today purchased the interest of his brother, Thomas Sant, in the John Sant & Sons company, clay brokers. He will become general manager of the company.

Thomas Sant plans to operate as an independent clay broker.

JEWELRY STORE BANDIT KILLED

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—One of five armed bandits who overpowered and robbed Israel Chornick in his jewelry store today and fled with gems valued at $8,000, was shot and instantly killed by a policeman. Another bandit was captured after a running pistol fight.

700 OHIO PASTORS ARE ASSURED SUPPORT IN LAW ENFORCEMENT FIGHT

Rev. F. A. Dean Hears Pledge Given at Columbus Banquet Tuesday Evening by Donahey and Crabbe.

Assured of the support of Governor Donahey and Attorney-General Crabbe in the fight for law enforcement, Rev. F. A. Dean, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church and president of the East Liverpool Ministerial association, returned home today after attending the sessions marking the two-day annual conference held in Columbus under the auspices of the Ohio Council of Churches.

More than 700 Ohio Protestant pastors were present at a banquet last night, when Gov. Donahey promised to co-operate with the clergymen. He assured the pastors that, "If lax mayors failed to do their duty after being repeatedly informed by the ministers of the existence of unlawful conditions such mayors will be looking at me across my desk in 24 hours".

Attorney General Speaks.

Attorney-General Crabbe, talking at the banquet, advised that if additional legislation is needed, the legislators confer upon the governor the power to say: "I'll remove you from office" for failure to enforce other laws besides liquor laws.

"What's wrong with Ohio is the element that insists on enforcing the law

Attorney G. L. Brokaw, who was appointed to succeed J. T. Croxall, who resigned December 1, will qualify. The board will name a president to succeed Mr. Croxall.

Monthly reports of Health Commissioner John Frazer, Sanitary Officer D. J. McKeever and Registrar of Vital Statistics Mrs. Alice M. Davidson will be submitted.

EIGHT INJURED IN HOTEL FIRE

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 28—Eight persons were injured, two seriously, in a fire which wrecked the Baltimore hotel here during the zero weather this morning.

Firemen scaled ladders covered with ice from the play of the hose in rescuing 17 guests from the blaze that destroyed the building at loss of $20,000.

Modern Dance Termed "Immodest, Immoral And Wicked" By Church Of Christ Evangelist

Six-inch Separation Rule Has Been Discarded, Says Dr. Lockhart, Who Turns Guns on Terpsichore.

The modern dance was termed "immodest, immoral and wicked" by Evangelist W. J. Lockhart, of Des Moines, Ia., in his sermon, "Taking the Lid Off the Modern Dance," at the First Church of Christ last night.

"The modern dance breaks down all modesty, cultivates familiarity that leads to brazenness, and destroys that modesty and innocence that are the charms of young womanhood and the glory of manhood," the evangelist declared.

"It makes common the thing that ought ever to be sacred, unsoiled and untarnished until that day when a young man and a young woman stand in holy love at the marriage altar, there to give themselves to one another for all time.

"The modern youth is spoiling that great joy that ought to come to every man of loving one, just one grand woman, because he is frittering away that possibility by loving too many women in the modern dance.

Cites Evil in Dancing.

"This thing that is wrong about the dance is not the life not the music, not the mingling of men and women. The worst evil is not even the scandalous method of dancing the modern dance—for I tell you that when it comes to that place that a girl before she goes into the dance hall must check part of her wearing apparel so that there may be no obstructions to the perfect blending of the bodies in the embrace of the dance, there is something rotten in Denmark.

"The thing that is wrong about the dance, the big thing, is the intimacy that is permitted between sexes that no where else in decent or respectable society is tolerated.

"Mother, you will find the rule of the dancing master that your daughter tells you about, that the bodies must be kept six inches apart when dancing, has long since been discarded.

"Today we have the 'tango', the 'bunny hug, the 'grizzly bear', the 'turkey trot' the 'hose-shoe whiligig',

CHILD LABOR FIGHT NOT TO BE ABANDONED

One-fourth of States Have Rejected Amendment.

State Senate Fails to Act on Duffy's Appointment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Sponsors of the constitutional amendment prohibiting child labor asserted today that the apparent failure of the amendment, through its rejection by one fourth of the states, would not result in their abandonment of the fight for its adoption.

The fight can and will, they said, be carried on by campaigns in the rejecting states, much after the manner of the eighteenth and nineteenth amendments were put through state legislatures.

The legislatures that have rejected the amendment can reconsider their action at any time in the future. Constitutional amendments remain pending for years, and time and circumstances may change the complexion of a legislature.

The campaign for ratification of the amendment is being directed by the American Federation of Labor and it was stated at labor headquarters today that there would be no change in the federation's plans in furtherance of the amendment, despite the unfavorable outlook.

Ohio Rejects Amendment.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—Ohio rejected the proposed child labor amendment late Tuesday when the house, by a vote of 91 noes and 35 ayes, defeated the ratification resolution after a long debate.

Although it is constitutionally possible for the ratification proposal to originate again in the senate, this move is not expected and the project is considered dead, so far as this session is concerned. Proponents hope to revive it two years hence, and to make it an issue at the next general election. The resolution of congress, submitting the proposed amendment to the states, fixed a seven years' time limit for ratification. Inasmuch as the amendment has been rejected by 13 states, the minimum number

C. C. Davidson was elected president of the board of directors of the Masonic Temple company at a reorganization meeting of the board and stockholders, held at the lodge temple in Broadway, last evening.

James Hodgkinson was chosen vice-president of the board and Joseph M. Blazer, secretary-treasurer.

Seven new directors were named. D. F. Nellis and Joseph Blazer were elected directors-at-large for terms of five years each, while the following representing each of the five Masonic bodies, were named for one-year terms:

R. H. Perry, Pilgrim Commandery No. 55, Knights Templar; George J. Pihillips, Riddle Lodge No. 315; James Hodgkinson, East Liverpool Lodge No. 681; Joseph T. Croxall, Keramos Council No. 95, R. & S. M., and John Stamm, East Liverpool Chapter No. 100, R. A. M.

AMERICAN TENOR TO SING HERE

Charles Marshall, Great American Tenor.

CIVIC-MUSIC CONCERT FEB. 11

Charles Marshall, Chicago Opera Star, is Engaged.

Charles Marshall, leading dramatic tenor with the Chicago Civic Opera Company and noted concert artist in a Civic Music Association, who will be heard in concert here, February 11, is an American singer who has scored in opera both here and abroad.

He studied abroad with Lombard Sr., Vannucini and other great masters. Later there followed an impressive number of opera appearances in Italy, France, Turkey, Greece, Russia and Germany. It was this training and these appearances which formed the foundation for his great triumph in American opera. His concert successes have been no less the result of this early training.

Charles Marshall speaks of his European career as "a post-graduate course that was to prepare him to return home and do something worth while." He says of himself, "I am a Yankee, a plain down-easterner from Maine, although I have sung extensively in Europe under a Latinized version of my own name, Carlos Marzialli. I permitted that name to stay with me until my great opportunity came with the Chicago Opera Company."

KLANSMEN GO TO HERRIN FOR YOUNG FUNERAL

TO PLACE BLAME

New Version of Responsibility for Four Killings.

BY JACK CEJNAR.

HERRIN, Ill., Jan. 28.—With the representatives of outside klaverns of the Ku Klux Klan arriving for the funeral tomorrow of S. Glenn Young, Williams county two-gun raider. The coroner's jury today resumed its probe of the gun fight Saturday night when four men were killed.

The principal witness today was Lige Green, former union official, with whom Young was quarreling when Deputy Sheriff Ora Thomas appeared on the scene. Witnesses yesterday asserted that Thomas entered the place with half drawn gun and fired the first shot in the battle fatal to four men. Green's story was to be, in effect, that Young held him with drawn pistols while he pleaded with Thomas not to draw his weapon and that Young fired first when he finally was pushed aside.

James S. Ratcher and John C. Glenn also were on hand to verify Green's story and to deny intimations made yesterday that they were responsible for shots which came from their direction.

Much may be learned from the testimony of Mrs. Angelo Biotti, who was in charge of her husband's store on the night of the tragedy and who was present when Young and his followers first came in the place.

Charter Special Car to Carry High Students to Salem

A special car over the Y. & O. railroad will be operated to Salem on Friday evening for high school students and others who expect to see Coach O. V. Boone's five in action against the Quakers.

The car is scheduled to leave the terminal at 5:30. After the game it will leave Salem at 10:15. Tickets, which will be sold at $1.25 for the round trip, can be obtained at Heime's, Weaver's and Russell's cigar stores.

RAIDER SPENDS NIGHT IN JAIL AFTER ARREST ON GUN CHARGE

Raymond Chambers and W. A. Calhoun go to Lisbon.

MAYOR EXPLAINS

Accused Officer Will Retain Place Pending Investigation.

W. A. Cline, city jail turnkey who surrendered to Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimerman, of Lisbon, at noon yesterday to a charge of stealing a revolver, valued at $40, preferred by Daum Appell, of the Campground road, was released from the county jail at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon on $1,000 bond.

W. A. Calhoun, of East Liverpool, was the surety.

Councilman J. Raymond Chambers accompanied Calhoun to Lisbon to arrange for Cline's release.

Cline, who pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday, spent the afternoon and last night in a cell at the county jail. His hearing has been set for Friday afternoon.

The accused officer will return to his home this afternoon.

Appell, who is a prisoner in the county jail, filed the charge as an aftermath of a liquor raid made upon his farm.

Substitute Turnkey.

Cline will be retained as turnkey at the city jail pending disposition of the case or, at least, until Mayor Brown has completed an investigation of the charge.

"I gave the gun to Cline a couple of weeks ago, when he told me that the revolver which had been issued to him was too heavy," the mayor said today. "The weapon was found on a barrel of mash when the police raided Appell's home and was regarded as part of the contraband supplies found in the house.

"The officers brought the still, gun and other supplies to the city jail and Cline, after Appell had pleaded guilty, asked me for the gun, stating that his own revolver was too heavy. I told him to take it.

"I have been told that he tried the gun out and found that it kicked and decided that he would keep his other revolver. He made his mistake in selling the revolver instead of turning it back to this office.

"Cline will be retained in the city's employment until he is convicted of the charge or until I have satisfied myself that he is guilty of the charge which has been brought against him."

For the last two nights Walter Torrence, of Church alley, has been on Cline's job at the city building.

STEAM SCALDS KLONDIKE MAN

Fred Ankron, 19, of Klondike, was scalded by steam while at work at the Treadwell Construction company's plant in Midland at 11 o'clock this morning.

The burns cover his right leg, side and arm. He was brought to the City hospital in the Shepler ambulance where he was attended by Dr. M. D. McCutcheon.

700 OHIO PASTORS ARE ASSURED SUPPORT IN LAW ENFORCEMENT FIGHT

Rev. F. A. Dean Hears Pledge Given at Columbus Banquet Tuesday Evening by Donahey and Crabbe.

Assured of the support of Governor Donahey and Attorney-General Crabbe in the fight for law enforcement, Rev. F. A. Dean, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church and president of the East Liverpool Ministerial association, returned home today after attending the sessions marking the two-day annual conference held in Columbus under the auspices of the Ohio Council of Churches.

More than 700 Ohio Protestant pastors were present at a banquet last night, when Gov. Donahey promised to co-operate with the clergymen. He assured the pastors that, "If lax mayors failed to do their duty after being repeatedly informed by the ministers of the existence of unlawful conditions such mayors will be looking at me across my desk in 24 hours".

Attorney General Speaks.

Attorney-General Crabbe, talking at the banquet, advised that if additional legislation is needed, the legislators confer upon the governor the power to say: "I'll remove you from office" for failure to enforce other laws besides liquor laws.

"What's wrong with Ohio is the element that insists on enforcing the law

150 TO ATTEND KIWANIS DINNER

Jules Brazil Will Headline Thursday Night Program.

About 150 Kiwanians, their wives and friends are expected to attend the dinner-dance party to be given at the Country club, Thursday evening of this week. The dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. G. E. Lewis, club president, will preside. The program will be featured by Jules Brazil, a professional entertainer of Toronto, Canada. Dancing, music for which will be furnished by a Wheeling orchestra, will follow.

Attendance prizes have been furnished for the women guests. Reservations for the affair must be in the hands of Ralph Sayre, chairman of the attendance committee, not later than 5 p. m. today.

Two more applications for membership have been approved by the board of directors. The applicants are Harry B. Keyes, of the Keyes Motor Supply company, whose classification is "motor supplies," and John E. Newell, of near Chester, who is being enrolled as an "agriculturist."

Police Ban Coasting On Two Streets as Boy is Injured

Following yesterday's accident in which five-year-old Clyde Davis of Fawcett street, suffered a fractured skull, police today banned the use of Blakely and Vine streets for coasting purposes.

The two streets are declared to be unusually dangerous because of the intersections at Ravine street, one of the main thoroughfares between East End and down town.

"It is impossible for the automobile driver to see coasters coming down these streets, and no matter how careful one may drive there is always danger of a collision," said Chief McDermott.

Water Pipe Breaks, Firemen are Called From Warm Beds

With the thermometer registering below zero, members of the Central fire department were called from their beds at 6:30 o'clock this morning by an alarm sent in by an East Third street resident.

When the firemen arrived on the scene they found no fire but a broken water pipe in a dwelling at the corner of Third street and Farmer alley.

The department was also called to the home of George Bickle, Thompson avenue, yesterday afternoon, by a chimney fire, which caused no damage.

Coaster's Condition Unchanged; Truck Driver Exonerated

There was practically no change today in the condition of Clyde Davis, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis, 164 Fawcett street, who suffered a fractured skull in a collision with an automobile truck in a coasting accident at the corner of Blakely and Ravine street, yesterday morning. Hospital attendants reported the child as "holding his own."

Everett Bishop, driver of the truck, owned by R. J. Shepherd, St. Clair avenue butcher, was exonorated of all blame in the accident after being questioned by Mayor Brown, last evening. Bishop said that he was coming down the street slowly when the lad shot out in front of him off Blakely street. He swerved the truck into a fire plug in a futile effort to avert the crash. The lad was between the front wheels of the truck when he was picked up.

Fisher, Wilhelm And Thorn Retain City Board Places

Fisher is one of the two Democratic members of the board. Other members are C. V. Beatty, Democrat; W. S. Fowler and John T. Wood, Republicans.

The mayor also announced the reappointment of George Wilhelm and Hugh Thorn as members of the Carnegie library commission for three-year terms. Other members of this board are: Dr. Donald MacLeod, W. S. Foulks, Charles Pomeroy and C. C. Ashbaugh.

Bed Clothing Burns In Restaurant Fire In Wellsville Today

Bed clothing and other similar articles were burned in a fire which broke out this morning at 1:30 o'clock in Murphy's restaurant, Main street, Wellsville.

The flames, which started in a back room, were extinguished by firemen with little damage resulting. The cause is unknown.

Dr. G. P. Lumsden, 70, a former commandant of the naval medical corps, died from heart failure after being marooned in the snow storm, and Archie Burrell, a negro, was found frozen to death in an unfrequented street.

At 7:30 a. m. the temperature was 2.9 degrees above zero.

Gotham Muffles Up.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—New York muffled up today as the mercury held onto about five degrees above zero. A coastal northeast gale followed yesterday's snow and sleet storm which left four inches of snow to impede foot and vehicular traffic.

More snow was predicted for Thursday with slightly warmer temperature.

The 30-degree drop in the thermometer caused one death, injuries to several persons and an attempt by a woman to commit suicide.

42 Below at Canton, N. Y.

The zero weather is expected to last at least 48 hours.

OLEAN, N. Y., Jan 28.—This city and southwestern New York experienced the coldest weather of the season and a drop in temperature of 70 degrees within 36 hours. The coldest weather reported in the city this morning was 30 degrees below zero. The thermometer registered 40 above zero, Monday.

Chicago Still Shivers.

Ohio Weather Records Smashed.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—All Ohio suffered from below zero weather early today. Temperature ranged from slightly below zero in the extreme northern part of the state to 10 or 12 below in the open spaces in southeastern Ohio, according to official readings received at the United States weather bureau here.

Official thermometer readings included: Cleveland, zero; Toledo, 2 below; Fort Wayne, 4 below; Columbus, 4 below; Cincinnati and Parkersburg, each 6 below zero.

Although rising temperature is predicted, weather bureau officials expressed belief that the mercury will not rise above the freezing point before Friday. A minimum of 8 or 12 deegrees above zero was forecasted for tonight. Increasing cloudiness, with probable snow Thursday is expected.

Ohio weather records of the past 50 years were smashed today, on the basis of unofficial reports of mercurial readings. Some points in Muskingum county reported 29 degrees below zero. In Hocking county, 22 below was reported at Logan and other points in that county. Perry county points, including New Lexington, reported 24 below.

Requests for food, clothing and fuel, from destitute families, were materially increased at offices of charitable organizations throughout the state.

Pennsylvania Suffers.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 28.—The coldest weather of the season struck Pittsburgh early today with a low temperature of 3 below zero officially reported at the local weather bureau. A temperature of 3 above was registered at 10 A. M., the lowest temperature in this section was 12 below at Etna according to the bureau's unofficial reports.

ZANESVILLE, Jan. 28.—Thermometers in this city recorded lower temperatures this morning, ranging from 15 to 20 degrees below. The coldest spot in the county, and possibly in the state, was Cannelville, a mining town, 10 miles south of here, where 29 below zero was reported. At the Ralph Rehl home, five miles west of the city on the National road, it was 26 degrees below.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 28.—The coldest day in several years was recorded here this morning when the mercury dropped to from 10 to 12 degrees below zero. Creeks froze overnight, while frost filled the air to a density of fog.

Opposes Dancing in Schools.

"The modern dance is different from the old Virginia reel and the square dances and the dance plays some of you folks used to know as a Methodist prayer meeting, is different from the wildest night of the wildest revel of a western cowboy carnival.

"If in colleges alone and among matured people, this devilish influence was at work, I would not fight it with such vigor, but they have inveigled it into our high schools under the guise of athletics at the social hour.

"It is a crime against youth to take our children at the adolescent age and throw them together in such intimate contact as the modern dance not only permits but requires. Girls every year are dropping out of high school with unfinished courses. And for every girl that fails there is a boy that fails as low."

The church auditorium was filled. Twenty persons were baptized at the close of the service.

Tonight Dr. Lockhart will preach on "Christian Bantism". Prof. Harbinson will conduct a Bible drill in connection with this service. "Pottery Night' will be observed Thursday.

Members of the Sunday school are making a drive for an attendance of 1,200 at next Sunday's Bible school service.

About 100 members of the state legislature attended the banquet. A number of the men walked out when Rev. L. C. Wright, Cleveland, making the final address, indicated that a political "big stick" would be used on house members who voted against ratifying the proposed child labor amendment.

Two Persons Killed, Three Injured When Train Hits Auto

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., Jan. 28.—Two persons were killed, a third probably injured fatally, and two others seriously hurt today when a fast Pennsylvania train hit an automobile at a crossing where it was said the crossing watchman failed to lower the gates.

The dead:

Mrs. Mary Urbanka and Joseph Kuchere, New Buffalo, Michigan, owner and driver of the car.

The injured:

Mrs. Joseph Spachman, New Buffalo, minor injuries.

The party were enroute to Chicago to attend the funeral of a son of Mrs. Spachman when the accident occurred.

Has Daughter.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Gloria Swanson, who was married today in Paris to the Marquise Henri Delaflaise, is one of the world's most prominent as well as the world's highest paid film stars.

This is the third marriage of Miss Swanson. Her first husband was Wallace Beery, himself a motion picture player. Her second husband was Herbert Somborn of New York. By the second marriage she had a daughter, now living with Miss Swanson's mother in Hollywood.

Miss Swanson went abroad some months ago to make a motion picture. She was to have returned to the United States shortly to take the leading role in another film production.

Miss Swanson began her screen career in comedy roles at one of the Los Angeles studios.

Relief Bill Recommended.

After voting to insert numerous technical amendments aimed to correct flaws in the bill, the senate taxation committee today will recommend passage of the emergency financial relief bill, as amended. The committee will urge that the bill be printed as amended. This action will prevent its passage this week. Leaders at first had hoped that the measure could go to Governor Donahey before the close of the week.

The senate rules committee will report today, recommending confirmation of five short term appointments by the governor. No action was taken on the appointment of T. J. Duffy, East Liverpool, for a second term as a member of the state industrial commission. Governor Donahey, as a result, is understood to intend not to send any more appointments to the senate until Duffy's name is acted upon. The appointments to be recommended by the rules committee for confirmation are: Herbert B. Briggs, Cleveland; William C. Groeninger, Columbus; Peter E. Dempsey, Columbus; Edward J. Cavan, Cleveland, and John H. Clemmer, Akron, as members of the state bureau of standards.

150 TO ATTEND KIWANIS DINNER

Jules Brazil Will Headline Thursday Night Program.

About 150 Kiwanians, their wives and friends are expected to attend the dinner-dance party to be given at the Country club, Thursday evening of this week. The dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. G. E. Lewis, club president, will preside. The program will be featured by Jules Brazil, a professional entertainer of Toronto, Canada. Dancing, music for which will be furnished by a Wheeling orchestra, will follow.

Attendance prizes have been furnished for the women guests. Reservations for the affair must be in the hands of Ralph Sayre, chairman of the attendance committee, not later than 5 p. m. today.

Two more applications for membership have been approved by the board of directors. The applicants are Harry B. Keyes, of the Keyes Motor Supply company, whose classification is "motor supplies," and John E. Newell, of near Chester, who is being enrolled as an "agriculturist."

Police Ban Coasting On Two Streets as Boy is Injured

Following yesterday's accident in which five-year-old Clyde Davis of Fawcett street, suffered a fractured skull, police today banned the use of Blakely and Vine streets for coasting purposes.

The two streets are declared to be unusually dangerous because of the intersections at Ravine street, one of the main thoroughfares between East End and down town.

"It is impossible for the automobile driver to see coasters coming down these streets, and no matter how careful one may drive there is always danger of a collision," said Chief McDermott.

Water Pipe Breaks, Firemen are Called From Warm Beds

With the thermometer registering below zero, members of the Central fire department were called from their beds at 6:30 o'clock this morning by an alarm sent in by an East Third street resident.

When the firemen arrived on the scene they found no fire but a broken water pipe in a dwelling at the corner of Third street and Farmer alley.

The department was also called to the home of George Rickle, Thompson avenue, yesterday afternoon, by a chimney fire, which caused no damage.

Coaster's Condition Unchanged; Truck Driver Exonerated

There was practically no change today in the condition of Clyde Davis, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis, 164 Fawcett street, who suffered a fractured skull in a collision with an automobile truck in a coasting accident at the corner of Blakely and Ravine street, yesterday morning. Hospital attendants reported the child as "holding his own."

Everett Bishop, driver of the truck, owned by R. J. Shepherd, St. Clair avenue butcher, was exonorated of all blame in the accident after being questioned by Mayor Brown, last evening. Bishop said that he was coming down the street slowly when the lad shot out in front of him off Blakely street. He swerved the truck into a fire plug in a futile effort to avert the crash. The lad was between the front wheels of the truck when he was picked up.

Fisher, Wilhelm And Thorn Retain City Board Places

Fisher is one of the two Democratic members of the board. Other members are C. V. Beatty, Democrat; W. S. Fowler and John T. Wood, Republicans.

The mayor also announced the reappointment of George Wilhelm and Hugh Thorn as members of the Carnegie library commission for three year terms. Other members of this board are: Dr. Donald MacLeod, W. S. Foulks, Charles Pomeroy and C. C. Ashbaugh.

Bed Clothing Burns In Restaurant Fire In Wellsville Today

Bed clothing and other similar articles were burned in a fire which broke out this morning at 1:30 o'clock in Murphy's restaurant, Main street, Wellsville.

The flames, which started in a back room, were extinguished by firemen with little damage resulting. The cause is unknown.

Dr. G. P. Lumsden, 70, a former commandant of the naval medical corps, died from heart failure after being marooned in the snow storm, and Archie Burrell, a negro, was found frozen to death in an unfrequented street.

At 7:30 a. m. the temperature was 2.9 degrees above zero.

Gotham Muffles Up.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—New York muffled up today as the mercury held onto about five degrees above zero. A coastal northeast gale followed yesterday's snow and sleet storm which left four inches of snow to impede foot and vehicular traffic.

More snow was predicted for Thursday with slightly warmer temperature.

The 30-degree drop in the thermometer caused one death, injuries to several persons and an attempt by a woman to commit suicide.

42 Below at Canton, N. Y.

The zero weather is expected to last at least 48 hours.

OLEAN, N. Y., Jan 28.—This city and southwestern New York experienced the coldest weather of the season and a drop in temperature of 70 degrees within 36 hours. The coldest weather reported in the city this morning was 30 degrees below zero. The thermometer registered 40 above zero, Monday.

Chicago Still Shivers.

Ohio Weather Records Smashed.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—All Ohio suffered from below zero weather early today. Temperature ranged from slightly below zero in the extreme northern part of the state to 10 or 12 below in the open spaces in southeastern Ohio, according to official readings received at the United States weather bureau here.

Official thermometer readings included: Cleveland, zero; Toledo, 2 below; Fort Wayne, 4 below; Columbus, 4 below; Cincinnati and Parkersburg, each 6 below zero.

Although rising temperature is predicted, weather bureau officials expressed belief that the mercury will not rise above the freezing point before Friday. A minimum of 8 or 12 deegrees above zero was forecasted for tonight. Increasing cloudiness, with probable snow Thursday is expected.

Ohio weather records of the past 50 years were smashed today, on the basis of unofficial reports of mercurial readings. Some points in Muskingum county reported 29 degrees below zero. In Hocking county, 22 below was reported at Logan and other points in that county. Perry county points, including New Lexington, reported 24 below.

Requests for food, clothing and fuel, from destitute families, were materially increased at offices of charitable organizations throughout the state.

Pennsylvania Suffers.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 28.—The coldest weather of the season struck Pittsburgh early today with a low temperature of 3 below zero officially reported at the local weather bureau. A temperature of 3 above was registered at 10 A. M., the lowest temperature in this section was 12 below at Etna according to the bureau's unofficial reports.

ZANESVILLE, Jan. 28.—Thermometers in this city recorded lower temperatures this morning, ranging from 15 to 20 degrees below. The coldest spot in the county, and possibly in the state, was Cannelville, a mining town, 10 miles south of here, where 29 below zero was reported. At the Ralph Rehl home, five miles west of the city on the National road, it was 26 degrees below.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 28.—The coldest day in several years was recorded here this morning when the mercury dropped to from 10 to 12 degrees below zero. Creeks froze overnight, while frost filled the air to a density of fog.

Modern Dance

the 'angel worm wiggle', the 'Salome glide', the 'shaking shimmy' and other up-to-date, cheek-to-cheek steps. You can't get a sheet of tissue paper between their bodies. Then tell me, there's no harm in the modern dance."

Opposes Dancing in Schools.

"The modern dance is different from the old Virginia reel and the square dances and the dance plays some of you folks used to know as a Methodist prayer meeting, is different from the wildest night of the wildest revel of a western cowboy carnival.

"If in colleges alone and among matured people, this devilish influence was at work, I would not fight it with such vigor, but they have inveigled it into our high schools under the guise of athletics at the social hour.

"It is a crime against youth to take our children at the adolescent age and throw them together in such intimate contact as the modern dance not only permits but requires. Girls every year are dropping out of high school with unfinished courses. And for every girl that fails there is a boy that falls as low."

The church auditorium was filled. Twenty persons were baptized at the close of the service.

Tonight Dr. Lockhart will preach on "Christian Bantism". Prof Harbinson will conduct a Bible drill in connection with this service. "Pottery Night' will be observed Thursday.

Members of the Sunday school are making a drive for an attendance of 1,200 at next Sunday's Bible school service.

700 Ohio Pastors

as long as it does not hit them", said the attorney-general. He said that if laws were enforced half as well as they are enacted 90 per cent of the crime would be eliminated.

About 100 members of the state legislature attended the banquet. A number of the men walked out when Rev. L. C. Wright, Cleveland, making the final address, indicated that a political "big stick" would be used on house members who voted against ratifying the proposed child labor amendment.

Two Persons Killed, Three Injured When Train Hits Auto

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., Jan. 28.—Two persons were killed, a third probably injured fatally, and two others seriously hurt today when a fast Pennsylvania train hit an automobile at a crossing where it was said the crossing watchman failed to lower the gates.

The dead:

Mrs. Mary Urbanka and Joseph Kuchere, New Buffalo, Michigan, owner and driver of the car.

The injured:

Mrs. Joseph Spachman, New Buffalo, minor injuries.

The party were enroute to Chicago to attend the funeral of a son of Mrs. Spachman when the accident occurred.

Gloria Swanson

the first Olympic world champion fencer. He is a nephew of the French ambassador to Switzerland, James Hennessy, the brandy king. The Marquis is one of the best swordsmen in France.

Has Daughter.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Gloria Swanson, who was married today in Paris to the Marquise Henri Delaflaise, is one of the world's most prominent as well as the world's highest paid film stars.

This is the third marriage of Miss Swanson. Her first husband was Wallace Beery, himself a motion picture player. Her second husband was Herbert Somborn of New York. By the second marriage she had a daughter, now living with Miss Swanson's mother in Hollywood.

Miss Swanson went abroad some months ago to make a motion picture. She was to have returned to the United States shortly to take the leading role in another film production.

Miss Swanson began her screen career in comedy roles at one of the Los Angeles studios.

necessary to insure its defeat, it is expected, Ohio legislators will take no further action on it.

Relief Bill Recommended.

After voting to insert numerous technical amendments aimed to correct flaws in the bill, the senate taxation committee today will recommend passage of the emergency financial relief bill, as amended. The committee will urge that the bill be printed as amended. This action will prevent its passage this week. Leaders at first had hoped that the measure could go to Governor Donahey before the close of the week.

The senate rules committee will report today, recommending confirmation of five short term appointments by the governor. No action was taken on the appointment of T. J. Duffy, East Liverpool, for a second term as a member of the state industrial commission. Governor Donahey, as a result, is understood to intend not to send any more appointments to the senate until Duffy's name is acted upon. The appointments to be recommended by the rules committee for confirmation are: Herbert B. Briggs, Cleveland; William C. Groeninger, Columbus; Peter E. Dempsey, Columbus; Edward J. Cavan, Cleveland, and John H. Clemmer, Akron, as members of the state bureau of standards.

FIGHTS CASE AND IS WINNER

Refusing Settlement, J. B. Tyson is Tried Before Jury.

James B. Tyson, colored, a resident of Wellsville, charged with assault and battery, retained the same fighting spirit he had when he was a member of the A. E. F. in France when his case was called to trial before Judge James G. Moore.

Tyson had been in jail about 70 days, having been bound over to the grand jury from the court of Justice Wallace L. Fogo of Wellsville. He was indicted by the January grand jury.

He retained Attorney Charles Boyd of Wellsville to defend him. Mr. Boyd and Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes talked the case over and the state was satisfied to have Tyson plead guilty and be fined $10 and costs. Then Mr. Boyd put the matter up to Tyson.

"Nothing doing," exclaimed Tyson. "We'll go before the jury and we'll die fightin'."

And before the jury Tyson went. A few witnesses were called. Then there was an argument by counsel before the jury. The court read its charge and out the jury went.

The jury was out but a little while. A foreman was quickly selected, and the balloting began.

The first ballot stood 11 to 1 for acquittal, and the second ballot was 12 for acquittal.

LECTURER WILL ANSWER QUERIES

"The man who has answered a billion questions." This is the familiar cognomen applied to Peter W. Collins, lecturer, industrial expert, and war figure, who will deliver an address tonight at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium here under auspices of Wellsville council, Knights of Columbus.

As a lecturer, Collins has campaigned against red radicalism, socialism, bolshevism, I. W. W. ism and other enemies of Americanism under the direction of the K. of C. supreme board of directors for the past decade. He has established a world's record for answering questions in the open forum held always at the close of his lectures.

Grand Knight P. W. Broderick announces that the lecture will be entirely free to the public and that Mr. Collins' hearers will be entitled to ask whatever question she or he may believe pertient to the subject of the lecture.

In his lecture Mr. Collins will deal with the potentiality for social disorders in the world and especially in America today and will define the forces that can successfully counteract the organized efforts to disrupt the present social status. His experiences with labor and capital have equipped him with an intimate knowledge of industrial disputes and his contacts with employers and employes enable him to understand thoroughly their viewpoints.

The program will be augmented by Pearch's Night Hawks, who will render several musical selections.

PRESENT BOOKS TO HIGH SCHOOL

An appropriate program has been arranged jointly by school authorities and representatives of the Junior Order of American Mechanics and the Daughters of America for the encyclopedia presentation Friday night in the high school auditorium. The exercises will be public.

The Junior Order and the Daughters of America recently purchased a complete set of the new International Encyclopedia and will present the set to high school students for reference work.

The Friday night program follows:

Reading—"At the Matinee," Geneve Storck.

Reading—"Cohen on the Phone," Harry DeTemple.

Acceptance — Superintendent S. E. Daw.

Music—High school orchestra.

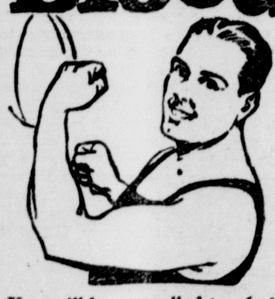
Power in the Blood!



You will be compelled to admit that the results of S. S. S. are really amazing!

MAN'S GLORY is his strength—yet how few there are who are really as strong as they should be. The blood thins, gets weaker, blood cells wear out—general weakness and a gradual break-down of the system results.

We know there is one thing that puts power in the blood, and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! We know that as blood cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! But have you ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought of it. So-called skin eruptions—pimples, boils, blackheads, eczema all pack up and go when the tide of blood cells begins to roll in. Blood cells are the fighting giants of Nature. S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood cell builders, blood cleansers and body builders known to us mortals. Here is your opportunity! S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs rheumatism, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down.

Public Debt

Since budgeting has become the fashion, most people know more about how much they owe than they used to. But what citizen thinks to add his share of the public debt, which is saddled upon him less directly but no less surely than any personal or business debt?

Census bureau figures show that the public debt of the American people two years ago was about $31,000,000,000. It is probably more than that now. The total given means over $280 apiece for every man, woman and child in the United States. Call it an even $300 today.

This may not mean much to the single man, earning a good income and having nobody but himself to take care of. It means a great deal to the average head of a family, carrying a public debt burden of about $1,500 in addition to all his other obligations. That $1,500 draws interest, and he provides the interest money, whether he realizes it or not. As the principal is retired, he advances the money to retire it. He pays in taxes of many kinds, direct and indirect. He pays in the price of everything he buys, whether commodities or human service; for debt spreads itself through the whole economic life of a nation, taking toll in practically every payment that one person makes to another.

If there were a clearer realization of this, there would be a stronger demand than there is for public economy and a scaling down of public debt from its present eminence of six times as much as it was before the war.

A Wasteful Industry

Secretary of the Interior Work considers oil the greatest problem now facing this country.

"Unless new fields are discovered," he says, "and large new wells are drilled, the petroleum supply of the United States will be gone in 12 years."

He points out the lavish production of the present, more than a million barrels a day, and the irresponsible, unregulated competition that causes this drain. "Whenever a new field is brought in, the owners rush to drill it up. Oil is fugitive. Each well takes oil from across the line, and a lease, if not too large, can be drained by wells all around it. This is one of the reasons for the wild and costly drilling which uses up the oil so fast." The government itself can bear sad testimony to that fact.

The problem, suggests the secretary, is to find a way to stop the wasteful drilling and keep the oil in the ground until it is needed. That would be safer and cheaper than storage above ground. Statesmanship at Washington might well concern itself more seriously with that practical problem than with others more spectacular and political.

The world will not come to an end when the petroleum pools play out. There will remain vast stores of oil locked up in the oil shale deposits of the country. But it will cost more to utilize that supply. Economy and common sense demand that the easily available pools be made to last as long as possible.

The Crook Specialist

Specialization seems to prevail in the criminal world as in the world of honest trades and professions. A police official says that ordinarily a safe-blower would not think of a hold-up, nor a burglar of picking a pocket, nor a forger of breaking into a house, nor an automobile thief of any other form of thievery.

This may be because crime is becoming so highly developed that a man can seldom master two branches of it. Or it may be due mainly to human inertia. The official referred to suggests the latter explanation, observing that "the first big job" usually seems to determine what unlawful trade a criminal will follow.

This knowledge is being applied in detecting malefactors. Photographs of known criminals are sorted according to the specialties of each group, and are then sorted again according to height—the most obvious physical characteristic—for the convenience of identification by witnesses. This information might often be useful to honest citizens in general.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

FAITHFUL PUBLIC SERVANTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—A new conception of public officials is being built up in the minds of American citizens as the result of the services performed in recent years by men appointed to high places.

An outstanding example is found in Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon. Another in Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover. Others might be mentioned by the score.

Perhaps the greatest opportunity for personal profit ever opened to an individual was presented to Byron R. Newton. Mr. Newton was assistant secretary of the treasury during the war. He has special charge of an enormous number of contracts for government construction. It was a period when the public was accustomed to great expenditures and when little attention was paid to the circumstances of awarding contracts. For several years—in fact, all through the war period—Mr. Newton held this position. He worked early and late, signing contracts for millions upon millions of dollars worth of buildings. Finally he quit the job—flat broke. He had to get something else to do because the meagre salary he received was insufficient to support his family.

The case of Mr. Mellon is perhaps a sharp contrast, but no less interesting from the standpoint of public service. As Mr. Newton was a poor man, so Mr. Mellon is admittedly a very rich man. He has reached the traditional life span of three score years and ten. He has had a busy life in which he has mingled private business with public affairs. He established the Mellon institute, a scientific organization which makes investigations invaluable to industry.

CABINET CALL A SURPRISE

In his later years he was called into the cabinet by President Harding. The summons, it is said, was a distinct surprise to him. He had done his work in a quiet and unassuming manner. He had not sought publicity of any sort. It was upon recommendation of the late Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, that Mr. Harding invited Mr. Mellon to take up the tasks of secretary of the treasury.

The first public reaction to the appointment was that "one of those Pittsburgh millionaires" had been named, but it was not long before there was a change in sentiment. It was discovered that this "Pittsburgh millionaire" was not of the type which periodically goes to Broadway strewing dollars right and left. Washington and the rest of the country found that the treasury was headed by a quiet, rather diffident, elderly man who was extremely unassuming in social and official life, but who, when it came to making a deal for the government, proved to be a financial genius of the first rank.

Everyone who knew anything about the state of the nation was aware that the job of handling the post-war finances was a more difficult one than the raising of money during the hostilities. When the war enthusiasm was rife, when speeches were being made, when a highly organized publicity bureau was functioning, it was not so difficult to borrow money with which to pay for the war. But after it was over, there was a different story. It was the morning after. The war enthusiasm was past. The public was sick of the war, sick of taxes, sick of Liberty bonds. Yet the nation had to be financed.

This was the task undertaken by the diffident man from Pittsburgh. So, having reached an age at which most men retire, being in possession of wealth which would enable him to command any indulgence he might desire, having an unassailable social position, Mr. Mellon came to Washington at a salary no more than what hundreds of thousands of business men receive for services which are never heard of outside their own circles, and went to work.

NO EIGHT-HOUR DAY FOR HIM

He reports at his office daily at about 9:30 o'clock in the morning. He leaves around 7 o'clock in the evening—sometimes a little later—sometimes midnight. He receives about twenty callers a day on official business. He signs about a hundred documents a day. He reads scores of papers. In addition to receiving callers he consults daily with the assistant secretaries of the treasury and instructs them in the details of the work to be done. He has been doing this for four years. The salary he receives means nothing to him. He gives more than his year's salary to charities every month.

The other day a rumor was spread that Mr. Mellon was to resign. The stock market sagged as a result because of the general idea that if the diffident man from Pittsburgh left the government service, the country would be less secure. In answer to newspapermen's questions about his intentions, he replied: "I intend to remain here so long that you will tire of asking me if I mean to resign. That is—if the president wants me too."

Mr. Hoover belongs in the same general category. When he was called into the cabinet, it was known that he was a man of great wealth. As a matter of fact his wealth had been diminished by his previous public service. During the war he was food administrator. When President Wilson appointed him, he took up the work at once. Congress had appropriated no funds for the food administration, so Mr. Hoover, instead of waiting for slow congressional action, opened his bureau at once. Out of his private funds he rented a large building in Washington and from his own pocket he paid hundreds of clerks. This went on for some months. In the end congress appropriated the money to reimburse him for what he had spent, but, of course, did not indemnify him for the amount he had lost by withdrawing his money from his private business.

Others might be mentioned in long array to show the type of public servants the United States enjoys. During the oil leasing scandals, President Coolidge was asked what he thought was becoming of the government when such things could happen. His reply was that if as much attention was paid to the 99 per cent who are good and faithful servants of the government as had been paid to the 1 per cent of unfaithful ones, the public would understand that it had the most honest government in the world.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—The most important play of the season is undoubtedly "La Galerie des Glaces," the Gallery of Mirrors, by Henry Bernstein.

Only the title is at fault, declare the critics, for it is obscure. During the first days of its run many Parisians thought it must refer to the great ballroom of the Versailles palace, and concluded that the famous treaty might enter into the subject. As a matter of fact, it symbolizes the multiplicity and diversity of the aspects that a man placed in the center of his imagination, as in the center of a series of mirrors, receives from others as well as himself. Never the same reflection meets his glance. "Doubt" would have been a better title.

The play is in reality a serious study of a sick soul. A man, the hero, is trying to find the sincerity of the feelings one has for him, but forges countless pretexts not to believe them. He is a painter, and has proof of great talent, but discovers unnumbered reasons to destroy it. No matter how great love his wife proves for him, he falls into doubt and fears that she is only being moved by vengeance and that she will always long for the man who was his first husband and first lover.

These successive struggles in the mind of the painter form the whole drama. The action is almost uniquely regulated by the movements of his inner feelings. The hero is a sick man, his case is pathological, in spite of the fact that the author persuades us the contrary.

Agnes is certain she will prove her love for the painter when she divorces her husband and marries the hero. They go off for a long journey, after which Charles seems almost healed, but it is not long before the old trouble returns.

Was not Agnes jealous upon learning that her husband, Lionel, had consoled himself with Gertrude?

Doubt is beginning to come back when Lionel is killed in an accident. Charles awaits the impression upon his wife and, finding that she is scarcely moved, begins to believe she must love him after all. But then—love is a little thing to pass so quickly. He is in doubt again. The curtain falls, leaving the audience to its conjectures as well.

If nobody loves a fat man, how about the slender woman? Do the men love the thin woman of today? This is the subject of an interesting questionnaire recently carried on in L'Avenir.

Writers, artists, intellectuals and business men have sent in their answers, which seem to show them favorable to the tube-like form of 1924. Most of them agree that it is the dressmaker's trick to keep woman eternally young. Thanks to present-day hygiene and sports, the woman of today does not "thicken" with age and thus conserves until extreme maturity the slender waist, hips and ankles of a young girl. All affirm that she is much unlike the Greeks of the golden age and the artists of the renaissance who favored great amplitude of form, to witness—the Venus de Milo, Michelangelo, Titian, Rubens and Rembrandt.

"Really beautiful women are only so when nude or draped," says the painter Louis Picard. "Try putting a hat and dress on the Venus de Milo. She would be ridiculous. The question of fat women and thin ones is not one of fashion, but of taste."

"The body is only a pretext," he declares. "Fashion is an art which is essentially decorative and, like all the arts, it adds a great deal of imagination to nature.

"I confess my liking for the charming extravagances of the slinky line of today. All the ladies are vertical and we approve and even admire, but if tomorrow curved lines should return and with them crinolines and hoops, everyone would be just as happy."

The celebrated painter, Federico Beltram Masses, thinks lovely woman's form should be that of a guitar, which was considered the perfect type by the ancient Hindoos. This is what is called the "mock thin" of today, slim waist and hips with thighs well developed.

When the Prince of Wales becomes king, it is claimed, he will be the world's most-traveled monarch. Having visited India, Canada, the United States and Australia, his next three big trips will take him to South Africa, Argentina and Ireland.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

I wonder who scouts around for deserted barns upon which to paint chewing tobacco signs. Pathetic old age—the lonely fellows who hold up "Stop" signs at obscure railroad crossings. The levee and sidewheel steamers at St. Louis. And the hubbub of life at the Union station.

Perhaps they call it the "effete east" because they have manicure maids on trains east of the Mississippi. An Indiana farm house in the clearing "Candle lights gleaming through the sycamores — just like the song. Why do they call it "Terry Hut?"

You know Dayton, O., by the clang of the grade crossing bells. Has any one ever opened a train window with a single effort? There is an intangible dignity about Columbus, O. *!bj ! zznuy! All of which means the typewriter slid off into my lap.

Pittsburgh at night resembles a python with eyes of burnished yellow. With a lacy background of dancing flames—as bright as peacocks. Pittsburgh oozes industrial strength more than any city in the world. It reeks of grime and sweat, yet is beautiful.

The capital at Harrisburg—austere and aloof. A thin slice of moon. And an overturned sled on a country road. Rabbit tracks down to a tiny stream. Birch trees laden with frozen crystals. Puffs of train smoke cascading over fields of corn stubbles.

The kid-glove purileus of Philadelphia. Country estates given over to a scherzo of high flown names, fancy butlers, porte cocheres and brick walled gardens. Trenton, Newark—and New York.

I have in the past three weeks traversed the following states—New Jersey, New York, District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Georgia and Pennsylvania. Each gives you a different impression. Outwardly Pennsylvania is the showiest. The composite impression is of the immensity of America as compared to European countries. Somehow I feel the deepest and most sincere pride in our country takes root in the middle west.

About the most exciting event on this trip happened on a train. Upon returning from the diner the stateroom door was found locked. The conductor and porter were firm in their statement it could only be locked from within. Some one was inside. The door was pounded and the buzzer sounded. No answer. After a wait of 15 minutes it was decided to jimmy the door. The porter whispered a blood curdling suggestion. Some passenger had gone in there and committed suicide. He even thought he heard the report of a pistol shot shortly before. The door refused jimmying. The lock was unscrewed and a breathless crowd that had gathered from other cars awaited the verdict. The conductor went in and found everything normal. The only explanation is that a lurch of the train threw the inside catch. Great mystery novels have been fashioned of thinner material.

It is because the mightiest city New York belongs to the world that we should all be interested in it. It has been made by people from your town and mine. I always approach it with the same curious feeling of wonder. Just now we are thundering under the river and experiencing that strange stoppage in the ears. The razzle dazzle of a life left off three weeks ago is renewed. I wonder if my little dog will be down to the station to greet me.

DINNER STORIES

One of the witnesses before a grand jury appointed to inquire into a case of alleged bribery in a local election stated that he had received $25 to vote Republican, and in cross-examination it was elicited that he had also received $25 to vote Democrat.

The jury foreman, in amazement, repeated:

"You say you received $25 to vote Republican?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you also received $25 to vote Democrat?"

"Yes, sir."

"And for whom did you vote at the finish?"

"I voted according to my conscience!"

In Texas they still tell the story of the Englishman who imported a famous wolfhound from Europe in order to gain wealth by catching wolves, for which the state paid a bounty of $10 a head.

When the dog came he invited some dyed-in-the-wool Texans to see the first chase. Before long a wolf was sighted, the dog was freed from his leash, and the chase was on, but though the party wandered mile after mile they found no trace of either the dog or the wolf. Finally they reached a clearing where a native was chopping wood, and the Britisher cried: "I say, old chap, did you see a wolf and a hound pass by here?"

"Sure did. They just parsed."

"Pretty hot, stranger; but the dog was a little bit ahead."

The printed record of last year's proceedings in both houses of congress contains 19,575 pages and is equal to a 10-page newspaper of solid reading matter for 300 days. And somehow, the easier talking and printing become, the harder it is to get direct action.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

SHOOTING IT OUT

For a picture of civilization in 1925, study events in Herrin, Ill., when Glenn Young, engaged in "cleaning up bootleggers" for the Ku Klux Klan," and Ora Thomas, sheriff, once jailed for bootlegging, decided "to shoot it out."

They sot it out in a cigar store, both were killed and two others in the store were killed.

The widow of Young, who had locked up more than 125 bootleggers and now lies in an undertaker's shop, dressed in the purple robe of a "kleagle," says, "My husband played the game straight."

He certainly played it to the end and "shot it out" to a bitter finish.

Mrs. Young, the widow, represents in her way our peculiar civization of klan, anti-klan, bootleg and prohibition. She is totally blind; somebody trying to kill her husband shot out her eyes. This interesting incident of our civilization will seem queer to people that read about it ten thousand years hence.

THE BOOTLEG BOSS

One venerable citizen yesterday uttered the new complaint.

"Once in a while, in my business, I have to ask a favor from a political boss. In the old days the boss was somebody that had grown up with the community, somebody that understood the people, often an Irishman.

"Now, when I want to see the boss, it's a young bootlegger, often scracely able to speak English. Bootlegging brings in so much ready money that the bootleggers have crowded out the old time bosses."

FEAR AND BRUTALITY

In Washington an aged Negro barber, E. C. Washington, seeing the sun going out during the eclipse, decided that it meant the end of the world, ran amuck, razor in hand, and slashed one man before he was overpowered. He acted quite naturally.

Fear takes men back to the animal condition and makes animals of them.

You see it in war, when horrible brutalities, often disgrace both sides.

Fear has more to do with fighting than courage. You see what fear does in shipwreck, causing men to trample down women and children fighting for the lifeboats.

It is perfectly natural that the ancient Negro, frightened by the world coming to an end, should instinctively feel that he wanted to cut somebody with his razor. That's what fear does.

The strange thing is that anybody should be worried about the world end. The same thing would happen to everybody, and nobody, except, perhaps, the real estate owner, would have cause for special protest.

French flyers, on their way to Lake Tchad in the Sudan, landed at Oolomb Bechar in the Sahara desert, promptly on time, reaching their first stopping place at 3:30 Sunday afternoon.

While this country, where flying machines were invented, wishes it had flying machines, and does nothing, European countries manufacture and use them. British companies make three round trips a day between Paris and London, carrying passengers. The round trip costs $60 and the journey takes three hours. It used to mean a train from London to the English channel, then the steamboat across the channel, then a train from the channel to Paris. Now it means one short straight flight.

The French and British governments subsidize commercial flying, as they should do, and as this country should do. Tthey encourage aircraft manufacturers, that they may have plants ready and able to turn out machines in case of emergency.

WEEK-END FLYERS

This country will fly eventually, after having watched and waited for Europe and Japan to teach us.

The day is coming when winter resorts, summer resorts and mountain resorts will look up into the sky every Friday afternoon to see the week-enders come flying from the big cities. The father in New York, Boston, Detroit, Chicago, will send his family to a warm place in winter, a cool place in summer, and distance won't matter. To fly a thousand miles to spend a week-end and fly back again for business on Monday will be no more than going now from New York to Atlantic City, or from Milwaukee to Oconomowoc.

A great change is coming in transportation. Henry Ford starts it with his steamships that leave the heart of this continent, starting from the River Rouge, in the Great Lake region, stopping to unload at seaports, all along the coast and around on the Gulf of Mexico.

Coming back those ships will soon organize return freight of local products, which will be the beginning of economical distribution.

The watchword of the future will be freight by water, passenger travel through the air.

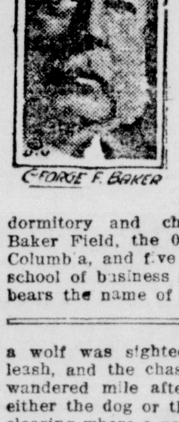
WHO'S WHO

GEORGE F. BAKER.

Dean of New York bankers and one of the leading financiers of America is George F. Baker, in whose honor a testimonial dinner was given recently by the New York State Bankers' association.

George F. Baker was born on March 27, 1840, in Troy, N. Y. When he was eight years old the family moved to Brooklyn, and his father engaged in the shoe business in Maiden Lane, N. Y.



GEORGE F. BAKER

In 1863 when Secretary of the Treasury Salmon P. Chase conceived the idea of selling bonds through the banks, and the national banking system was evolved, Baker was offered a position as teller in one of these nationay banks in New York—a bank which was formed with a captal of $200,000.

In latter years he has been a great giver. To the Red Cross he gave $2 000,000 during the war. He has given a student dormitory and chemical laboratory to Cornell; Baker Field, the 0 acres for athletic purposes, to Columbia, and five million dollars for the graduate school of business administration of Harvard, which bears the name of the George F. Baker foundation.

Public Debt

Since budgeting has become the fashion, most people know more about how much they owe than they used to. But what citizen thinks to add his share of the public debt, which is saddled upon him less directly but no less surely than any personal or business debt?

Census bureau figures show that the public debt of the American people two years ago was about $31,000,000,000. It is probably more than that now. The total given means over $280 apiece for every man, woman and child in the United States. Call it an even $300 today.

This may not mean much to the single man, earning a good income and having nobody but himself to take care of. It means a great deal to the average head of a family, carrying a public debt burden of about $1,500 in addition to all his other obligations. That $1,500 draws interest, and he provides the interest money, whether he realizes it or not. As the principal is retired, he advances the money to retire it. He pays in taxes of many kinds, direct and indirect. He pays in the price of everything he buys, whether commodities or human service; for debt spreads itself through the whole economic life of a nation, taking toll in practically every payment that one person makes to another.

If there were a clearer realization of this, there would be a stronger demand than there is for public economy and a scaling down of public debt from its present eminence of six times as much as it was before the war.

A Wasteful Industry

Secretary of the Interior Work considers oil the greatest problem now facing this country.

"Unless new fields are discovered," he says, "and large new wells are drilled, the petroleum supply of the United States will be gone in 12 years."

He points out the lavish production of the present, more than a million barrels a day, and the irresponsible, unregulated competition that causes this drain. "Whenever a new field is brought in, the owners rush to drill it up. Oil is fugitive. Each well takes oil from across the line, and a lease, if not too large, can be drained by wells all around it. This is one of the reasons for the wild and costly drilling which uses up the oil so fast." The government itself can bear sad testimony to that fact.

The problem, suggests the secretary, is to find a way to stop the wasteful drilling and keep the oil in the ground until it is needed. That would be safer and cheaper than storage above ground. Statesmanship at Washington might well concern itself more seriously with that practical problem than with others more spectacular and political.

The world will not come to an end when the petroleum pools play out. There will remain vast stores of oil locked up in the oil shale deposits of the country. But it will cost more to utilize that supply. Economy and common sense demand that the easily available pools be made to last as long as possible.

The Crook Specialist

Specialization seems to prevail in the criminal world as in the world of honest trades and professions. A police official says that ordinarily a safe-blower would not think of a hold-up, nor a burglar of picking a pocket, nor a forger of breaking into a house, nor an automobile thief of any other form of thievery.

This may be because crime is becoming so highly developed that a man can seldom master two branches of it. Or it may be due mainly to human inertia. The official referred to suggests the latter explanation, observing that "the first big job" usually seems to determine what unlawful trade a criminal will follow.

This knowledge is being applied in detecting malefactors. Photographs of known criminals are sorted according to the specialties of each group, and are then sorted again according to height—the most obvious physical characteristic—for the convenience of identification by witnesses. This information might often be useful to honest citizens in general.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

FAITHFUL PUBLIC SERVANTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—A new conception of public officials is being built up in the minds of American citizens as the result of the services performed in recent years by men appointed to high places.

An outstanding example is found in Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon. Another in Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover. Others might be mentioned by the score.

Perhaps the greatest opportunity for personal profit ever opened to an individual was presented to Byron R. Newton. Mr. Newton was assistant secretary of the treasury during the war. He has special charge of an enormous number of contracts for government construction. It was a period when the public was accustomed to great expenditures and when little attention was paid to the circumstances of awarding contracts. For several years—in fact, all through the war period—Mr. Newton held this position. He worked early and late, signing contracts for millions upon millions of dollars worth of buildings. Finally he quit the job—flat broke. He had to get something else to do because the meagre salary he received was insufficient to support his family.

The case of Mr. Mellon is perhaps a sharp contrast, but no less interesting from the standpoint of public service. As Mr. Newton was a poor man, so Mr. Mellon is admittedly a very rich man. He has reached the traditional life span of three score years and ten. He has had a busy life in which he has mingled private business with public affairs. He established the Mellon institute, a scientific organization which makes investigations invaluable to industry.

CABINET CALL A SURPRISE

In his later years he was called into the cabinet by President Harding. The summons, it is said, was a distinct surprise to him. He had done his work in a quiet and unassuming manner. He is a painter, and has proof of great talent, but discovers unnumbered reasons to destroy it. No matter how great love his wife proves for him, he falls into doubt and fears that she is only being moved by vengeance and that she will always long for the man who was his first husband and first lover.

These successive struggles in the mind of the painter form the whole drama. The action is almost unquely regulated by the movements of his inner feelings. The hero is a sick man, his case is pathological, in spite of the fact that the author persuades us the contrary.

Agnes is certain she will prove her love for the painter when she divorces her husband and marries the hero. They go off for a long journey, after which Charles seems almost healed, but it is not long before the old trouble returns.

Was not Agnes jealous upon learning that her husband, Lionel, had consoled himself with Gertrude?

Doubt is beginning to come back when Lionel is killed in an accident. Charles awaits the impression upon his wife and, finding that she is scarcely moved, begins to believe she must love him after all. But then—love is a little thing to pass so quickly. He is in doubt again. The curtain falls, leaving the audience to its conjectures as well.

If nobody loves a fat man, how about the slender woman? Do the men love the thin woman of today? This is the subject of an interesting questionnaire recently carried on in L'Avenir.

Writers, artists, intellectuals and business men have sent in their answers, which seem to show them favorable to the tube-like form of 1924. Most of them agree that it is the dressmaker's trick to keep woman eternally young. Thanks to present-day hygiene and sports, the woman of today does not "thicken" with age and thus conserves until extreme maturity the slender waist, hips and ankles of a young girl. All affirm that she is much unlike the Greeks of the golden age and the artists of the renaissance who favored great amplitude of form, to witness—the Venus de Milo, Michelangelo, Titian, Rubens and Rembrandt.

"Really beautiful women are only so when nude or draped," says the painter Louis Picard. "Try putting a hat and dress on the Venus de Milo. She would be ridiculous. The question of fat women and thin ones is not one of fashion, but of taste."

"The body is only a pretext," he declares. "Fashion is an art which is essentially decorative and, like all the arts, it adds a great deal of imagination to nature.

"I confess my liking for the charming extravagances of the slinky line of today. All the ladies are vertical and we approve and even admire, but if tomorrow curved lines should return and with them crinolines and hoops, everyone would be just as happy."

The celebrated painter, Federico Beltram Masses, thinks lovely woman's form should be that of a guitar, which was considered the perfect type by the ancient Hindoos. This is what is called the "mock thin" of today, slim waist and hips with thighs well developed.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

I wonder who scouts around for deserted barns upon which to paint chewing tobacco signs. Pathetic old age—the lonely fellows who hold up "Stop" signs at obscure railroad crossings. The levee and sidewheel steamers at St. Louis. And the hubbub of life at the Union station.

Perhaps they call it the "effete east" because they have manicure maids on trains east of the Mississippi. An Indiana farm house in the clearing "Candle lights gleaming through the sycamores"—just like the song. Why do they call it "Terry Hut?"

You know Dayton, O., by the clang of the grade crossing bells. Has any one ever opened a train window with a single effort? There is an intangible dignity about Columbus, O. *!bj ! zznuy! All of which means the typewriter slid off into my lap.

Pittsburgh at night resembles a python with eyes of burnished yellow. With a lacy background of dancing flames—as bright as peacocks. Pittsburgh oozes industrial strength more than any city in the world. It reeks of grime and sweat, yet is beautiful.

The capital at Harrisburg—austere and aloof. A thin slice of moon. And an overturned sled on a country road. Rabbit tracks down to a tiny stream. Birch trees laden with frozen crystals. Puffs of train smoke cascading over fields of corn stubbles.

The kid-glove purileus of Philadelphia. Country estates given over to a scherzo of high flown names, fancy butlers, porte cocheres and brick walled gardens. Trenton, Newark—and New York.

I have in the past three weeks traversed the following states—New Jersey, New York, District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Georgia and Pennsylvania. Each gives you a different impression. Outwardly Pennsylvania is the showiest. The composite impression is of the immensity of America as compared to European countries. Somehow I feel the deepest and most sincere pride in our country takes root in the middle west.

About the most exciting event on this trip happened on a train. Upon returning from the diner the stateroom door was found locked. The conductor and porter were firm in their statement it could only be locked from within. Some one was inside. The door was pounded and the buzzer sounded. No answer. After a wait of 15 minutes it was decided to jimmy the door. The porter whispered a blood curdling suggestion. Some passenger had gone in there and committed suicide. He even thought he heard the report of a pistol shot shortly before. The door refused jimmying. The lock was unscrewed and a breathless crowd that had gathered from other cars awaited the verdict. The conductor went in and found everything normal. The only explanation is that a lurch of the train threw the inside catch. Great mystery novels have been fashioned of thinner material.

It is because the mightiest city New York belongs to the world that we should all be interested in it. It has been made by people from your town and mine. I always approach it with the same curious feeling of wonder. Just now we are thundering under the river and experiencing that strange stoppage in the ears. The razzle dazzle of a life left off three weeks ago is renewed. I wonder if my little dog will be down to the station to greet me.

DINNER STORIES

One of the witnesses before a grand jury appointed to inquire into a case of alleged bribery in a local election stated that he had received $25 to vote Republican, and in cross-examination it was elicited that he had also received $25 to vote Democrat.

The jury foreman, in amazement, repeated:

"You say you received $25 to vote Republican?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you also received $25 to vote Democrat?"

"Yes, sir."

"And for whom did you vote at the finish?"

"I voted according to my conscience!"

In Texas they still tell the story of the Englishman who imported a famous wolfhound from Europe in order to gain wealth by catching wolves, for which the state paid a bounty of $10 a head.

When the dog came he invited some dyed-in-the-wool Texans to see the first chase. Before long a wolf was sighted, the dog was freed from his leash, and the chase was on, but though the party wandered mile after mile they found no trace of either the dog or the wolf. Finally they reached a clearing where a native was chopping wood, and the Britisher cried: "I say, old chap, did you see a wolf and a hound pass by here?"

"Sure did. They just passed."

"And how was the race?"

"Pretty hot, stranger, but the dog was a little bit ahead."

The printed record of last year's proceedings in both houses of congress contains 19,575 pages and is equal to a 10-page newspaper of solid reading matter for 300 days. And somehow, the easier talking and printing become, the harder it is to get direct action.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

SHOOTING IT OUT

For a picture of civilization in 1925, study events in Herrin, Ill., when Glenn Young, engaged in "cleaning up bootleggers" for the Ku Klux Klan," and Ora Thomas, sheriff, once jailed for bootlegging, decided "to shoot it out."

They sot it out in a cigar store, both were killed and two others in the store were killed.

The widow of Young, who had locked up more than 125 bootleggers and now lies in an undertaker's shop, dressed in the purple robe of a "kleagle," says, "My husband played the game straight."

He certainly played it to the end and "shot it out" to a bitter finish.

Mrs. Young, the widow, represents in her way our peculiar civization of klan, anti-klan, bootleg and prohibition. She is totally blind; somebody trying to kill her husband shot out her eyes. This interesting incident of our civilization will seem queer to people that read about it ten thousand years hence.

THE BOOTLEG BOSS

One venerable citizen yesterday uttered the new complaint.

"Once in a while, in my business, I have to ask a favor from a political boss. In the old days the boss was somebody that had grown up with the community, somebody that understood the people, often an Irishman.

"Now, when I want to see the boss, it's a young bootlegger, often scracely able to speak English. Bootlegging brings in so much ready money that the bootleggers have crowded out the old time bosses."

FEAR AND BRUTALITY

In Washington an aged Negro barber, E. C. Washington, seeing the sun going out during the eclipse, decided that it meant the end of the world, ran amuck, razor in hand, and slashed one man before he was overpowered. He acted quite naturally.

Fear takes men back to the animal condition and makes animals of them.

You see it in war, when horrible brutalities, often disgrace both sides.

Fear has more to do with fighting than courage. You see what fear does in shipwreck, causing men to trample down women and children fighting for the lifeboats.

It is perfectly natural that the ancient Negro, frightened by the world coming to an end, should instinctively feel that he wanted to cut somebody with his razor. That's what fear does.

The strange thing is that anybody should be worried about the world end. The same thing would happen to everybody, and nobody, except, perhaps, the real estate owner, would have cause for special protest.

French flyers, on their way to Lake Tchad in the Sudan, landed at Oolomb Bechar in the Sahara desert, promptly on time, reaching their first stopping place at 3:30 Sunday afternoon.

While this country, where flying machines were invented, wishes it had flying machines, and does nothing, European countries manufacture and use them. British companies make three round trips a day between Paris and London, carrying passengers. The round trip costs $60 and the journey takes three hours. It used to mean a train from London to the English channel, then the steamboat across the channel, then a train from the channel to Paris. Now it means one short straight flight.

The French and British governments subsidize commercial flying, as they should do, and as this country should do. Tbhey encourage aircraft manufacturers, that they may have plants ready and able to turn out machines in case of emergency.

WEEK-END FLYERS

This country will fly eventually, after having watched and waited for Europe and Japan to teach us.

The day is coming when winter resorts, summer resorts and mountain resorts will look up into the sky every Friday afternoon to see the week-enders come flying from the big cities. The father in New York, Boston, Detroit, Chicago, will send his family to a warm place in winter, a cool place in summer, and distance won't matter. To fly a thousand miles to spend a week-end and fly back again for business on Monday will be no more than going now from New York to Atlantic City, or from Milwaukee to Oconomowoc.

A great change is coming in transportation. Henry Ford starts it with his steamships that leave the heart of this continent, starting from the River Rouge, in the Great Lake region, stopping to unload at seaports, all along the coast and around on the Gulf of Mexico.

Coming back those ships will soon organize return freight of local products, which will be the beginning of economical distribution.

The watchword of the future will be freight by water, passenger travel through the air.

WHO'S WHO

GEORGE F. BAKER.

Dean of New York bankers and one of the leading financiers of America is George F. Baker, in whose honor a testimonial dinner was given recently by the New York State Bankers' association.

George F. Baker was born on March 27, 1840, in Troy, N. Y. When he was eight years old the family moved to Brooklyn, and his father engaged in the shoe business in Maiden Lane, N. Y.

GEORGE F. BAKER

In 1863 when Secretary of the Treasury Salmon P. Chase conceived the idea of selling bonds through the banks, and the national banking system was evolved, Baker was offered a position as teller in one of these nationay banks in New York—a bank which was formed with a captal of $200,000.

In latter years he has been a great giver. To the Red Cross he gave $2,000,000 during the war. He has given a student dormitory and chemical laboratory to Cornell; Baker Field, the 0 acres for athletic purposes, to Columbia, and five million dollars for the graduate school of business administration of Harvard, which bears the name of the George F. Baker foundation.

SOCIETY

A pretty party took place last evening in the East Liverpool Country club, when Miss Ethel Mercer entertained a group of friends at a 6 o'clock dinner. As the guests entered the club house, they were greeted by little Miss Arlene Sturgis of Chester, dressed as a bride, who presented each with a sweetheart rose, which bore a heart, announcing the engagement of Miss Grace Gamble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Gamble of West Fourth street, to Edwin W. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard of Covington, Va.

The table decorations were carried out in a color scheme of red and white. Centering the table was a mound of rosebuds and sweet peas, while at each place were smaller mounds, arranged with asparagus fern. Miniature brides and bridegrooms, bearing the names of each guest, served as place cards. Covers were arranged for 12 persons.

The wedding will be an event of the near future.

Ladies of Elks Entertain.

The Ladies of the Elks entertained yesterday afternoon with an informal card party ,which was followed by a dinner at 5:30 o'clock, at which covers were arranged for 40 persons. The husbands and families were special guests.

The table was centered with a large bouquet of rosebuds and asparagus fern. The dinner was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Clarence Boring, Mrs. Thomas Anthony and Mrs. Samuel Burgess.

The next party will be held Tuesday evening, February 3, the husbands being special guests. Mrs. Joseph Webber will be the hostess.

Preparations are being made for the annual dinner-dance to be given by the Elks' ladies on February 24.

Mrs. R. R. Bode Hostess.

Mrs. R. R. Bode was hostess last evening at her home in Bradshaw avenue to the members of the Mizpah club. Four tables of five hundred were in play during the social hours. Souvenirs were awarded Mrs. James Scully and Mrs. John C. McNicol. Guest prizes were given Mrs. A. W. Strauss and Mrs. John T. McNicol.

At the close of the playing a five-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Alice Capwell, Mrs. Joseph Gape, Mrs. M. J. Lynch and Mrs. John Naughton. Valentine decorations were carried out with a color scheme of red and white in the appointments. Miniature bonbon baskets were given each guest as favors.

Special guests included Mrs. A. W. Strauss, Mrs. J. T. McNicol, Mrs. E. D. Ryan and Mrs. Alfred Sullivan.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Charles McNicol of Lincoln avenue in two weeks.

Miss Helen Lewis Hostess

An enjoyable program was given by the members of the Helen Gould Literary club, last evening, when the club was entertained at the home of Miss Helen Lewis of Virginia avenue, Chester. The response to roll call was the name of a Galsworthy play, after which the life of Bernard Shaw was discussed by Mrs. Charles Douglass. The Galsworthy play, "Justice," was the topic of Mrs. Walter Smith.

Informal social hours followed the program, during which a luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Helen Allison.

Bridge Party at Beaumont Home.

Mrs. Dudley Beaumont delightfully entertained a group of friends at her home in Main street, Wellsville, Monday evening. Three tables of bridge were in progress during the social hours. The home was attractively decorated with jonquils. Trophies were awarded Mrs. William Ward and Miss Gladys Arnold.

Amoma Class is Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ibbs entertained the members of the Amoma class of the First Baptist church, last evening in their home in Jefferson street. Mrs. Ibbs is president of the class. A 6 o'clock chicken dinner was featured, at which covers were arranged for 40 guests. The home was attractively decorated for the occasion. Mrs. Ibbs was assisted in serving by Mrs. Kenneth Shenkle, Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mrs. Charles Pape and Mrs. W. H. Cook.

The social hours were spent with games which had been arranged by Mrs. W. F. Lones.

Special guests were Rev. and Mrs. A. H O'Brien, Mr and Mrs. W. F. Lones and Miss Carrie Southwick of Wellsville; Mrs. Elmer Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Shenkle.

Entertains World-wide Guild.

Last evening, in her home on Thompson avenue, Mrs. A. G. Ellis entertained the members of the World-Wide Guild of the First Baptist church with a six o'clock coverdish party. The guests were seated at two tables placed in the dining room of the home. Valentine novelties were used in decoration. Places were arranged for 26 persons.

Piano, victrola and radio music was enjoyed. Mrs. Ellis gave a vocal selection.

How to Solve It

Every number indicates the beginning of a word—if horizontal, crosswise, until the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, downwards until the first shaded stop below. Compare the synonyms in the appended lists to the spaces in the diagrams and fill in the words you know. These will give you clues to the more difficult words. When completed the words should interlock perfectly.

SOCIETY

A pretty party took place last evening, in the East Liverpool Country club, when Miss Ethel Mercer entertained a group of friends at a 6 o'clock dinner. As the guests entered the club house, they were greeted by little Miss Arlene Sturgis of Chester, dressed as a bride, who presented each with a sweetheart rose, which bore a heart, announcing the engagement of Miss Grace Gamble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Gamble of West Fourth street, to Edwin W. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard of Covington, Va.

The table decorations were carried out in a color scheme of red and white. Centering the table was a mound of rosebuds and sweet peas, while at each place were smaller mounds, arranged with asparagus fern. Miniature brides and bridegrooms, bearing the names of each guest, served as place cards. Covers were arranged for 12 persons.

The wedding will be an event of the near future.

Ladies of Elks Entertain.

The Ladies of the Elks entertained yesterday afternoon with an informal card party ,which was followed by a dinner at 5:30 o'clock, at which covers were arranged for 40 persons. The husbands and families were special guests.

The table was centered with a large bouquet of rosebuds and asparagus fern. The dinner was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Clarence Boring, Mrs. Thomas Anthony and Mrs. Samuel Burgess.

The next party will be held Tuesday evening, February 3, the husbands being special guests. Mrs. Joseph Webber will be the hostess.

Preparations are being made for the annual dinner-dance to be given by the Elks' ladies on February 24.

M. E. Church Class Dinner

The Queen Esther and Standard Bearer socieites of the First Methodist Episcopal church were entertained Monday evening in the social rooms of the church with a 6 o'clock dinner, which was served by a committee of girls, with Miss Jane Dorrance as chairman. Following the dinner, Miss Mayme Davidson was in charge of the Home Mission lesson from "Adventures in Brotherhood." A talk on Chinese customs and foreign work was given by Miss Rachel Nease. Miss Susan Smith gave a vocal selection.

It was decided to hold a valentine party for the young men and women of thec hurch, in the gymnasium, Friday evening, February 13.

Mrs. R. R. Bode Hostess.

Mrs. R. R. Bode was hostess last evening at her home in Bradshaw avenue to the members of the Mizpah club. Four tables of five hundred were in play during the social hours. Souvenirs were awarded Mrs. James Scully and Mrs. John C. McNicol. Guest prizes were given Mrs. A. W. Strauss and Mrs. John T. McNicol.

At the close of the playing a five-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Alice Capwell, Mrs. Joseph Gape, Mrs. M. J. Lynch and Mrs. John Naughton. Valentine decorations were carried out with a color scheme of red and white in the appointments. Miniature bonbon baskets were given each guest as favors.

Special guests included Mrs. A. W. Strauss, Mrs. J. T. McNicol, Mrs. E. D. Ryan and Mrs. Alfred Sullivan.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Charles McNicol of Lincoln avenue in two weeks.

Miss Helen Lewis Hostess

An enjoyable program was given by the members of the Helen Gould Literary club, last evening, when the club was entertained at the home of Miss Helen Lewis of Virginia avenue, Chester. The response to roll call was the name of a Galsworthy play, after which the life of Bernard Shaw was discussed by Mrs. Charles Douglass. The Galsworthy play, "Justice," was the topic of Mrs. Walter Smith.

Informal social hours followed the program, during which a luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Helen Allison.

Bridge Party at Beaumont Home.

Mrs. Dudley Beaumont delightfully entertained a group of friends at her home in Main street, Wellsville, Monday evening. Three tables of bridge were in progress during the social hours. How to Solve It

Every number indicates the beginning of a word—if horizontal, crosswise, until the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, downwards until the first shaded stop below. Compare the synonyms in the appended lists to the spaces in the diagrams and fill in the words you know. These will give you clues to the more difficult words. When completed the words should interlock perfectly.

EAST END

REV. H. KAYE GIVES SERMON

New Castle Evangelist Speaks to Big Crowd Last Night.

A large crowd attended the services in the Pennsylvania avenue Church of Christ, last evening, when Rev. Harry Kaye, of New Castle, Pa., delivered a forceful sermon. Members of the Teachers training class attended.

Rev. Kaye's subject was the "gospel of the Road Signs" and was found in the book of Proverbs, 16:17.

This evening his subject will be "In the Potters House." A special invitation is given to all potters and their friends to hear this discourse.

In his sermon last evening, he spoke in part as follows: "We find that this old life is nothing but highways. When a man tries to occupy the whole road, then there is bound to be trouble, but if he keeps on the right side, all is well.

Our prisons today are filled, because the occupants have not kept to the right, keep to the right in your public life, and keep to the right all of the time. There are a lot that think they are the only ones that travel on the highway, that is true in our every day life as well as our religious experience.

How much safer this old world would be if every one put into practice the Golden Rule. True christianity is the absence of selfishness. This old world is sadly in need of the lubricating power of christian courtesy.

We find that there is a welcome and a warning in the promise of Jesus Christ. If you and I will only listen to that welcome, what will we see?

"We will see that new Jerusalem that Jesus said he went to prepare for us. Those that arre turning down the shed blood of Jesus Christ are the ones that should take the warning. If you do not, God's jail awaits you. The highway that God has prepared never wears out. Jesus Christ is the way and there is no other. This highway has never been closed for repairs. Saul found that the road was good enough for him and many have gone over that highway since and found no devastation.

"The highway is still open. Don't let any of us try to detour, there is no other road, they are all closed for repairs, but this one grand and glorious highway is open for all traffic, the traffic that belongs to Christ, they alone are the ones that traverse this road.

"If you have taken a detour and have left the main highway of Jesus Christ, for your sake and for the sake of the one that loves you so, won't you drive over on the right highway that is open for you tonight, the one that always is in repair, ready for you to enter and find that there is peace and contentment?"

Mid-Week Services.

Prayer meeting services will be held this evening in the churches where no revivals are in progress. Pastors will be in charge of the meetings.

KIDNEYS NEED LOTS OF WATER AT TIMES

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatism twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

LODGE OFFICERS TO BE INSTALLED

Tri-State Encampment will install officers this evening in the Hill building, Mulberry street. Delegations of Odd Fellows are expected to attend from the various lodges throughout the district. Lunch will be served at the close of the meeting.

Many Attend Services.

Large crowds continue to attend evangelistic services which are being conducted by Rev. R. G. Wilkin of Freeport, Ill., in the Oakland Free Methodist church. Rev. J. O. Archer is assisting in the meetings which will close Sunday evening.

Noted Racing Driver In "Speed Spook" At Ceramic Theatre

No other automobile racing driver in the world has been put to the acid test of courage and stamina as has Harry Hartz, whose racing car is shown to advantage in "The Speed Spook," which is now playing at the Ceramic with Johnny Hines in the feature role. In the speedway qualifying trials, which call for a rate of 105 miles per hour before a driver is allowed to enter any of the great automobile classics, Harry Hartz had his motor tuned so perfectly that instead of being satisfied when his car made the necessary qualifying speed at the Altoona Speedway recently, he kept giving his machine all the gas it could stand, with the result that he eventually hurtled his car around the fast board track at the unprecendented speed of 128 miles per hour, which constitutes a new world's record. In "The Speed Spook," at the Ceramic, Hartz is seen making his record-breaking performance. This driver is known as the hard-luck racer of the automobile track, for despite his uncanny ability to drive a car, Lady Luck seems never to be with him.

Last year at Altoona he was forced out of the race by trouble, and smiled. Only a few weeks later at Kansas City the same thing happened, but still he smiled. At the coast, when his luck was worst, he never faltered. Harry isn't married, but he should get credit for that, as enough of "them" have liked him. He was born at Pomona, California, and when a youngster he became the cycle car champion of the neighborhood. Neighbors declare that he raised a howl because his nurse wasn't fast enough in pushing his go-cart.

Harry's first big race was at Los Angeles in 1921, where he graduated from Eddie Hearn's "college," being elevated from the degree of mechanician. He finished well up in the money there, and later won the 150-mile event at Fresno. In 1922 and again in 1923 he was second at Indianapolis, a feat never before equaled. He was also second to Tommy Milton last September in the 100-mile dirt championship at Syracuse.

Hartz can easily be recognized in "The Speed Spook" by his number 4 car, which took fourth place in the Altoona championship 250-mile race where these racing scenes were taken for Johnny Hines' latest feature comedy.

Over Night That Sore Inflamed Throat Gets Better

Why bother with slow acting remedies that may and may not help your raw sore throat, when two or three gargles with Kojene before you go to bed at night will reduce the inflammation, destroy any and every germ and cause the soreness to go before morning.

If by any mishap Kojene doesn't do this Carnahan's Drug Store, Jesse D. Holloway, Mathews Cut Rate store or any progressive druggist anywhere will gladly return the 60 cents you pay for a six ounce bottle.

Read the directions for sore throat as Kojene, the world's most powerful antiseptic, should be diluted to obtain quick results. Kojene is non-poisonous—you can drink it if you want to.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Folly to Suffer With Piles

Step into any drug store, get a 60-cent pkg. of Pyramid Pile Suppositories and stop the soreness, pain, itching and bleeding. Thousands declare it a wonder, many saved from operations. Entire families rely upon Pyramid and recommend them to their friends.

Warning

Shun All Sneezes

Colds are spread by coughs and sneezes. Be careful if you have one. Shun all sneezes if you haven't.

Colds are dangerous. None can foretell what they will lead to. Millions are wrecked by them.

You can stop it in 24 hours with Hill's Cascara-Bromide-Quinine. Many thousands do that daily.

The tablets are so sure that your druggist guarantees them. So reliable that millions now employ them. So perfect that 25 years have developed no way to improve them.

Colds Fever Grippe Checked at once

Hill's Tablets embody the best we know. The best ways to fight colds, fever, headache and grippe. The best ways to remove the poisons. The best ways to tone the system.

You need all these helps. You need them in the best forms known to science. Take no chances with a cold.

Use Hill's promptly. The sooner you start the quicker the cold will end. Don't waste your hours in discomfort.

LAUGHS, THRILLS AND TEARS IN NEW FILM

"ARE YOU A FAILURE?" CONTAINS EVERY ELEMENT TO ENTERTAIN

If you want to laugh, thrill and grow tender all in one too brief evening, take the reviewer's advice and see "Are You a Failure?" which opens tomorrow at the American theatre. For good, clean, fast action he has seen nothing so far to equal it this season.

The hero, portrayed by Lloyd Hughes, is a failure; humiliated before everyone, he is made to feel his lack of pep and go the more because of the reputation of his father as an intrepid river boss.

The love of the girl, played by Madge Bellamy, and an advertisement seen by chance and headed by the pertinent query, "Are You a Failure?" decided his fate. He sends for the course of instructions and immediately things begin to happen. He is caught in a log jam, he quells a riot, whips his worst and most bullying enemy, and is almost carried over a falls on a log before his course is complete. Without spoiling your pleasure it may be said that the conclusion leaves nothing to be desired.

Permanent roads are a good investment —not an expense

An Extra Gasoline Tax of from 6 to 20 Cents Per Gallon

Your gasoline bills run into real money.

But have you ever stopped to figure how much of this is in the form of an incredibly high gasoline tax?

Let's see what happens when you leave the Concrete Highway and take to a gravel or a dirt road.

Conclusive tests have proved that a gallon of gasoline will carry you only two thirds as far on a gravel road as on a Concrete Road. On a dirt road a gallon of gasoline will carry you only half as far as on Concrete.

With gasoline at twenty cents a gallon, you would thus pay a gasoline tax of more than 6 cents per gallon on the gravel road and 20 cents a gallon on the dirt road.

And remember that every time you travel on either a dirt or a gravel road you also increase wear and tear on tires and run up your general repair bills.

Why continue to pay these high taxes and get nothing in return but the discomfort and inconvenience of unpaved roads and streets?

Let your local officials know you want an adequate system of Concrete Roads and Streets. They are just as willing to build them as you are anxious to get them.

But they must have your support.

REV. H. KAYE GIVES SERMON

New Castle Evangelist Speaks to Big Crowd Last Night.

A large crowd attended the services in the Pennsylvania avenue Church of Christ, last evening, when Rev. Harry Kaye, of New Castle, Pa., delivered a forceful sermon. Members of the Teachers training class attended.

Rev. Kaye's subject was the "gospel of the Road Signs" and was found in the book of Proverbs, 16:17.

This evening his subject will be "In the Potters House." A special invitation is given to all potters and their friends to hear this discourse.

In his sermon last evening, he spoke in part as follows: "We find that this old life is nothing but highways. When a man tries to occupy the whole road, then there is bound to be trouble, but if he keeps on the right side, all is well.

Our prisons today are filled, because the occupants have not kept to the right, keep to the right in your public life, and keep to the right all of the time. There are a lot that think they are the only ones that travel on the highway, that is true in our every day life as well as our religious experience.

KIDNEYS NEED LOTS OF WATER AT TIMES

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatism twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

How much safer this old world would be if every one put into practice the Golden Rule. True christianity is the absence of selfishness. This old world is sadly in need of the lubricating power of christian courtesy.

We find that there is a welcome and a warning in the promise of Jesus Christ. If you and I will only listen to that welcome, what will we see?

"We will see that new Jerusalem that Jesus said he went to prepare for us. Those that are turning down the shed blood of Jesus Christ are the ones that should take the warning. If you do not, God's jail awaits you. The highway that God has prepared never wears out. Jesus Christ is the way and there is no other. This highway has never been closed for repairs. Saul found that the road was good enough for him and many have gone over that highway since and found no devastation.

"The highway is still open. Don't let any of us try to detour, there is no other road, they are all closed for repairs, but this one grand and glorious highway is open for all traffic, the traffic that belongs to Christ, they alone are the ones that traverse this road.

"If you have taken a detour and have left the main highway of Jesus Christ, for your sake and for the sake of the one that loves you so, won't you drive over on the right highway that is open for you tonight, the one that always is in repair, ready for you to enter and find that there is peace and contentment?"

LODGE OFFICERS TO BE INSTALLED

Tri-State Encampment will install officers this evening in the Hill building, Mulberry street. Delegations of Odd Fellows are expected to attend from the various lodges throughout the district. Lunch will be served at the close of the meeting.

Many Attend Services.

Large crowds continue to attend evangelistic services which are being conducted by Rev. R. G. Wilkin of Freeport, Ill., in the Oakland Free Methodist church. Rev. J. O. Archer is assisting in the meetings which will close Sunday evening.

Over Night That Sore Inflamed Throat Gets Better

Why bother with slow acting remedies that may and may not help your raw sore throat, when two or three gargles with Kojene before you go to bed at night will reduce the inflammation, destroy any and every germ and cause the soreness to go before morning.

If by any mishap Kojene doesn't do this Carnahan's Drug Store, Jesse D. Holloway, Mathews Cut Rate store or any progressive druggist anywhere will gladly return the 60 cents you pay for a six ounce bottle.

Read the directions for sore throat as Kojene, the world's most powerful antiseptic, should be diluted to obtain quick results. Kojene is nonpoisonous—you can drink it if you want to.

Mid-Week Services.

Prayer meeting services will be held this evening in the churches where no revivals are in progress. Pastors will be in charge of the meetings.

Noted Racing Driver In "Speed Spook" At Ceramic Theatre

No other automobile racing driver in the world has been put to the acid test of courage and stamina as has Harry Hartz, whose racing car is shown to advantage in "The Speed Spook," which is now playing at the Ceramic with Johnny Hines in the feature role. In the speedway qualifying trials, which call for a rate of 105 miles per hour before a driver is allowed to enter any of the great automobile classics, Harry Hartz had his motor tuned so perfectly that instead of being satisfied when his car made the necessary qualifying speed at the Altoona Speedway recently, he kept giving his machine all the gas it could stand, with the result that he eventually hurtled his car around the fast board track at the unprecendented speed of 128 miles per hour, which constitutes a new world's record. In "The Speed Spook," at the Ceramic, Hartz is seen making his record-breaking performance. This driver is known as the hard-luck racer of the automobile track, for despite his uncanny ability to drive a car, Lady Luck seems never to be with him.

Last year at Altoona he was forced out of the race by trouble, and smiled. Only a few weeks later at Kansas City the same thing happened, but still he smiled. At the coast, when his luck was worst, he never faltered. Harry isn't married, but he should get credit for that, as enough of "them" have liked him. He was born at Pomona, California, and when a youngster he became the cycle car champion of the neighborhood. Neighbors declare that he raised a howl because his nurse wasn't fast enough in pushing his go-cart.

Harry's first big race was at Los Angeles in 1921, where he graduated from Eddie Hearn's "college," being elevated from the degree of mechanician. He finished well up in the money there, and later won the 150-mile event at Fresno. In 1922 and again in 1923 he was second at Indianapolis, a feat never before equaled. He was also second to Tommy Milton last September in the 100-mile dirt championship at Syracuse.

Hartz can easily be recognized in "The Speed Spook" by his number 4 car, which took fourth place in the Altoona championship 250-mile race where these racing scenes were taken for Johnny Hines' latest feature comedy.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Folly to Suffer With Piles

Step into any drug store, get a 60-cent pkg. of Pyramid Pile Suppositories and stop the soreness, pain, itching and bleeding. Thousands declare it a wonder, many saved from operations. Entire families rely upon Pyramid and recommend them to their friends.

Warning

HOMECOMING IS PLANNED HERE

The committee, which is composed of R. L. Parker, O. O. Allison, G. A. Arner, Mayor Frank Riley, W. C. Lynch, M. E Eppley, George C. Holliday and F. S. Huff, Jr., organized by electing the following officers: Chairman, R. L. Parker; vice chairman, F. S. Huff; secretary, George H. Holliday; treasurer, O. O. Allison.

Tentative plans were discussed for the celebration, which is expected to prove one of the biggest events ever held in the city. While no dates were fixed, it was agreed that it would take place either the latter part of August or the first week in September. Suggestions that the affair embrace three days was approved by the committee.

Of Interest to Women

Many years ago Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., originated her now famous Vegetable Compopnd for women, by steeping roots and herbs on her kitchen stove. The fame of its success for overcoming some of the most stubborn ailments of women spread far and wide until today the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., of Lynn, Mass. is said to be the largest ucer of roots and herbs in the world. It operates a large laboratory at Lynn, Mass., others at Cobourg, Canada; Mexico City, Mexico; Barcelona, Spain, and Paris, France.

STATE MUNICIPAL LEAGUE TO MEET

Arrangements were being completed today for the second annual conference on state beautification to be held in Charleston February 17 and 18 in connection with the annual meeting of the West Virginia Municipal League.

Advertising West Virginia will be the theme of the conference, according to the tentative program which includes an address on this subject, by John C. Bond, state auditor, a report from the committee on location of a national park in West Virginia and statements from delegations on beautification program sponsored by each.

On the second day of the conference the legislative committee of the West Virginia Municipal League, members of which include Julia W. Ruhl of Clarksburg, George I. Neal of Huntington, C. M. Seibert of Martinsburg, and James A. Sigafoose of Moundsville, will hold an executive session.

Mill Resumes Operations.

Hot mills and other departments of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company resumed operations today following a loaf of several days.

To Reorganize Society.

Meeting will be held tomorrow evening in the First Presbyterian church when the Christian Endeavor society will be re-organized.

CHILD LABOR BILL ACTION DEFERRED

Action by the West Virginia legislature on the proposed child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution was deferred yesterday when the state senate adopted a motion from the majority leader, Senator Wright Hugus, referring to the judiciary committee a resolution that would have rejected the amendment. The resolution was introduced yesterday by Senator H. P. Henshaw, Democrat, and its reference to committee followed a conference of Republican senators just before the session.

The House of Delegates began its session by giving unanimous consent to throw open again for debate a reslution on road construction, which it had tabled yesterday.

Delegate Belknap of Braxton county spoke in behalf of his resolution which would urge the road committee to complete grading all roads connecting county seats before undertaking paving work.

With only two days left before the constitutional limitation brings an end to the initial session of the legislature members of both branches were expected to add to the avalanche of bills. However, with the total of bills in the House standing last night at 364 and the figure in the Senate at 229 it was a question whether high records of previous years would be reached.

FOLLANSBEE FIVE SCHEDULED HERE

Chester high basketball team will meet the fast Follansbee five on the Rock Springs park floor Friday evening. The preliminary game will bring together the Freshmen and Sophomores of the local school.

Follansbee holds a victory over the locals, having captured a hard fought game on their own floor last Saturday evening. Supporters of high are confident the tables will be turned in the return clash.

High team will journey to Weirton Saturday night where they will meett the team of that place.

Bake Sale Arranged.

Members of the Philathean class of the First United Presbyterian church will conduct a bake sale Saturday afternoon in the Kimball grocery store, Fifth street and Carolina avenue. Proceeds will be used in procuring some special equipment for the church.

Evans Funeral.

Funeral services for Harry D. Evans, 43 years old, who died as a result of injuries received in an auto accident, which were held this afternoon at the home of his brother, R. C. Evans, Hollidays Cove.

Burial was made in Nesley chapel cemetery.

Gets English Station.

County Court To Meet.

Monthly meeting of the county court will be held next Monday at New Cumberland. Number of important matters will be taken up at this session by the board members.

Fancywork Club Meeting.

Eastern Star Fancywork club will meet tomorrow evening at 7:30 in the Masonic temple, First street. Hostesses will be: Mrs. Frank Gregg, Mrs. Bernard Shaw and Mrs. John Rice.

Peggy Marsh's New Husband

Peggy Marsh's new husband, Keld Fenwick, lord of a manor in Lincolnshire, is going to raise her son as his own. The boy's father was the late Henry Field, to whom Peggy was never married. Relatives of young Field set aside a fund for the maintenance of the child after his death.

Purchases Gas Stand.

R. W. Irwin has purchased the auto accessory store and gasoline stand at Fourth and Carolina avenue, formerly owned by C. H. Jones.

Mid-Week Services.

Mid week prayer services will be held this evening in the various local churches. Meetings will be in charge of the respective pastors.

CHILD LABOR BILL ACTION DEFERRED

Action by the West Virginia legislature on the proposed child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution was deferred yesterday when the state senate adopted a motion from the majority leader, Senator Wright Hugus, referring to the judiciary committee a resolution that would have rejected the amendment. The resolution was introduced yesterday by Senator H. P. Henshaw, Democrat, and its reference to committee followed a conference of Republican senators just before the session.

The House of Delegates began its session by giving unanimous consent to throw open again for debate a resolution on road construction, which it had tabled yesterday.

Delegate Belknap of Braxton county spoke in behalf of his resolution which would urge the road committee to complete grading all roads connecting county seats before undertaking paving work.

With only two days left before the constitutional limitation brings an end to the initial session of the legislature members of both branches were expected to add to the avalanche of bills. However, with the total of bills in the House standing last night at 364 and the figure in the Senate at 229 it was a question whether high records of previous years would be reached.

FOLLANSBEE FIVE SCHEDULED HERE

Chester high basketball team will meet the fast Follansbee five on the Rock Springs park floor Friday evening. The preliminary game will bring together the Freshmen and Sophomores of the local school.

ROAD PROGRAMS BEING FRAMED

Township Trustees Plan Improvements During Summer.

With the winter season being at the fag end, many boards of township trustees have begun to consider their road improvement program for the spring and summer season. Just how much road improvement will be put through this year is hard to forecast at this time, although the road projects of the county commissioners is pretty well in hand.

The trustees of Middleton township are interested in getting an improved highway through from East Liverpool north to East Palestine, and it is said by some of these trustees that the trustees of St. Clair township look with favor upon the extension of the improvement of the graded road in Middleton into St. Clair township.

The improvement of this road, Middleton trustees believe, will be completed and surfaced before the close of 1926, but the grading on this section of the road in Middleton will be completed soon.

Middleton trustees expect that the county commissioners and trustees of St. Clair township will come to some agreement about the grading of this part of the road in St. Clair and on the same basis as the grading was done in Middleton township.

Hanover township trustees are also anxious to get an improved road from the Lincoln Highway at Hanoverton through north to tap the Cox Highway at Salem. The route for this road has been selected and approved by the State Highway department, and Hanover township has money available to put into the project, it has been pointed out.

State aid is also being sought for the resurfacing of Inter county highway No. 7, west of Wellsville and along Clark avenue. Jefferson county it is said, proposes to improve the brick section of this highway up to the Jefferson-Columbiana county line, and may put this project through this year.

On account of the condition of the paved section of the Lincoln Highway in Madison township, it may follow that this top will be improved by the county this year.

Widening of the Lisbon-Salem road in Centre township is also being considered by the State Highway department, and north from the township-Lisbon corporate line.

As soon as the weather opens, contractors will resume work on those projects which were started last year.

Light Installed.

Electric lights have been installed in the West Point Grange Hall, Madison township, and now both floors are brilliantly lighted at night. The first public entertainment the Grange will have since this improvement as completed will be the presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," next Friday night.

JURORS EXCUSED UNTIL TUESDAY

There will be no more jury cases in Lisbon this week, the jury having been excused by the court Tuesday evening.

Those who did not desire to return for jury duty next Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock so advised the court and others who desire to continue service also made the fact known.

All of the criminal cases assigned for trial this week have been disposed of. Nine divorce cases will be heard by the court Friday morning, according to the assignment for the current week.

FRANK HATCHER FREED BY JURY

U. Frank Hatcher of East Liverpool, indicted by the January grand jury on a charge of abandoning legitimate children, was acquitted of the charge by a mixed jury in criminal court. Hatcher was defended by Attorney Samuel W. Crawford of East Liverpool, and the state was represented by Robert M. Brookes and his asssitant J. H. Baugnecht.

The case held on throughout Monday and until about noon Tuesday.

REPORT COLDEST WEATHER OF YEAR

With the mercury registering from 8 to 10 below zero, Lisbon experienced the coldest morning of the year today.

Reports received in Lisbon during the early morning from the county districts disclosed that it was as low as 14 below in places, but this low degree was not registered in a general way.

Being informed in advance of what to expect, farmers protected their stock during the night and no cattle is reported to have suffered from the cold wave.

Main highways are reported to be in good condition by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, some parts of the improved roads being clear of snow, while slight drifts here and there have been worn down.

Marriage License.

A marriage license was issued to Mickel Vurkick and Miss Mable Dixon of New Waterford. They were married by a Justice of the Peace in Lisbon.

Basketball fans are rejoicing here over the victory of the Columbiana high school boys over Wellsville high on the Wellsville floor Friday night. As Wellsville is one of the three class A teams of the county a victory on their home floor is an honor for a visiting B team. The final score was 31 to 23, but Columbiana lead at the end of the first half, 21 to 4, and Coach McKain put in several substitutes and Wellsville was able to run up their score. The home boys displayed their best team work of the season and there was no individual starring. About 35 local fans drove down for the game. The teams went to East Liverpool Saturday night and lost both games.

When the two teams left Columbiana Friday noon the entire high school in a body went to the car to see them off, sang songs and did a lot of cheering to encourage the players.

The Columbiana high school girls were defeated by the Wellsville girls 42 to 21, which was expected as Columbiana was greatly weakened by the absence of Xenia and Winifred Mitchell. Capt. Gleckler and Elizabeth Orr played best for Columbiana high school.

Columbiana people were surprised to learn of the marriage of two former local young people, Culver Stewart of Salem and Miss Emily Quigley, Leetonia school teacher, which took place last October 18th at New Cumberland, W. Va. Mrs. Stewart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Quigley, living just west of town, and is a graduate of Columbiana high school and the county normal school. Mr. Stewart is a graduate of Leetonia high school and served his country in the World war. For the past three years he has been in the employ of the Prudential Life Insurance company and was until recently stationed at Columbiana. The couple will make their home in Salem.

Another surprise was the announcement of the marriage of Sharon Quigley and Miss Margaret Ryan of Leetonia, which took place January 3 at Beaver, Pa. Mr. Quigley is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Quigley and is a graduate of Columbiana high school and also studied at Mt. Union college. He was a member of the naval reserve during the World war, being stationed at Cleveland. Mrs. Quigley is the daughter of Mrs. Raymond Greenamyer and was a member of the junior class of Leetonia high school. The young couple will go to housekeeping at East Palestine, as Mr. Quigley is employed at Darlington, Pa.

Next Wednesday night as a preliminary to the regular Miller Bros.' game, the Columbiana business men have challenged the business men of East Palestine to a game of basketball. The local team will probably be picked from Clarence Shontz, Art Johnson, Robert Lipe, Dick Beswick, J. E. Beswick, Ivan Harrold and Grant Bevington. East Palestine will be represented by Albert Lynch, Chick Atchison, Pete Lynch, P. F. Dolan, Pete Lawrence, Carl Bretz and others.

East Palestine

MAGICIAN'S WAND IS DISCOVERED; VANISHES PAIN

HARRY SKAPENAKES

An interesting case has just been disclosed in Warren, Ohio, of a resident of that city who, for months, suffered intensely from headaches, caused by impoverished blood and a general run-down condition, and who, today, declares he is feeling as fine as he ever felt in his life. And Ka-di-ok, the wonderful system toner, is credited with having brought about this metamorphosis.

Mr. Harry Skapenakes, residing at 8 Spring street, had suffered for several months with continual headaches, bad blood, poor appetite, was nervous and irritable to a slight degree, had dizzy spells, and was losing weight. After a talk with the Ka-di-ok representative, he purchased a bottle, and the beneficient effects of Ka-di-ok were felt from the outset. At the time of telling his experience, he had taken just two bottles of Ka-di-ok, and now he has no more headaches; the pains have departed, he is no longer nervous and irritable, appetite is good, he sleeps well, has no more dizzy spells, and is gaining in weight.

"I used Ka-di-ok and Ka-di-ok Tablets with excellent results; headaches have left me, have gained in weight and am feeling just fine, and say 'thanks to Ka-di-ok for what it has done.'"

This is but one of the many instances where Ka-di-ok has resulted in removing such disagreeable and painful conditions and not alone has it proven beneficial in such cases as above cited, but in many of those conditions arising from disordered kidneys and liver, rheumatism, auto-intoxication, etc.

Ka-di-ok is sold and recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews' Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 W. 6th street.

ROAD PROGRAMS BEING FRAMED

Township Trustees Plan Improvements During Summer.

With the winter season being at the tag end, many boards of township trustees have begun to consider their road improvement program for the spring and summer season. Just how much road improvement will be put through this year is hard to forecast at this time, although the road projects of the county commissioners is pretty well in hand.

The trustees of Middleton township are interested in getting an improved highway through from East Liverpool north to East Palestine, and it is said by some of these trustees that the trustees of St. Clair township look with favor upon the extension of the improvement of the graded road in Middleton into St. Clair township.

The improvement of this road, Middleton trustees believe, will be completed and surfaced before the close of 1926, but the grading on this section of the road in Middleton will be completed soon.

Middleton trustees expect that the county commissioners and trustees of St. Clair township will come to some agreement about the grading of this part of the road in St. Clair and on the same basis as the grading was done in Middleton township.

Hanover township trustees are also anxious to get an improved road from the Lincoln Highway at Hanoverton through north to tap the Cox Highway at Salem. The route for this road has been selected and approved by the State Highway department, and Hanover township has money available to put into the project, it has been pointed out.

State aid is also being sought for the resurfacing of Inter county highway No. 7, west of Wellsville and along Clark avenue. Jefferson county it is said, proposes to improve the brick section of this highway up to the Jefferson-Columbiana county line, and may put this project through this year.

On account of the condition of the paved section of the Lincoln Highway in Madison township, it may follow that this top will be improved by the county this year.

Widening of the Lisbon-Salem road in Centre township is also being considered by the State Highway department, and north from the township-Lisbon corporate line.

As soon as the weather opens, contractors will resume work on those projects which were started last year.

Light Installed.

Electric lights have been installed in the West Point Grange Hall, Madison township, and now both floors are brilliantly lighted at night. The first public entertainment the Grange will have since this improvement as completed will be the presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," next Friday night.

The home boys displayed their best team work of the season and there was no individual starring. About 35 local fans drove down for the game. The teams went to East Liverpool Saturday night and lost both games.

When the two teams left Columbiana Friday noon the entire high school in a body went to the car to see them off, sang songs and did a lot of cheering to encourage the players.

The Columbiana high school girls were defeated by the Wellsville girls 42 to 21, which was expected as Columbiana was greatly weakened by the absence of Xenia and Winifred Mitchell. Capt. Gleckler and Elizabeth Orr played best for Columbiana high school.

Columbiana people were surprised to learn of the marriage of two former local young people, Culver Stewart of Salem and Miss Emily Quigley, Leetonia school teacher, which took place last October 18th at New Cumberland, W. Va. Mrs. Stewart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Quigley, living just west of town, and is a graduate of Columbiana high school and the county normal school. Mr. Stewart is a graduate of Leetonia high school and served his country in the World war. For the past three years he has been in the employ of the Prudential Life Insurance company and was until recently stationed at Columbiana. The couple will make their home in Salem.

Another surprise was the announcement of the marriage of Sharon Quigley and Miss Margaret Ryan of Leetonia, which took place January 3 at Beaver, Pa. Mr. Quigley is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Quigley and is a graduate of Columbiana high school and also studied at Mt. Union college. He was a member of the naval reserve during the World war, being stationed at Cleveland. Mrs. Quigley is the daughter of Mrs. Raymond Greenamyer and was a member of the junior class of Leetonia high school. The young couple will go to housekeeping at East Palestine, as Mr. Quigley is employed at Darlington, Pa.

Next Wednesday night as a preliminary to the regular Miller Bros.' game, the Columbiana business men have challenged the business men of East Palestine to a game of basketball. The local team will probably be picked from Clarence Shontz, Art Johnson, Robert Lipe, Dick Beswick, J. E. Beswick, Ivan Harrold and Grant Bevington. East Palestine will be represented by Albert Lynch, Chick Atchison, Pete Lynch, P. F. Dolan, Pete Lawrence, Carl Bretz and others.

MAGICIAN'S WAND IS DISCOVERED; VANISHES PAIN

HARRY SKAPENAKES
An interesting case has just been disclosed in Warren, Ohio, of a resident of that city who, for months, suffered intensely from headaches, caused by impoverished blood and a general run-down condition, and who, today, declares he is feeling as fine as he ever felt in his life. And Ka-di-ok, the wonderful system toner, is credited with having brought about this metamorphosis.
Mr. Harry Skapenakes, residing at 8 Spring street, had suffered for several months with continual headaches, bad blood, poor appetite, was nervous and irritable to a slight degree, had dizzy spells, and was losing weight. After a talk with the Ka-di-ok representative, he purchased a bottle, and the beneficient effects of Ka-di-ok were felt from the outset. At the time of telling his experience, he had taken just two bottles of Ka-di-ok, and now he has no more headaches; the pains have departed, he is no longer nervous and irritable, appetite is good, he sleeps well, has no more dizzy spells, and is gaining in weight.
"I used Ka-di-ok and Ka-di-ok Tablets with excellent results; headaches have left me, have gained in weight and am feeling just fine, and say 'thanks to Ka-di-ok for what it has done.'"
This is but one of the many instances where Ka-di-ok has resulted in removing such disagreeable and painful conditions and not alone has it proven beneficial in such cases as above cited, but in many of those conditions arising from disordered kidneys and liver, rheumatism, auto-intoxication, etc.
Ka-di-ok is sold and recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews' Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 W. 6th street.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Buttered Carrots and Onions—Take one bunch of carrots that have been scraped, cut into cubes and cook with one pound of cubed onions, salt and pepper to taste. Add one tablespoon butter and serve.

Scalloped Sweet Potatoes — Butter a glass baking dish. Place in this a layer of cooked sweet potatoes, then a layer of tart sliced apples and sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter. Add sweet potatoes, apples, sugar and butter until dish is full. Bake in a slow oven until almost transparent.

Creamed Celery and Peas—Take a bunch of celery, wash it and cut into very small pieces. Boil it in salted water until tender, drain and add one-half can of peas. Have ready a thin white sauce. Combine sauce, celery and peas. Season to taste.

Pumpkin Pie With Whipped Cream—Have ready a pie shell and fill with a pumpkin custard. Set away to cool and set. Just before serving spread with whipped cream and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

If you do not take ice in the winter but use your refrigerator to store food, you should take particular care to maintain rigid cleanliness throughout the box. The ice and food chambers should be washed and scalded and the drains disinfected regularly.

All foodstuffs put into the ice box should be covered. There are various kinds of glass containers for this purpose. Those that fit on top of one another utilize little space in the refrigerator.

Many ice boxes contain a large proportion of wood. Some have wooden racks in the ice chamber. Wood absorbs food flavors and odors readily and gives this absorption off with equal readiness.

Therefore food flavors do not remain true when stored in such a box. This is but one reason why every bit of food put away should be covered in some manner.

Jars should be used for liquid food such as sauces, soups and salad dressing. Meats and vegetables should always be wrapped in oil paper. Free circulation should be maintained when there is no ice in the refrigerator by leaving an upper and lower door unlatched.

When ice boxes do not drain properly be sure the floor on which they aer placed is perfectly level.

Orange Marmalade—Six naval oranges, one lemon, eleven cups cold water, seven cups sugar. Peel and slice thin. Slice lemon with rind on; cover oranges and lemon with cold water; let stand twenty-four hours. Then boil three hours, add sugar and let boil one hour. Pour into glasses, cool and cover. This recipe makes nine glasses of marmalade.

Scalloped Oysters—One pint oysters, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter, two cups bread crumbs, oyster juice, pepper. Use the crumbs from the day-old loaf of bread. Add the pepper and salt to the crumbs, then the melted butter. With scissors cut the oysters in pieces. Place a layer of crumbs in the bottom of the baking dish, add part of the oysters, then more crumbs, then the remainder of the oysters. Put crumbs on top. Add the oyster juice and enough milk to cove even with the content of the dish if the juices does not do this. Bake from 15 minutes to half an hour. Serve with lemon juice.

Orange Fairy Fluff—Four egg yolks, four tablespoons sugar, three-fourths cup orange juice, grated rind one orange, grated rind of one lemon, juice one lemon, two tablespoons hot water, four egg whites. Beat egg yolks with four tablespoons sugar, add orange juice and granted rind, lemon juice and grated rind and hot water, cook in double boiler until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Beat egg whites until stiff, add two tablespoons sugar, and fold into first mixture, chill, line sherbert glasses with lady fingers, fill with orange mixture and serve.

French Salad—Two pound head cabbage, ground, one and one-half dozen sweet pickles, ground, three onions ground. Mix all together, then put in a dish. Dressing—one or two tablespoons of prepared mustard, one-half cup catsup, a little celery seed and sugar to suit taste.

SUGGESTIONS.

If your children are always wearing holes in the knees of their stockings playing around over the floor, take the legs of some worn out stockings and cut about six or eight inches of leg, stitch around each end on the sewing machine to keep it from raveling, and slip it over their knees. You can keep several pairs of these slipovers laid by to put on to shield their new stockings, and it is a good way to use up old stockings.

A Restful Room

If you have a living room to remodel, why not lay a soft gray linoleum for the floor. Have it well waxed and polished to give it that beautiful rich effect so much desired. Use two-toned blue rugs upon this and have your furniture of blue and gray mohair and mahogany.

Your walls should be a very light gray with darked gray woodwork to tone in with the floor and on the windows use blue sunfast to match your upholstery. This room, with occasional cushions of old rose or deep orange and two or three soft toned lamps, would be restful and beautiful in the extreme.

A woman was given a great many photographs from her aunt's estate. Many of them were beautiful but there was no data to tell her who the people pictured were or when and where the photos were taken. She resolved then and there to label and date all the pictures so that in case of distribution they might reach the people most interested and also for her own enjoyment in looking them over.

To save a great deal of time and current when sewing on an electric sewing machine, have two spool holders, one for sewing and the other to hold cotton for the bobbin—then you can be winding a bobbin and sewing at the same time.

White lead will nicely stick a chair rung that has become loose but it must be set aside for a few days.

White woolen baby stockings that have shrunk too much to be worn or are outgrown make excellent polishing cloths for flat silver.

A high stool in the kitchen is a backsaver; and so is a low chair with a comfortable back.

YOUR HEALTH

Human Body Won't Tolerate Any Pus Absorption

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.

TIME and again, I have warned you against neglecting any form of pus infection. The human body just will not tolerate pus absorption. You are breeding trouble if you take a chance on it.

It makes no difference where the pus centre is located. It may be a "running ear," cystic tonsils, abscessed teeth or gums, or a pus infection of the intestines or other part or organ of the body.

The particular reason I am telling you these things to-day is because one of my friends has just discovered she has a badly inflamed and painful knee joint. The experts who have examined her agree that the primary cause of this trouble is a pus infection of one of the nasal sinuses which she had several years ago.

It is an interesting scientific fact that the germs of disease first attack any part of the body which is damaged. If the germs of tuberculosis are injected into a rabbit, they i cate for serious work in any part of the animal's body which has been damaged by an injury. A crushed leg or a bruised eye will become the seat of the acute tubercular infection.

If the germs of disease, for instance, pus germs, are floating about in the body, they will attack any bruised or damaged part. The friend I just mentioned hurt her knee last Spring. It pained her greatly for two or three days and then seemed to recover.

After a few weeks, she noticed occasional shooting pains and more or less persistent aching in the knee. These symptoms continued to grow so much worse, she visited an x-ray expert who discovered serious involvement of the joint and even of the bone. The history of the case and, in the absence of other local pus infection, the record of the nasal trouble of several years ago, determined the opinion that the original cause was to be found in this ancient trouble.

It must be admitted there is much of conjecture in this conclusion, but I recited the case so that you might see what may happen if you neglect seemingly unimportant ailments. Things which appear to be purely localized difficulties may become terribly serious to your welfare and may even threaten your life.

I want this information to have just one effect—to cause you to give heed to any local trouble you may have. I don't want it to worry you, except just enough to stir you into action. Take care of that local trouble now.

Answers to Health Questions

READER. Q.—How can I reduce?

A.—By exercise, and by eliminating sugars and starches from your diet.

• • •

ANXIOUS MOTHER. Q.—My son has symptoms of tuberculosis. What treatment should he have?
2.—Is it curable?

A.—See that he has plenty of fresh air and sunlight, and good nourishing food. He requires about 10 hours sleep at night, and complete rest the balance of the 24 hours.
2.—Tuberculosis is very often curable, if taken in time.

R. T. Q.—What would you advise for a person with bow legs?

A.—I would advise that you consult an orthopedist for this condition.

• • •

C. H. B. Q.—Is it dangerous for a person who has pleurisy or a slight pulmonary affection to play a wind instrument?

A.—It would probably not be wise, since playing such an instrument requires quite some exertion on the part of the lungs and respiratory organs.

H. F. Q.—Would a hernia which has been helped for three years by wearing a truss, have any bearing on swollen, painful veins in the leg and foot?

A.—Yes, it might cause a strain on the leg muscles causing pressure through the veins. Try bathing the parts with warm witch hazel and bandaging them during the day. This should relieve you to some extent. It would be wise to see your doctor about the hernia and see whether it requires further treatment.

H. G. Q.—A child four years of age complains of pain in the knee cap and lower part of her leg, only during the night. She has had arch supporters prescribed, also has tried massage under doctor's orders, but she still complains. Do you think this could be due to rheumatism?

A.—It is not likely that this is rheumatism. It is probably a muscular condition and massage should benefit it. The arch trouble would have a great bearing on this condition, due to strain on the leg muscles.

MRS. M. E. B. Q.—I have had diabetes for a long time and am at present on a diet, not using insulin. Which bread would be most suitable for me, rye or graham? I cannot get gluten bread here.

A.—All breads are high in carbohydrates. Why not ask your doctor which one would be advisable in your particular case. It would be rather difficult to advise you without first knowing your exact condition.

Bread—a Great Food for Children

LAST year, school health authorities say, one child out of every five was a victim of malnutrition—a most dangerous physical ailment, yet easily remedied.

Those children—more than five million of them—could have been better nourished had they been supplied with an ample quantity of good bread—bread such as BETSY ROSS.

Why, BETSY ROSS bread, eaten with a simple regular diet supplies a well balanced feeding program, for BETSY ROSS is rich in carbohydrates, proteins, iron, calcium, phosphorus and other mineral salts—all food elements necessary to health.

When you prepare children's luncheons, either at home or for school, see that they contain plenty of BETSY ROSS. But, don't make the mistake of asking for "just bread" when ordering. Specify BETSY ROSS, for "There's a difference in bread."

A Restful Room

If you have a living room to remodel, why not lay a soft gray linoleum for the floor. Have it well waxed and polished to give it that beautiful rich effect so much desired. Use two-toned blue rugs upon this and have your furniture of blue and gray mohair and mahogany.

Your walls should be a very light gray with darked gray woodwork to tone in with the floor and on the windows use blue sunfast to match your upholstery. This room, with occasional cushions of old rose or deep orange and two or three soft toned lamps, would be restful and beautiful in the extreme.

A woman was given a great many photographs from her aunt's estate. Many of them were beautiful but there was no data to tell her who the people pictured were or when and where the photos were taken. She resolved then and there to label and date all the pictures so that in case of distribution they might reach the people most interested and also for her own enjoyment in looking them over.

To save a great deal of time and current when sewing on an electric sewing machine, have two spool holders, one for sewing and the other to hold cotton for the bobbin—then you can be winding a bobbin and sewing at the same time.

YOUR HEALTH

Human Body Won't Tolerate Any Pus Absorption

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.

TIME and again, I have warned you against neglecting any form of pus infection. The human body just will not tolerate pus absorption. You are breeding trouble if you take a chance on it.

It makes no difference where the pus centre is located. It may be a "running ear," cystic tonsils, abscessed teeth or gums, or a pus infection of the intestines or other part or organ of the body.

The particular reason I am telling you these things to-day is because one of my friends has just discovered she has a badly inflamed and painful knee joint. The experts who have examined her agree that the primary cause of this trouble is a pus infection of one of the nasal sinuses which she had several years ago.

It is an interesting scientific fact that the germs of disease first attack any part of the body which is damaged. If the germs of tuberculosis are injected into a rabbit, they locate for serious work in any part of the animal's body which has been damaged by an injury. A crushed leg or a bruised eye will become the seat of the acute tubercular infection.

If the germs of disease, for instance, pus germs, are floating about in the body they will attack any bruised or damaged part. The friend I just mentioned hurt her knee last Spring. It pained her greatly for two or three days and then seemed to recover.

After a few weeks, she noticed occasional shooting pains and more or less persistent aching in the knee. These symptoms continued to grow so much worse, she visited an x-ray expert who discovered serious involvement of the joint and even of the bone. The history of the case and, in the absence of other local pus infection, the record of the nasal trouble of several years ago, determined the opinion that the original cause was to be found in this ancient trouble.

It must be admitted there is much of conjecture in this conclusion, but I recited the case so that you might see what may happen if you neglect seemingly unimportant ailments. Things which appear to be purely localized difficulties may become terribly serious to your welfare and may even threaten your life.

I want this information to have just one effect—to cause you to give heed to any local trouble you may have. I don't want it to worry you, except just enough to stir you into action. Take care of that local trouble now.

Answers to Health Questions

READER. Q.—How can I reduce?

A.—By exercise, and by eliminating sugars and starches from your diet.

ANXIOUS MOTHER. Q.—My son has symptoms of tuberculosis. What treatment should he have?
2.—Is it curable?

A.—See that he has plenty of fresh air and sunlight, and good nourishing food. He requires about 10 hours sleep at night, and complete rest the balance of the 24 hours.
2.—Tuberculosis is very often curable, if taken in time.

R. T. Q.—What would you advise for a person with bow legs?

A.—I would advise that you consult an orthopedist for this condition.

C. H. B. Q.—Is it dangerous for a person who has pleurisy or a slight pulmonary affection to play a wind instrument?

A.—It would probably not be wise, since playing such an instrument requires quite some exertion on the part of the lungs and respiratory organs.

H. F. Q.—Would a hernia which has been helped for three years by wearing a truss, have any bearing on swollen, painful veins in the leg and foot?

A.—Yes, it might cause a strain on the leg muscles causing pressure through the veins. Try bathing the parts with warm witch hazel and bandaging them during the day. This should relieve you to some extent. It would be wise to see your doctor about the hernia and see whether it requires further treatment.

H. G. Q.—A child four years of age complains of pain in the knee cap and lower part of her leg, only during the night. She has had arch-supporters prescribed, also has tried massage under doctor's orders, but she still complains. Do you think this could be due to rheumatism?

A.—It is not likely that this is rheumatism. It is probably a muscular condition and massage should benefit it. The arch trouble would have a great bearing on this condition, due to strain on the leg muscles.

MRS. M. E. B. Q.—I have had diabetes for a long time and am at present on a diet, not using insulin. Which bread would be most suitable for me, rye or graham? I cannot get gluten bread here.

A.—All breads are high in carbohydrates. Why not ask your doctor which one would be advisable in your particular case. It would be rather difficult to advise you without first knowing your exact condition.

Bread—a Great Food for Children

LAST year, school health authorities say, one child out of every five was a victim of malnutrition—a most dangerous physical ailment, yet easily remedied.

Those children—more than five million of them—could have been better nourished had they been supplied with an ample quantity of good bread—bread such as BETSY ROSS.

Why, BETSY ROSS bread, eaten with a simple regular diet supplies a well balanced feeding program, for BETSY ROSS is rich in carbohydrates, proteins, iron, calcium, phosphorus and other mineral salts—all food elements necessary to health.

When you prepare children's luncheons, either at home or for school, see that they contain plenty of BETSY ROSS. But, don't make the mistake of asking for "just bread" when ordering. Specify BETSY ROSS, for "There's a difference in bread."

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

"Suda, please drive up three blocks, then I shall tell you where to go." At the storehouse she sent him away. "Go home and I shall come back later on, myself."

A man at the storehouse dragged out the box for her and opened it. It was full of newspapers packed closely and yellowed by time. When she was alone, she lifted a paper and "The Dascome Case" stared her in the face. They were New York dailies and were piled in order, dating from April the ninth, 1915, to May, 1916, papers of seven years ago.

The record was a complete one, from the first accounts of Elaine Dascome's disappearance, then hints of suspicion of Dascome, down to the scattered notices of his departure from New York. Someone had compiled the record with care, date following date, not a paper out of place. The indictment, the trials, transcrips of testimony, yards and yards of description, comments, suspicions, and facts; photographs of Crisomby Lakes, of Proctor House, of court scenes, of lawyers, witnesses; of Clarice, finger pointed at the prosecuting attorney, of Meta Thail, bent and shrinking, creeping out of the court room; of Herbert Colt, of Mrs. Ormsby, and Dascome; John Dascome, sitting, standing, walking; John Dascome as a boy, as a young lawyer; John Dascome arguing the Devereux case; John Dascome in prison, on the witness stand, seated beside his attorneys; John Dascome pleading his own case. Everywhere that immobile, steady-eyed presence; a mystery, a power.

Karesia was vividly imaginative; she had the gift of visualization to an extraordinary degree; she was not seated at that chilly high-ceilinged warehouse with piles of papers beside her. She went down with the divers into the Dragon's Pool; she was at Proctor House, she was in the crowded court room, watching the faces of witnesses, weighing absorbedly what they said; she was listening to arguments, hearing comments. She saw Dascome and heard him as distinctly as if he were standing erect and profoundly angry there before her. She saw his face and heard his voice, deep and even, giving his statement to a hushed court; she looked over the shoulder of the author who wrote:

"It has been said truly: 'Behind every tragedy is a woman.' Who is the 'woman' in this strange case? Is she one of the many who have haunted this trial? Or does she keep herself secluded, waiting? To all others this man is inscrutable; he wears a steel mask, his eyes are blue steel. But somewhere there is a woman to whom he is no mystery; to whom he is simply a MAN."

How long her body sat in that warehouse room while her spirit roamed the scenes of seven years ago Karesia did not know; her spirit returned to her body only when her eyes could no longer see print. She was sitting in a chilly gloom. There were patches of light up near the ceiling, high windows from which the sun had long since gone. The light without was fading; in the room it was almost dark, like the gloom of a dungeon. Yet she had not finished reading; there were some papers in the box still. She realized that it was evening.

Karesia tried to rise and could not; her body was numb and cold, paralyzed, only her brain alive. . . . After a time she rubbed sensation into her legs and managed to move, then stand. She felt as if she had returned from a long journey. A man opened the door into the room. "We are going to close," he said.

She decided then. She took out the few papers that remained. In the bottom of the box were a number of articles, some photographs, pens, ink bottles, as if desk drawers had been emptied into it. Some of the papers were badly ink-stained, evidently an ink bottle had broken and saturated them. Karesia gathered up the loose papers and wrapped them up, papers and photographs, made a rough bundle of them. The papers she had read she put back in the box.

She was beginning to think more collectedly; in some past time, she had sent Suda back to her double house. Dascome was there, not in prison—this was the present. . . . She took her bundle with her and the man locked the door. From the office, they called a taxicab for her.

With her bundle beside her, Karesia was driven homeward, looking into the afterglow of sunset with eyes that did not see. Her throat ached as if pressed by hard fingers; it was difficult for her to swallow.

Suda met her at her door and carried her bundle upstairs for her and she followed mechanically. He brought her a box of roses. "Mr. Rossiter bring these. He say for you please to come early tonight."

XXX

Rossiter had never seen Karesia look so regal. She wore a jet and sequin gown that followed losely the long slim lines of her body, a narrow chain of cut jet crossing one shoulder, the other shoulder bare, a French importation that could be worn only by a woman whose body was as perfect as Karesia's; she had the rare gift, a beautiful back and shoulders. In her massed hair she wore the one magnificent ornament she possessed, a relic of the days when her mother was the idol of St. Petersburg, a diadem fashioned of two dragons, their eyes rubies, in their spread claws diamonds. She wore no other ornament, not even rings. Usually she had color; tonight she was so camellia-white that her eyes looked very dark.

She arrived only a few minutes before Rossiter's guests. She was bitterly annoyed until he saw her face; then his complaint died. Once before he had seen her like this. "You are very beautiful, my queen," he said and kissed her hand.

"I feel anything but a queen," Karesia answered evenly. "These jewels are the only ones I have left—they and the headdress mother wore when she danced for the czar and czarina. Everything else was stolen from me when I was in Russia—and mother—and the czar and czarine are gone."

"But we are here, Kara. We have only a few minutes—there is something I want you to see—upstairs."

KNOCKS 'EM OUT QUICK

Toughest of Old Hang On Coughs Go

Why send a boy to do a man's work? Sweet, sugary cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traveling along towards the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that lingers on and on with the most persistent devilishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the realest destroyer of tough old coughs is Bronchuline Emulsion.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking torture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Bronchuline likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon half a bottle to make a two months' old cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much sweeter when you get rid of that old time cough.

Ask Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., or any wide awake druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion. There's no dope in it—or chloroform, and a couple of teaspoonfuls will usually end any ordinary cough.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Say Not the Struggle Nought Availeth.

Say not the struggle nought availeth,
The labor and the wounds are vain,
The enemy faints not, nor faileth,
And as things have been they remain.
If hopes were dupes, fears may be liars;
It may be, in you smoke conceal'd,
Your comrades chase e'en now the fliers,
And, but for you, possess the field.
For while the tired waves, vainly breaking,
Seem here no painful inch to gain,
Far back, through creeks and inlets making
Comes silent, flooding in, the main.
And not by eastern windows only,
When daylight comes, comes in the light,
In front the sun climbs slow, how slowly,
But westward, look, the land is bright.
—ARTHUR HUGH CLOUGH.

Beauty.

Oh, what a pure and sacred thing
Is Beauty, curtained from the sight
Of the gross world, illum'ning
One only mansion with her light!
Unsee by man's disturbing eye
The flower that blooms beneath the sea,
Too deep for sunbeams, does not lie
Hid in more chaste obscurity.
A soul, too, more than half divine,
Where, through some shades of earthly feeling
Religion's softened glories shine,
Like light through summer foliage stealing,
Shedding a glow of such mild hue,
So warm, and yet so shadowy, too,
As makes the very darkness there
More beautiful than light elsewhere.
—Thomas Moore.

On the Grasshopper and Cricket.

The poetry of earth is never dead;
When all the birds are faint with the hot sun
And hide in cooling trees, a voice will run
From hedge to hedge about the new-mown mead.
That is the grasshopper's—he takes the lead
In summer luxury—he has never done
He rests at ease beneath some pleasant weed,
The poetry to earth is ceasing never
On a lone winter evening, when the frost
Has wrought a silence, from the stove there shrills
The cricket's song, in warmth increasing ever,
—John Keats.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead o serious lung trouble. You can stop them ow with Creomulsion, an emulsified creote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion s a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

KNOCKS 'EM OUT QUICK

Toughest of Old Kang On Coughs Go

Why send a boy to do a man's work? Sweet, sugary cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traveling along towards the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that lingers on and on with the most persistent devilishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the realest destroyer of tough old coughs is Bronchuline Emulsion.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking torture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Bronchuline likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon half a bottle to make a two months' old cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much sweeter when you get rid of that old time cough.

Ask Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., or any wide awake druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion. There's no dope in it—or chloroform, and a couple of teaspoonfuls will usually end any ordinary cough.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Say Not the Struggle Nought Availeth.

Say not the struggle nought availeth,
The labor and the wounds are vain,
The enemy faints not, nor faileth,
And as things have been they remain.
If hopes were dupes, fears may be liars;
It may be, in you smoke conceal'd,
Your comrades chase e'en now the fliers,
And, but for you, possess the field.
For while the tired waves, vainly breaking,
Seem here no painful inch to gain,
Far back, through creeks and inlets making
Comes silent, flooding in, the main.
And not by eastern windows only,
When daylight comes, comes in the light,
In front the sun climbs slow, how slowly,
But westward, look, the land is bright.

The flower that blooms beneath the sea,
Too deep for sunbeams, does not lie
Hid in more chaste obscurity.
A soul, too, more than half divine,
Where, through some shades of earthly feeling
Religion's softened glories shine,
Like light through summer foliage stealing,
Shedding a glow of such mild hue,
So warm, and yet so shadowy, too,
As makes the very darkness there
More beautiful than light elsewhere.

On the Grasshopper and Cricket.

The poetry of earth is never dead;
When all the birds are faint with the hot sun
And hide in cooling trees, a voice will run
From hedge to hedge about the new-mown mead.
That is the grasshopper's—he takes the lead
In summer luxury—he has never done

Runyon Says

Times Have Changed.
All the Reds Get $9,500.
The Return of H. Pollok.
He Is Back in the Game.
Tex Rickard and Boxing.

By DAMON RUNYON.

"Dazzy" Vance, voted the most valuable player of 1924 to his team, is said to have asked $10,000 for his services in 1925.

Also Vance is said to have threatened a "hold-out," which is baseballese for refusing to play, if he didn't get it.

You who are accustomed to reading of Babe Ruth's salary of $52,000 per year, of John J. McGraw's $65,000, of Ty Cobb's $30,000, will say that $10,000 is not a large salary for a player of Vance's ability.

Fifty-four years ago Vance's demand would have utterly horrified the baseball magnates and fans of the period. They would have said the man had gone crazy.

It was more money than the ten members of the greatest team of the period received. Their salaries totaled $9,500.

That was in 1870.

The Cincinnati ball club was organized on a professional basis.

Up to that period the game had been played as an amateur sport, the players were supposed to work at some profession as well as play ball.

But club owners were making offers to the best players, guaranteeing them more lucrative jobs than those they had, and otherwise violating the ethics of amateurism, just as is done today in some sports. So the Cincinnati club came out boldly and announced it was going to Hire players.

It first secured George Wright, authorizing him to engage the rest of the club.

George Wright, shortstop, $1,400.
Harry Wright, center field, $1,200.
Asa Brainard, pitcher, $1,100.
Fred Waterman, third base, $1,000.
Charles Sweasy, second base, $800.
Charles Gould, first base, $900.
Douglas Allison, catcher, $800.
Calvin McVey, right field, $800.
Richard Hurley, substitute, $800.

No one thought the professional venture would be successful.

It was difficult to get the players to sign. They didn't believe any organization could pay for the playing of baseball.

Times have changed.

It is strange what a hold the boxing game has on its old followers, especially those who have been actively associated with it.

It is not an easy game. It is a game of disappointments, of broken promises, a gambling venture at all times. A man devoting the same energy necessary to boxing promotion to something else ought to get rich.

But there is some strange lure, some fascination to the boxing game that keeps bringing them back again and again.

Harry M. Pollock is the latest to return.

Pollock was for years associated with Pat Powers in the promotion of the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden. Also he promoted boxing shows.

He was a gay, debonair figure along the Broadway of other years. Everybody knew Harry Pollok. He was as well known in boxing as Tex Rickard is to-day.

He managed young Corbett after Corbett beat Terry McGovern. He later handled Freddy Welsh, taking him to England and winning the lightweight title. He was still managing Welsh the night at the old Manhattan Casino, hard by the Polo Grounds in Harlem, when Benny Leonard won the title from the Englishman.

Then Pollock dropped out of boxing he said for good.

He was engaged in divers business pursuits for some years. He wouldn't even go to a boxing show, wouldn't talk boxing. Now he writes on a neatly engraved letterhead which says he is vise-president of the Olympic Auditorium, Inc.

He says his concern will have the biggest indoor club that has ever been built, seating 15,000. Of course, this will not be as big as Rickard's new Garden, seating 23,000.

Pollock describes the press stand seats at length. Perhaps he wishes to make the writer, veteran of many strange press stands, feel envious.

He says his auditorium will not be a pugilistic arena alone, however, that the seats can be cleared away in short order, leaving as much floor space as Madison Square Garden.

He plans trade shows, fairs, balls, athletic meets, and the like, also conventions, band concerts, and "extravaganzas." Mr. Pollock grows ambitious in his scheme of things.

California's return to long route boxing bouts was perhaps the chief consideration of Mr. Pollock's "comeback." But he is wise in planning his auditorium beyond boxing. The writer is inclined to the belief that after the first rush of prosperity due to the novelty, the boxing game in California will be exactly what it is in the East.

The California boxing fans are accustomed to the intensive ACTION of the four-round bouts. They will soon weary of the slower long bout, especially if they are some of the pugilistic gentlemen from the East now lookin for work on the Pacific Coast.

Tex Rickard, building his new Garden, is taking little account of boxing.

Of course, he will continue putting on boxing shows. But he is not spending $4,000,000 on the theory that he is going to get any considerable part of it back through boxing.

The boxing game at best leads a precaurious existence. It might be kicked out of New York State at any time. Rickard's new Garden will be designed for a ll manner of shows. Boxing will be largely incidental.

One six-day bicycle race is probably worth more to Rickard than three big boxing shows. The expense is less, the profit therefore greater. The MENTAL strain of conducting a six-day race is very light, compared to a boxing show.

Nurmi's Foes Are Set For Final Stand

Oppose Finn Tonight in Last of Millrose Events.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—American middle distance runners, beaten at every turn by Finland's two aces, Nurmi and Ritola, will make one last desperate effort to force either or both to accept defeat when the finale of the annual Millrose A. A. carnival is held at Madison Square Garden. Virtually the same field that trailed Nurmi to the wire in the world's record time of 3.03 4-5 in the three quarter mile special last night will face the man from Abo again tonight.

This time it will be the Wanamaker mile and a half and Nurmi with 13 records to his credit in as many attempts since coming here is a universal favorite to win. Even more sensational has been the running of Ritola during recent weeks. On Saturday night he lowered three of the world's records established by Nurmi and last night, in winning the three mile event, bettered two of these marks again. In addition he finished the full distance in 14:04, beating Rold 11 4-5 seconds.

An international walking race, bringing together Frigerio, of Italy, Olympic champion, Goulding of Canada, former holder of that title, and Plant, perenniel American champion, will be another feature of a program, top heavy with class.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—According to reports from several sectors of the Broadway front, Mr. Albert Cozy Dolan, one of the star witnesses in the official probe of the baseball scandal, has slipped into town without so much as giving the district attorney a formal nod.

The latter, through one of his assistants, George Brothers, is conducting an inquiry into Jimmy O'Connell's ill-fated attempt to bribe Heinie Sand and is very anxious to find out whether Dolan still forgets to remember, as he did when questioned by Judge Landis.

The prosecutor is waiting patiently for Mr. Dolan to respond to his invitation to oppear before him. Mr. Dolan has neglected to do so. But several habitutes of Broadway's theatrical district claim to have seen Dolan within the last 24 hours, encoused in his old haunts without apparent attempt at conceaiment.

It is also said that he has had a conference with his attorney, William J. Fallon, but this could not be varified.

There is an air of mystery to the entire business. One story had it that Dolan left his home in Oshkosh, Wis., several days ago.

His wife is said to have confessed ignorance of his present whereabouts but intimated, according to the story, that he might be found in Chicago, there the trail apparently ends, unless the Broadway Scouts have actually picked up the lost heel prints.

At the District Attorney's office, doubt was expressed that either O'Connoll or Dolan, the only men barred from baseball by the expose, would consent to appear for questioning. If the Landis decision were made to stand up in a court of law both would face prison terms under the New York statutes, and therefore, might be pardoned a slight degree of reticence about appearing before the District Attorney.

But not being under indictment, Dolan can come and go as he pleases around these parts and undoubtedly will be guided in his actions by his attorney.

The latter has said that Dolan would welcome an official investigation and perhaps the ex-player's alleged appearance here is the first step in his acceptance of the situation.

It may mean anything or nothing. It may mean that Dolan wishes to visit the scene of happier past. It may mean a gesture of bravado or even that the gentleman is giving a four card flush a good stiff play before the draw. Under the present arrangements he doesn't have to go to nearer the District Attorney's office than the upper end of Times Square.

Yet his open appearance in New York during the investigation would give the impression that he had nothing to fear or conceal.

Dolan threatened to bring suit against Landis some time ago and after retaining Fallon, dropped out of sight. The general ignorance of his whereabouts seems to be only another of Dolan's mysterious moves.

Famous Women Golf Stars Plan Tourney Events in Florida

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, national women's golf champion; Glenna Collett, former national champion, a dozen other noted women golfers and a host of newcomers will clash in a series of three tourneys in Florida in February—tourneys that may produce a new figure to be reckoned with in the 1925 tournaments.

The first of the three meets will be staged at Palm Beach, Feb. 16 to 20. The net will be on the Ormond Beach links, Feb. 25 to 28. The third will be held at St. Augustine, March 3 to 7. The Palm Beach event is the Florida women's championship, the Ormond Beach affair the annual Beach championship and the St. Augustine rounds the Florida East Coast tourney.

Knockout by Zivic May Sound Knell of Le wTendler's Hope

NEW YORK, Jan. 28. — Does the knockout he received at the hands of Jack Zivic sound the knell of Lew Tendler's ring hopes? The chances are that it does. Tendler hoped to start a comeback with a victory over Zivic. The famous southpaw had reason to believe that he could hit the high road again. His past record numbered nary a knockout. This despite the fact that he had met all the good boys that would fight him, including Benny Leonard.

He had suffered but two point defeats last year. Nate Goldman and then Mickey Walker outpointed him in his 1924 battles.

The knockout at the hands of the Pittsburgh lightweight probably will kill his chances of climbing back. For one thing those battlers are few who can take a knockout like that late in their careers and come back.

Tendler will go down in ring history, though, as one of the greatest if not the greatest lefthanded fighter in his class.

Tentative Lineup Of Detroit Tigers Reveals Strength

DETROIT, Jan. 28.—The dope now is that the Detroit Tigers will line up for the coming season with an infield consisting of Lu Blue on first, Lu Fonseca or Jimmy Caveney at second, Topper Rigney at short and Bobby Jones at third. Fonseca and Caveney were obtained just a while ago from Cincinnati.

The outfield will be Manush, Cobb and Heilmann, the catching staff Johnny Bassler and Larry Woodall and the regular pitchers, Whitehill, Wells, Dauss, Rip Collins and Phillette.

This leaves Johnny Neun, newly acquired first sacker, to prove his worth before he gets a regular berth. Leslie Burke and Fred Haney will fight it out for the first infield utility job with Fonseca or Caveney.

Red Wingo, Fothergill and Carlisle will be the reserve outfielders and Johnson, Olsen, Hollawey and one or two other pitchers will fight it out for attention with the afore-mentioned flingers.

No. 3—When Ritchie Mitchell Dropped Leonard.

White shirt fronts gleamed in the night, decollete shoulders moved restlessly, and the atmospjere of the drawing room pervaded all. Blue-blooded aristocracy was there in detached, superior groups, but it was not, strictly speaking, a social function. It was one of those sordid exhibitions of prize fighting, and gentlemen with pink sleeve garters and the price of admission insisted upon being present. A distasteful state of affairs, but tolerable in view of the fact that it was all for sweet charity.

Miss Anne Morgan was giving the "party." The entertainers were Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Ritchie Mitchell, challenger. The beneficiary was "Devastated France." The place, Madison Square Garden. The time, mid-Winter, 1921.

Saw Champion Down.

To this most cosmopolitan of gatherings was given the spectacle of a great champion leaning dazedly upon his shoulder blades with the seconds ticking on toward the telltale tenth and his undoing. Many, ring ignorant, hardly grasped the significance of the moment, but nevertheless succumbed to the fascination of man-to-man combat, heritage of the ancestral dark ages. Blue blood and red got right down on the gravel together and screamed for the champion's head.

It all happened in the first round. Leonard was an odds-on favorite and a justifiable one. On his way to the title, four years before, he had knocked out Mitchell in seven rounds in the latter's own town, Milwaukee. He was an almost universal selection to repeat and proceeded to make good on the advance calculations by dropping Mitchell with a shower of blows in the first minute of fighting. The fallen man arose with commendable alarcity.

He went down again a few moments later, but was not altogether a hasty riser. Then a left to the jaw dropped him once more and this time there was no mistaking the fact that Mitchell was groggy.

He came to his feet at the count of nine and Leonard, debonnair and confident, walked in to finish the business. He forgot that the most dangerous fighter is a man on the verge of a knockout. Reeling though he was Mitchell let go a terrific left hook and it caught Leonard on the jaw.

The next instant the champion was lying on the flat of his back and trying to remember who threw the brick. At the count of five he had a glimmer of intelligence and assumed a crouching position on one knee as he shook his head in a wondering manner. He was clear-headed enough to rise to his feet at the count of nine and, somehow, managed to stall out the round.

When they came out for the second round Leonard was groggier than Mitchell, but the latter had no way of knowing this and the master-tactician further befuddled the Milwaukee entry by beckoning him on to close quarters Noticing this, Mitchell decided to play smart and stay away. The decision allowed Leonard to retain his title.

Outpointed for the next two rounds, he finally jockeyed himself back into shape and in the fourth round was carrying the fight to Mitchell in a way that indicated an early end. It came in the sixth round, when the fight was stopped to save Mitchell from further punishment.

Calls Nick Cullop, Who'll Join Yanks, Ruth's Next Rival

Art Griggs, former big league first sacker and manager of the championship Omaha club of the Western League last season, says that "Nick" Cullop, young first sacker of that team who will join the Yanks, is one of the greatest hitters he ever saw in baseball.

Griggs admits frankly that it will be a long time before the man bobs up who can hit them as far, consistently, as does Babe Ruth, but he does rise to remark that Cullop is a truly great hitter and will be Ruth's closest rival some day, not far distant.

Church Fives To Clash For Title Berth

The Lutherans and the First Methodist Protestants will battle tonight on the high school court, the game starting at 8:15.

The contest will be hard fought from start to finish for the team that wins tonight's contest will practically cinch the Sunday school league basketball championship for the first half of the season.

The First Methodist Protestants are leading the league by half a game, having broken the tie with the Lutherans for first plcae by their victory over the Chester Presbyterians Monday night.

A victory for the M. P.'s will give them the league honors for the first half while if the Lutherans win they will go into first place and only a defeat at the hands of the United Presbyterians in Saturday's game will keep them from getting away with the basketball laurels of the league.

Both teams are more than anxious to win and both teams will enter their strongest lineups for the game. The S. R. O. sign will probably be hung up before the game starts for both teams have large crowds of supporters who see nothing but victory for their favorites.

The First Presbyterians and the Park Boulevards will clash in the first game, the contest starting at 7:15. Both teams are tied for fifth place in the league and the winner of the game will be tied with the First Methodist Episcopal team for fourth place and although the Park Boulevards are considered to be one of the league's strongest fives the First Presbyterians are confident of giving the Boulevard boys a setback.

Runyon Says

Times Have Changed.
All the Reds Get $9,500.
The Return of H. Pollok.
He Is Back in the Game.
Tex Rickard and Boxing.

By DAMON RUNYON.

"Dazzy" Vance, voted the most valuable player of 1924 to his team, is said to have asked $10,000 for his services in 1925.

Also Vance is said to have threatened a "hold-out," which is baseballese for refusing to play, if he didn't get it.

You who are accustomed to reading of Babe Ruth's salary of $52,000 per year, of John J. McGraw's $65,000, of Ty Cobb's $30,000, will say that $10,000 is not a large salary for a player of Vance's ability.

Fifty-four years ago Vance's demand would have utterly horrified the baseball magnates and fans of the period. They would have said the man had gone crazy.

It was more money than the ten members of the greatest team of the period received. Their salaries totaled $9,500.

That was in 1870.

The Cincinnati ball club was organized on a professional basis.

Up to that period the game had been played as an amateur sport, the players were supposed to work at some profession as well as play ball.

But club owners were making offers to the best players, guaranteeing them more lucrative jobs than those they had, and otherwise violating the ethics of amateurism, just as is done today in some sports. So the Cincinnati club came out boldly and announced it was going to Hire players.

It first secured George Wright, authorizing him to engage the rest of the club.

George Wright, shortstop, $1,400.
Harry Wright, center field, $1,200.
Asa Brainard, pitcher, $1,100.
Fred Waterman, third base, $1,000.
Charles Sweasy, second base, $800.
Charles Gould, first base, $900.
Douglas Allison, catcher, $800.
Calvin McVey, right field, $800.
Richard Hurley, substitute, $800.

No one thought the professional venture would be successful.

It was difficult to get the players to sign. They didn't believe any organization could pay for the playing of baseball.

Times have changed.

It is strange what a hold the boxing game has on its old followers, especially those who have been actively associated with it.

It is not an easy game. It is a game of disappointments, of broken promises, a gambling venture at all times. A man devoting the same energy necessary to boxing promotion to something else ought to get rich.

But there is some strange lure, some fascination to the boxing game that keeps bringing them back again and again.

Harry M. Pollock is the latest to return.

Pollock was for years associated with Pat Powers in the promotion of the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden. Also he promoted boxing shows.

He was a gay, debonair figure along the Broadway of other years. Everybody knew Harry Pollok. He was as well known in boxing as Tex Rickard is to-day.

He managed young Corbett after Corbett beat Terry McGovern. He later handled Freddy Welsh, taking him to England and winning the lightweight title. He was still managing Welsh the night at the old Manhattan Casino, hard by the Polo Grounds in Harlem, when Benny Leonard won the title from the Englishman.

Then Pollock dropped out of boxing he said for good.

He was engaged in divers business pursuits for some years. He wouldn't even go to a boxing show, wouldn't talk boxing. Now he writes on a neatly engraved letterhead which says he is vise-president of the Olympic Auditorium, Inc.

He says his concern will have the biggest indoor club that has ever been built, seating 15,000. Of course, this will not be as big as Rickard's new Garden, seating 23,000.

Pollock describes the press stand seats at length. Perhaps he wishes to make the writer, veteran of many strange press stands, feel envious.

He says his auditorium will not be a pugilistic arena alone, however, that the seats can be cleared away in short order, leaving as much floor space as Madison Square Garden.

He plans trade shows, fairs, balls, athletic meets, and the like, also conventions, band concerts, and "extravaganzas." Mr. Pollock grows ambitious in his scheme of things.

California's return to long route boxing bouts was perhaps the chief consideration of Mr. Pollock's "comeback." But he is wise in planning his auditorium beyond boxing. The writer is inclined to the belief that after the first rush of prosperity due to the novelty, the boxing game in California will be exactly what it is in the East.

The California boxing fans are accustomed to the intensive ACTION of the four-round bouts. They will soon weary of the slower long bout, especially if they are some of the pugilistic gentlemen from the East now lookin for work on the Pacific Coast.

Of course, he will continue putting on boxing shows. But he is not spending $4,000,000 on the theory that he is going to get any considerable part of it back through boxing.

The boxing game at best leads a precaurious existence. It might be kicked out of New York State at any time. Rickard's new Garden will be designed for a ll manner of shows. Boxing will be largely incidental.

One six-day bicycle race is probably worth more to Rickard than three big boxing shows. The expense is less, the profit therefore greater. The MENTAL strain of conducting a six-day race is very light, compared to a boxing show.

Dolan Is Reported to Have Arrived In New York

District Attorney, However, Has Not Quizzed Ex-Coach

Last Night's Fights

Nurmi's Foes Are Set For Final Stand

Oppose Finn Tonight in Last of Millrose Events.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—American middle distance runners, beaten at every turn by Finland's two aces, Nurmi and Ritola, will make one last desperate effort to force either or both to accept defeat when the finale of the annual Millrose A. A. carnival is held at Madison Square Garden. Virtually the same field that trailed Nurmi to the wire in the world's record time of 3.03 4-5 in the three quarter mile special last night will face the man from Abo again tonight.

This time it will be the Wanamaker mile and a half and Nurmi with 13 records to his credit in as many attempts since coming here is a universal favorite to win. Even more sensational has been the running of Ritola during recent weeks. On Saturday night he lowered three of the world's records established by Nurmi and last night, in winning the three mile event, bettered two of these marks again. In addition he finished the full distance in 14:04, beating Rold 11 4-5 seconds.

An international walking race, bringing together Frigerio, of Italy, Olympic champion, Goulding of Canada, former holder of that title, and Plant, perenniel American champion, will be another feature of a program, top heavy with class.

Indoor Baseball Leaders to Meet At "Y" Tonight

Officials of the "Y" industrial indoor baseball league today announced arrangements have been completed for the league meeting tonight at 7:45 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A.

Every one interested in the organization of the baseball circuit is tendered an invitation to attend the conference.

Mamaux in No Hurry.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—According to reports from several sectors of the Broadway front, Mr. Albert Cozy Dolan, one of the star witnesses in the official probe of the baseball scandal, has slipped into town without so much as giving the district attorney a formal nod.

The latter, through one of his assistants, George Brothers, is conducting an inquiry into Jimmy O'Connell's ill-fated attempt to bribe Heinie Sand and is very anxious to find out whether Dolan still forgets to remember, as he did when questioned by Judge Landis.

The prosecutor is waiting patiently for Mr. Dolan to respond to his invitation to oppear before him. Mr. Dolan has neglected to do so. But several habitutes of Broadway's theatrical district claim to have seen Dolan within the last 24 hours, enconsed in his old haunts without apparent attempt at concealment.

It is also said that he has had a conference with his attorney, William J. Fallon, but this could not be varified.

There is an air of mystery to the entire business. One story had it that Dolan left his home in Oshkosh, Wis., several days ago.

His wife is said to have confessed ignorance of his present whereabouts but intimated, according to the story, that he might be found in Chicago, there the trail apparently ends, unless the Broadway Scouts have actually picked up the lost heel prints.

At the District Attorney's office, doubt was expressed that either O'Connoll or Dolan, the only men barred from baseball by the expose, would consent to appear for questioning. If the Landis decision were made to stand up in a court of law both would face prison terms under the New York statutes, and therefore, might be pardoned a slight degree of reticence about appearing before the District Attorney.

But not being under indictment, Dolan can come and go as he pleases around these parts and undoubtedly will be guided in his actions by his attorney.

The latter has said that Dolan would welcome an official investigation and perhaps the ex-player's alleged appearance here is the first step in his acceptance of the situation.

It may mean anything or nothing. It may mean that Dolan wishes to visit the scene of happier past. It may mean a gesture of bravado or even that the gentleman is giving a four card flush a good stiff play before the draw. Under the present arrangements he doesn't have to go to nearer the District Attorney's office than the upper end of Times Square.

Yet his open appearance in New York during the investigation would give the impression that he had nothing to fear or conceal.

Dolan threatened to bring suit against Landis some time ago and after retaining Fallon, dropped out of sight. The general ignorance of his whereabouts seems to be only another of Dolan's mysterious moves.

The New Chevrolet

is here. The best value on the market today at the price. All authorities agree that there will be a shortage of cars in the early spring. We recall the time two years ago when there was such a demand for the Chevrolet, that we sold more than the factory could let us have. This condition existed when the car in no way compared with the present New Chevrolet. We anticipate a greater shortage than ever before. Work is good everywhere except in this immediate vicinity, and will soon be god here. We have observed that Chester and East Liverpool are always the last to suffer from a depression, and usually the last to recover from it, but always good cities to live in and buy automobiles.

We advise you to place your order with us as soon as possible, regardless of where you live, and we will do our utmost to get your car for you at the appointed time.

Hoppe Will Resume Tourney Practice On Next Saturday

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—After submitting his injured arm to a searching medical examination, Willie Hoppe declared today that he would be able to resume his practice on Saturday for the international balkline championship tourney at Chicago late next month. Hoppe's recovery has revived talk of his proposed meeting with Bob Cannefax at three cushions.

Johnson-Jackson Bout in Michigan Called Off Today

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan.28.—The Jack Jonhson-Tut Jackson bout scheduled to be held here February 12 for the benefit of local crippled children was called off today after announcement was made by the Mary Free Bed Guild that it was not sponsoring the bout.

It is planned to hold a big open air bout next summer for the benefit of crippled children with the principals to be white boxers.

They're Business Men Now.

Frank Erne, old time ring star, says that modern fighters do not use their heads. They do, but not in the ring. They grow baldheaded trying to figure out how to make the biggest killing financially with the least effort in the ring. No one can accuse any of the present day champs of not fighting "heads up" in the box office.

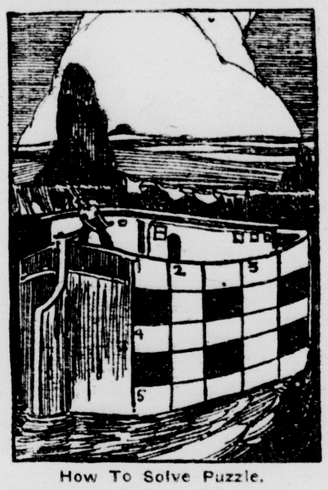
CHILDRENS CROSS WORD PUZZLE



How To Solve Puzzle.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper letters in the white squares will form words are found each combination of words. The key to the puzzle — the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

Running Across.

Word 4. Baby's stomach ache.
Word 5. A heavenly spirit.

Running Down.

Word 2. The nut of the oak tree.
Word 3. The first thing you do after waking up in the morning.

Haughton Protege To be Head Coach Of Columbia Squad

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Charles Crowley, an assistant coach under the Haughton regime, has been signed as head coach of football at Columbia University, according to reports in circulation today. Crowley is said to have signed a three-year contract last Monday at a reported salary of $15,000.

Yde Shades Dodger Star in Percentage Of Games Won, Lost

No one questions the greatness of Dazzy Vance's achievements in the National league last year, but there is one youngster who can boast of shading the strikeout artist in one column of the pitching averages. Emil Yde, rookie hurler with the Pirates, hung up a higher percentage of games won. He grabbed off 16 victories and lost but three games for a percentage of .842.

Middleweight Mat King Winner Over Ex-champ Parelli

CHICAGO, Jan. 28. — Lou Talaber, middleweight wrestling champion, retained his title today. He defeated Joe Parelli, former champion, in two straight falls here last night. The first fall with a reverse double wrist lock in 1:31:16 and with the same hold taking the second fall in 7:50.

The New Chevrolet

is here. The best value on the market today at the price. All authorities agree that there will be a shortage of cars in the early spring. We recall the time two years ago when there was such a demand for the Chevrolet, that we sold more than the factory could let us have. This condition existed when the car in no way compared with the present New Chevrolet. We anticipate a greater shortage than ever before. Work is good everywhere except in this immediate vicinity, and will soon be god here. We have observed that Chester and East Liverpool are always the last to suffer from a depression, and usually the last to recover from it, but always good cities to live in and buy automobiles.

We advise you to place your order with us as soon as possible, regardless of where you live, and we will do our utmost to get your car for you at the appointed time.
